

In War...
As In Peace,
You Can't Go Home Again

(This is the first of two columns by Hal Boyle on the famous American Third Division, with which he landed in Africa two years ago and with which he has now teamed again. Boyle refers to the landing, but not to the fact that French tracers were sweeping the reef where his boat was swamped, and that he almost died before he made shore.)

By HAL BOYLE
With American Troops in France, Nov. 13 (Delayed) (AP)—You can't go back again in war—any more than you can in peace.

Two years ago this month, I landed with the Third Division's doughboys on the forbidding "iron coast" of French Morocco on a rain-misty morning which opened combat operations by the American forces in the Mediterranean area.

A short time ago, I again had the chance to see this famous division—many officers rank it as a tie with the First Infantry Division for fighting honors in the American Army—during a visit to the Seventh Army area in the Belfort gap sector.

It was like going back to a college class reunion after a lapse of many years. You are cheered to see the old faces—but you yearn for the faces that are missing.

No Change In Spirit

The last time I was with this outfit, it was completing its hazardous and historic fording of the Volturno river in Italy north of Naples. That was almost exactly a year ago. That isn't long in the life of one man—but it is a long time in the life of a division in wartime.

I saw many changes in men and in methods, but there was no change in the outfit's spirit. Units of caliber of the "Fighting Third" have a continuity of spirit which exists above and beyond personnel and endures from war to war.

Despite all depletions resulting from battle drains, sickness and transfers, there always exists a nucleus which acts as a torch-bearer for organization spirit, transmitting it to the thousands of new men who step in to fill gaps in the ranks.

Finds Old Friends

Still in this Third Division nucleus, still caretakers of its spirit, I found several old friends, but particularly three: Maj. George H. Pezell, of Beaver, Pa.; Lt. Col. Grover Wilson, of Bellingham, Wash.; and Maj. Hugh Scott, 30, of Salem, Ore.

All have found promotion. George—still the same slim, friendly, enthusiastic soldier of two years ago—was a lieutenant then. Grover was a major and Hugh, now his chief assistant, then was a captain fresh from a newspaper office.

For hours, we talked of old times and fading battles—in Morocco, in Sicily, and in Italy—when the invasion of France and the march into Germany still were far off dreams.

It's always painful when you go back to a division to ask after old friends—yet you always ask. You can't help asking. And almost always you learn that death or battle mischance have befallen some you knew and liked. Then you wish you'd never gone back—that you always should go on to new men and new units and never look behind.

All New at Fedala

"Remember that morning at Fedala?—we were all new then," said George.

Yes, none of us ever would forget that morning we went into Africa. I remembered a tall, young soldier who looked at me as I was buckling on my pack before getting out on the black deck to climb down the swaying ladder into an assault boat.

"If you wear that heavy combat jacket and get pitched into the water, you'll drown sure as hell," he said. "Take it off!"

I took it off.

Two hours later we crashed into a coral reef and floundered out into foamy surf over our heads. Because I was lightly garbed, I was able to swim to the reef and make it ashore. Except for that soldier, I would have drowned. . . . "Sure as hell"—I hesitated, then asked about him. He was gone, too, they told me.

"We were a good division then all right," said George, "but we are a better outfit now. Our boys are tired but they have the same old spirit and know how to fight better now. They're professionals. We were really just well-trained amateurs then."

He was right undoubtedly. But I will take the division when it still held those hundreds of boys who hit the beaches at Fedala and now lie buried on the battlefields of four countries. That is the Third Division I always will remember—the division that no longer really exists except in memory.

In war—as in peace—you can't go "home" again.

WINS VERDICT FOR $10,000 IN DAMAGE ACTION

John A. Luckenbaugh, Spring Grove R. 2, was awarded $10,000 damages in a civil suit in a jury verdict returned in court here this morning against J. P. Haughwout and Charles Haughwout, proprietors of the Glen Lock Dairies company, Sunbury.

Luckenbaugh had brought the suit to recover $25,000 damages which he charged he suffered in an automobile accident at the Cross Keys highway intersection between New Oxford and Abbotstown, January 15, 1942. Luckenbaugh was burned about the face, hands, wrists and on the right leg when gasoline which was on the front seat of his car spilled and ignited after the crash.

The Haughwouts had been sued as owners of the truck which was involved in the wreck. The truck pulled out from the York Springs-Hanover road onto the Lincoln highway, on which the Luckenbaugh car was traveling east, and was struck on the right rear side.

Return Sealed Verdict

Charles McMasters, of Spring Grove, who was riding in the front seat with Luckenbaugh, and was holding the jug of gasoline, was badly burned in the crash and died about five weeks later as a result of his injuries.

The jury retired at 4:10 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the conclusion of testimony for both sides and returned a sealed verdict about 6:15 o'clock that evening. The verdict was not returned to court until this morning at the opening session at 9:30 o'clock.

Luckenbaugh was represented by Eugene V. Bullett, Esq., Gettysburg, and William W. Wogan, Esq., and Arthur Markowitz, Esq., of York. Richard A. Brown, Esq., was attorney for the defendants.

John E. Slusser, Gettysburg R. 5, was awarded damages of $466.30 in another action in trespass after a jury deliberation of about 15 minutes this morning. Slusser had sued Clyde J. Lawrence, New Oxford R. 2, for the damages which allegedly were caused to Slusser's automobile when struck by a car driven by Lawrence.

Testimony began in the Slusser (Please Turn to Page 3)

Marriage License Is Applied For

Wilmer E. Roth, 437 Carlisle street, and Mrs. Ida Hartley Sperry, 301 Carlisle street, applied today for a marriage license at the office of Clerk of the Courts Mrs. Howard W. Sheffer.

Mr. Roth is manager of the Adams County Cold Storage plant, Franklin street. Mrs. Sperry is a daughter of the late Howard C. Hartley, former owner of the Dougherty and Hartley dry goods store, Center square. The license will be issued Monday.

HOME DAMAGED IN $500 BLAZE

Damage estimated at nearly $500 was caused by fire this morning when a kerosene stove exploded in the kitchen of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harner, Gettysburg R. 1, a half mile west of Barlow.

Barlow firemen had the flames under control when members of the Gettysburg company, summoned about 8:45 o'clock, arrived.

The blast, which burst the fuel tank of the stove, flung flames over the kitchen, searing the walls, burning curtains and woodwork and causing some damage in an adjoining room. Heavy smoke added to the damage and hampered firemen while a number of windows were broken by the intense heat.

Esther Harner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harner and a member of the sophomore class at Gettysburg high school, was home alone at the time but happened to be out of the house at the woodpile when she heard the explosion and then found the kitchen in flames.

She summoned her father who was working in a cornfield some distance from the building while neighbors called the firemen. The Harner telephone was put out of service by the blaze.

Mr. Harner carries insurance.

Weather Forecast

Reads Times In France

Pvt. Eugene J. Weishaar, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Weishaar, Bonneauville, is pictured with a copy of The Gettysburg Times, dated August 22, 1944, which he received in France. Pvt. Weishaar was reported as having died in Italy last February 5. The War Department reported him alive on March 13. The county soldier has been overseas two years and before going to France last August had been in Sicily and Italy. His fiancée, Miss Mary Weaver, Bonneauville, received the picture recently.

Visits Mother Of "Missing" Flyer

S. Sgt. James Prendergast, Philadelphia, who accompanied T. Sgt. Donald Omar Price, on many missions overseas recently spent several days with Price's mother, Mrs. Helen D. Price and son, Bill, Troxel apartments, Baltimore street.

T. Sgt. Price was reported missing July 26 by the War Department.

S. Sgt. Prendergast was resting at the Isle of Capri when T. Sgt. Price went on his last mission. Price was to go to Capri for a rest following his mission.

Prendergast revealed the crew reported Price's plane received a direct hit in the bomb bay and the plane became a mass of flames. Three crew members were seen to bail out.

Mrs. Price received a letter from the War Department on November 22 stating that no further report in his case has been forwarded to the department.

Gets Promotion In Hospital In Italy

Mr. and Mrs. David Orner, Shady Acres, Gettysburg R. 4, have received word that their son, Pvt. Roland Orner, who was wounded in action in southern France September 2, has been promoted to private first class while he has been confined to an Army hospital in Italy.

Pfc. Orner's brother, Pvt. Amos Bruce Orner, and the latter's wife and mother-in-law, Mrs. John Cochran, are visiting at the Orner home along the Harrisburg road. Pvt. Orner is on a 16-day furlough. A number of friends were entertained Thursday evening at the Orner home.

Watchers Watch Guard Of G.I. Votes In Court House

It's been many a day since any election irregularities have been uncovered in Adams county—but the official watchers for the count of the soldier vote here Wednesday and Thursday weren't taking any chances.

They "suggested" that a guard be placed at the steel door of the vault in the commissioners' office where the ballots were kept and when that request was carried out by the commissioners the watchers proceeded to take turns sitting up throughout Wednesday night watching the guard who was watching the locked vault door.

The watchers were Maurice Wareheim, as a representative of the state auditor general's office, and J. Harry Troxell from the state treasury department. Sheriff John E. Millhines detailed Deputies Blaine Walter of Biglerville and Ralph Millhines of New Oxford to court house duty for the night. One guard

SOLDIER VOTES INCREASE GOP MARGINS HERE

With the completion of the counting Thursday of 883 ballots cast by Adams county men and women in service, Republican candidates, with a single exception, found their civilian-vote leads bolstered by the GI results.

The exception was in the contest for the two seats on the superior court where P. Clair Ross, a Democrat, was second high man. Former Governor Arthur H. James led the field; Ross was second, and J. Frank Graff, the second Republican candidate, trailed Ross by a single vote. On the combined service and civilian vote, however, the two Republicans led by more than 2,500 votes.

A total of 915 service ballots were returned here out of the 2,529 mailed to men and women in the service. Twenty-six of the votes had to be rejected because the jurat or affidavit was not executed and one ballot was "spoiled"—a serviceman voted three straight tickets on the one ballot. Not one of the servicemen's votes was challenged here.

F.D.R. Topped By 2,906

Thomas E. Dewey topped Roosevelt by 26 votes in the soldier voting which gave Dewey a final lead of 2,906 over Roosevelt in Adams county.

Assemblyman Francis Worley, who had the biggest civilian vote margin in the voting November 7, had his final lead over his Democratic opponent, George E. Little, boosted to 3,083.

The count of the service vote was begun Wednesday and was resumed (See Chart on Page 3)

WAR BOND SALES HAVE EXCEEDED $300,000 MARK

War bond sales in Adams county over the Thanksgiving holiday zoomed over the $300,000 mark while Gettysburg high school students sparked the school drive with sales exceeding $11,000, it was announced today.

Total sales thus far in the county-wide campaign since the inception of the drive last Monday were reported today at $303,035.75, an increase of $62,165 since Wednesday.

The Women's Division headquarters in the lobby of the Hotel Gettysburg today reported new sales amounting to $13,175.

Gettysburg high school, where the campaign is under the direction of Miss Louise Ramer, reported sales of $11,545.45. This includes bonds and stamps.

Littlestown grade schools turned in a total of $1,175 while the high school reported $1,125 in bond sales. Lincoln school in Gettysburg sold $925 worth of bonds.

Baby Bonds

Baby bonds were reported as follows: Charles W. Littleton by Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Littleton.

Lynn Stevens Bream by Donovan D. Bream.

Twelve employees of The Gettysburg Times in service, including one who was killed at Cherbourg and one with a medical discharge after being wounded on the Anzio beach-head in Italy, were placed on the Honor Roll. They are William Small, Norman Small, Wendell Patton, Mark R. Frazer, Donald L. Carver, Donald Turner, Joseph Bosak, G. Henry Roth, William C. Deemer, Andrew W. Weikert and James H. Harness, recently discharged and Horace M. Bushman, killed in action. Their names will be placed on the honor roll through the purchase of bonds by The Gettysburg Times.

Others added to the Honor Roll include:

Pvt. Joseph E. Smith, Jr., by Mrs. Joseph E. Smith.

S. 1/c Max Sherman by JoAnn Sherman.

T-3 Howard J. Hummer, Cpl. Joseph Sherman, Pvt. Herman Donaldson and Chaplain Lt. Col. J. Bernard Henry all by Mrs. Mares Sherman.

FIRE COMPANY PREPARES FOR ANNUAL VOTING

Members of the Gettysburg fire company nominated two or more men for each company post at the postponed November meeting of the company in preparation for the annual election of officers to be held next month. Most of the current officers are among the nominees.

President James B. Aumen, recently returned from Philadelphia where he submitted to an eye operation, presided at the meeting with about 50 members present.

The list of nominees follows: President, James B. Aumen and Harry Mort; vice president, Richard Cole and Donald C. Stallsmith; recording secretary, S. Richard Eisenhart and Raymond E. Menges; financial secretary, George D. March and John H. Bashore; treasurer, Joseph Codori and Gilbert McKenrick; chief, James A. Aumen and Amos Weikert; first assistant, Paul Oyler and Raymond Bisbing; second assistant, Cyril Staub, Carl Oyler, Joseph McKenrick and Donald Myers; representative to the Southern association, Henry Herring and Richard Cole; state association, Francis Stevens; chaplain, L. D. Shearer and Charles Zeigler, and drillmaster, Raymond Bisbing.

Sunday Scrap Collections

The firemen voted to continue their monthly scrap collections in Gettysburg but decided to hold them on Sunday afternoons in the hope that more firemen will be able to help. "Because of the patriotic nature of the work," one company spokesman said, "we feel there will be no objection to carrying it on on Sundays. So many of the members are working during the week that it is almost impossible to get enough out to do the job on week-end evenings."

The company voted $100 for new (Please Turn to Page 3)

Big Armada Flies From Saipan Isle; Take Strausbourg

With the U. S. Seventh Army at Strasbourg, Nov. 24 (AP)—American and French advance units were reported today to have crossed the Rhine east of the Strasbourg area. These apparently were reconnaissance elements and not necessarily spearheads of a major drive across the flood swollen river.

London, Nov. 24 (AP)—French armor cleaned out the whole western part of Strasbourg today and the Germans asserted that a surprise attempt to capture a bridge there across the Rhine had been frustrated.

On the hottest corner of the western front, however, a violent German counterattack with six or seven divisions, half of them armored, threw the British Second Army out of Hoven on the muddy Cologne plain, three miles northeast of captured Geilenkirchen.

Flame throwers were used. The men of Lt. Gen. Miles C. Dempsey stood firm on the high ground overlooking the Wurm valley north of the levelled hamlet. Still further north, the British absorbed all German counterattacks and inched forward, yard by bloody yard.

Flanking the British to the south, the American Ninth and First Army offensives in the valley of the turbulent Roer river slowed to a sticky crawl or even were checked entirely while the Germans threw wave upon wave of counterattacks at Allied lines. The fighting centered at the approaches of Julich, highway town on the Roer 25 miles from ruined Cologne.

Near Saarbrücken

The American Third Army beyond Metz captured Oberluren and deepened its northern wedge into Germany with gains of two to four miles yesterday. The front of Lt. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., edged slowly toward the Saar industrial and rail center of Saarbrücken, 15 miles from forward lines.

British troops in Holland moved within easy field gun range of the Maas river town of Venlo, a mile and a half away.

Snow, rain and fog slowed the drives in the Vosges mountains and beyond Belfort where American and French units were striving to bag thousands of Germans of the 19th Army. London heard an unconfirmed report that Field Marshal Gen. Johannes Blaskowitz in the southern front had been removed from his German command.

The French capture of Strasbourg sealed off the Rhineland escape route for remaining troops of the German 19th Army, once estimated to number 70,000 men.

Strausbourg Captured

At the north end of the western front British forces captured Blerick, two miles from the Dutch border city of Venlo on the Maas river. The Tommies drove on to within 2,500 yards of the river citadel.

The French Second Armored Division by last night had cleared the Germans from the west half of Strasbourg and captured more than 3,000 prisoners, including two generals. More than 50 miles to the south the First French Armored Division seized Battenheim, four miles north of Mulhouse.

This latter force, thrusting north down the Rhine, was the southern jaw of a giant pincers reaching around the broken enemy Vosges mountain line. The French who had sped through the Saverne gap into Strasbourg formed the northern jaw.

Prepare To Flee

In a frontal attack French and Seventh Army American troops were charging through three of the main Vosges passes, while the Germans, massed boats and barges along the Rhine in an effort to save all the troops that the bomb-damaged bridges cannot accommodate. Seriousness of the plight faced by the Germans was reflected in a reconnaissance report that disclosed the Nazis have permanent rail and highway bridges across the Rhine only at Strasbourg and at Karlsruhe, 40 miles to the north.

But nowhere was the going as (Please Turn to Page 7)

MEMORIAL RITES

Services honoring the memory of Pvt. Samuel Edgar Spangler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rush Spangler, Littlestown R. 2, who was killed in action in France on August 25, will be conducted in Christ Reformed church, near Littlestown, on Sunday at 2:30 p. m. The service will be open to the public.

Twenty-First Bomber Command, Saipan, Nov. 24 (AP)—A mighty armada of B-29 Superfortresses blasted Tokyo today with hundreds of tons of bombs, opening what Gen. H. H. Arnold said was "an attack which will be carried on relentlessly from the air until the day of land-sea invasion" of Japan's home islands.

An undisclosed number of Superforts roared from newly-completed airbases here at dawn for the 3,000 mile flight which marked the initial attack on Japan's capital by land-based planes and its first bombing since April 18, 1942.

(A Japanese Imperial communique reported about 70 Superforts participated in the raid on Tokyo today (Japanese time) and claimed three were shot down.

(The communique, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission in a Tokyo broadcast, said the B-29's raided Tokyo for about two hours, starting at 12:20 p. m.

"Our damages have been slight," the imperial communique said, "and the result confirmed up to now is three enemy planes shot down."

Daylight Assault

"Residential sections, including one hospital, were slightly damaged," the propaganda broadcast said. It added there was "no fire," against which Tokyo has taken elaborate precautions.

"Several enemy planes also appeared over central Japan," the broadcast said, "but fled without causing any damage."

Brig. Gen. Emmett "Rosie" O'Donnell of Jamaica, N. Y., 38-year-old former West Point football coach, led the historic daylight assault, believed to be the largest attack yet made on Japan's homeland.

The aerial task force was from the recently-established 21st Bomber Command of the 20th Army Air Force, operating from the Marianas, under the command of Brig. Gen. Hayward S. "Possum" Hansell, Jr., of San Antonio, Texas.

The first use of these bases south and east of Tokyo creates a two-way aerial squeeze against Japan's vital industries, with other B-29's from China, to the westward.

Pound Industries

First official announcements of today's raid merely said a "sizeable task force" of superforts "attacked industrial targets in Tokyo." Another communique was promised when further details were available.

Early reports gave no indication of the bomb loads carried. But the Army Air Forces revealed yesterday in Washington that a Superfortress can carry at least 10 tons of bombs. Some B-29 flights are known to have included 100 planes.

The airmen were briefed to avoid the imperial palace, in the capital's heart, and shrines and temples.

They departed from here well aware that the raid would not be a surprise to the Japanese, long forewarned by reconnaissance flights and practice B-29 bombing missions against Truk and the Bonin islands. The flight bore little resemblance to the first thrust of 16 medium bombers, launched from a carrier, which hit Tokyo in 1942 under Lt. Col. (now Lt. Gen.) James Doolittle.

His historic importance was underlined by General Arnold's personal report to President Roosevelt.

No Hit-Run Raid

"This operation," he said, "is in no sense a hit-and-run raid. It is a calculated extension of our air power . . . no part of the Japanese empire is now out of our range, no war factory too remote to feel our bombs. The battle for Japan has been joined.

"The systematic demolitions of Japan's war production, begun six months ago from China bases, henceforth will be carried out with decisive force, softening up the Japanese heart for the ultimate invasion by combined United Nations land, sea and air forces. This will not be accomplished in a short time. The battle is just beginning. But today we opened against Tokyo an attack which will be carried on

Yanks Take Limon From Jap Troops

General MacArthur's Headquarters, Philippines, Nov. 24 (AP)—Mud-slogging American infantrymen lunged southward from Limon today after capturing that bastion of the Japanese Yamashita line in the climax to the longest and bitterest fighting of the entire Leyte island campaign.

The Japanese first division has been practically destroyed. Gen. Douglas MacArthur said in announcing that the Yankee 32nd had smashed into and through Limon yesterday after a typhoon-slowed battle that had remained fairly static for two weeks.

General MacArthur in his communique said the American victory at Limon may result in the rolling up of the entire Yamashita line upon which the enemy depends in his fight to hold Leyte island.

The communique said the Americans had advanced 1,000 yards south of Limon and had reached the near-by Leyte river.

"Terrific Losses"

The weight of American arms threw the enemy off balance and forced him to take the defensive. In his communique announcing the victory Gen. MacArthur credited (Please turn to Page 7)

Reds Gain In Czechoslovakia

London, Nov. 24 (AP)—The Russian Fourth Ukrainian Army was on the move again today in eastern Czechoslovakia after a four week fighting lull.

Moscow announced last night the fresh drive by Marshal Ivan Petrov's forces already had ground out gains up to 16 miles on a 25-mile front west of Ungvar, Carpatho-Ukraine city which fell Oct. 27. The thrust, apparently aimed at the big highway and rail hub of Kassa (Kosice), has overrun 30 populated places as well as Casp, a railway junction 15 miles south of Ungvar.

Kassa lies about 45 miles north, northwest of the Hungarian communications center, Miskolc, itself threatened from the south and east by units of Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Second Ukrainian Army sweeping through Hungary.

While Petrov's troops were reaching Sobrance, ten miles northwest of Ungvar, Malinovsky's army units recaptured Tokaj at the lower end of an approximately 55-mile active front between those two points.

The Russian communique reported capture of more than 3,000 German and Hungarian prisoners north and northeast of Casp, and 2,500 in two days of battle in Hungary. Moscow said the total taken since Nov. 8 in Hungary now stands at 14,470.

GERMANS MAY FIGHT IT OUT NEAR COLOGNE

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

While you and I were snug and safe in the Thanksgiving atmosphere of our homes, the Allies pressed their great drive against the Rhineland.

The fighting is especially fierce in the Aachen sector where the battle of the Cologne plain is getting under way. This engagement in the rolling terrain before the proud-est of the Rhineland cities may be the decisive battle.

Certainly the Allies are determined to make it not only the deciding battle of this war, but of all wars for a long time to come. Speaking of outlasting war, anniversaries like Thanksgiving naturally brings up memories, and one recalls it was just twenty-six years ago that a "defeated" German army marched through Cologne after the armistice, and the city's newspapers blazed the headline: "Greet our unbeaten army."

Allied Delusion
At the same moment the Allied forces, happy in the delusion that they had won a war to end all wars, were marching in accordance with armistice terms to occupy the Rhineland where now other United Nations soldiers are struggling with the selfsame Prussian militarism. I was attached to the British. We passed through the tidy streets of ancient Aachen—today in ruins. We went through Dueren, rail and highway center on the Roer river—a city which is one of the immediate objectives of the American Third Army. And so to Cologne.

Nowhere in Germany was there any sign that the greatest war of all time had just been fought. The countryside was trim. Neither city nor hamlet bore scars of conflict. We might have known then that we hadn't won the war but had only secured a breathing spell.

It's Different Now
This time it's different. The Allied air navies have poured death and destruction over the length and breadth of the Reich. And now Nazi Field Marshal Von Rundstedt seems bent on holding in the Cologne plain west of the Rhine as long as he can with what's left of the decimated armies that marched out with Hitler to conquer the world. This means he's prepared to make a terrible sacrifice of life in an effort to delay inevitable surrender.

Well, if they want it that way it's probably all to the good for our children. When the remnants of the Hitlerite Army stagger back through Cologne this time, there won't be any newspaper screaming "Deutschland Uber Alles."

The Roer river is the next major natural obstacle the Allies have to overcome in the Aachen sector. Once across that there's open country in which a battle of movement can be staged. There are, of course, canals and not far from Cologne there is the river Erft. But the Allies can hit their stride once they're across the Roer in force.

May Be Last Battle
Two of the principal crossings of the Roer are the neighboring cities of Juelich and Dueren, both important road centers. Bitter fighting is going on in this area, for Von Rundstedt is counterattacking with armored forces to protect these strategic points. Apparently he has stripped other parts of his battle line in order to cover up in this vital sector.

Just above Lt. Gen. Simpson's American Ninth Army, which is only a couple of miles from Juelich, the British Second Army also is encountering heavy fighting. The Germans have been counterattacking strongly with tanks and have recaptured Hoven, northeast of Gelsenkirchen.

There's another highly important thought in connection with the battle of the Cologne plain. If Von Rundstedt does elect to make his big stand west of the Rhine, it may mean that this will be the last big battle. That is, once he is committed to this course he won't find it easy to retire behind the river defenses.

Divorce Libels Are Filed Here

Two libels in divorce were filed this morning at the office of Prothonotary Arthur H. Shields at the court house.

In the one case, John Frank Greenwald, formerly of Gettysburg, now a sergeant in the paratroops at Camp McCall, North Carolina, is suing for a divorce from May Elizabeth Greenwald, of Gettysburg. A serious charge was made as grounds for the divorce. The couple was married April 2, 1937, and separated July 16, 1942, the papers state. Dwight C. Johnson, of Gettysburg, was named correspondent in the case.

The second libel was that of Lottie Elizabeth Snyder, of Gettysburg, versus Maurice Charles Snyder, of Harrisburg, with desertion and cruel and barbarous treatment given as grounds. The Snyders were married July 5, 1923, and separated August 14, 1942.

Pfc. Robert A. Widder, Army Air Field, Murco, California, is spending a furlough at his home on West Middle street.

The U. S. Forest Service Ladies met Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. J. R. Jones, West Lincoln avenue, who entertained them with reviews of "Chicken Every Sunday" and "Half-Way House." Assisting the hostess were Mrs. R. W. Fassett and Mrs. J. H. Gruesbeck. The group knitted afghan squares for service hospitals and discussed plans for a Christmas party to be held for their children on December 23. The next meeting will be held December 6 at the home of Mrs. H. A. Purnell, 205 Baltimore street.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Tate, of St. Louis, Mo., are visiting this week with Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Shaw, Eberhart apartments. Mr. Tate is the deputy excise commissioner for St. Louis. He formerly was with the United States Secret Service. A son of the late Dr. T. T. Tate, of Gettysburg, he is an uncle of Mrs. Shaw.

Mrs. Francis Wisotzky, 44 Breckenridge street, returned Thursday from Jacksonville, Fla., where she spent a week with her husband, S. C. Francis Wisotzky, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wisotzky. She was accompanied on the trip by Miss Sarah Wisotzky, sister of Seaman Wisotzky.

Miss Vivienne Rebert, a cadet nurse at the Jefferson hospital, Philadelphia, spent Thanksgiving with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Rebert, 112 Hanover street. Robert Silby, a pilot for the U. S. Air Lines, was also a guest at the Rebert home.

A.T. David Morgan has returned to Hondo, Texas, after spending a furlough with his mother, Mrs. Hope Morgan, Cashtown.

A rehearsal for the pageant "We Give Thanks" will be held in the chapel of St. James Lutheran church this evening at 6:30 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Riggall and family were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Creager, Buena Vista, when Mrs. Creager's grandparents celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. The couple is in their 76th year.

Miss Jane Corbett, a student at Wesley Junior college, Dover, Delaware, is spending the Thanksgiving recess with her mother, Mrs. William M. Corbett, Carlisle street.

Mrs. Robert Weikert has returned to Philadelphia after a ten-day visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Wavell, Steinwehr avenue.

Pvt. Richard M. Millard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Reed, Baltimore street, is a patient at the Brooke General hospital at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, as a result of a serious eye condition. He was admitted to the hospital on November 14. The condition of the eye is reported improved.

Mrs. George F. Staley and daughter, Rose Marie, have returned to York after a visit with Mrs. Staley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Lawrence, West Middle street. They were accompanied home by Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence and their sons, Pfc. John Lawrence and Pfc. Floyd Lawrence. This is the first time in a period of five years that the Lawrence boys have seen each other, the former having returned from Fort Myers, Va., and the latter from the Pacific war theatre.

SOLDIER HELPS RESCUE BUDDY FROM QUAGMIRE

Headquarters, Panama Canal Department (By Mail)—A McKnightstown soldier in the Panama Coast Artillery Command played a leading role recently during the blackout rescue of a sailor who was almost buried alive in a quagmire 250 feet off shore of a tide lagoon on the Pacific coast.

The victim, a chief petty officer whose name was withheld by the Navy, was imprisoned up to his neck in what came within minutes of proving a muddy grave when the combined efforts of Cpl. Raymond D. Keller, of McKnightstown, Pa., and several other Coast Artillerymen saved his life.

Himself bogged down in mud up to his waist, and sinking deeper every moment, Cpl. Keller helped build a makeshift bridge out of planks, ladders and a rowboat. It took 45 minutes before one of the soldiers reached the trapped sailor and forced a rope around his shoulders, enabling men on shore to drag him in.

Form Human Chain

Headlights from Army jeeps, staff cars and command cars illuminated the eerie scene as the rescue party formed a human chain in order to reach the screaming victim who lost consciousness just as aid came.

Revived upon reaching safety, the petty officer was rushed to a Navy hospital where his condition was reported as good. He told his rescuers that he didn't know how he stumbled into the quagmire, and said the last he remembered was being at a ship's service store on a naval reservation nearby.

Cpl. Keller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Curtis Keller, and his brother, Harold Edwin Keller, live in McKnightstown.

He is a motor transportation dispatcher in a headquarters unit. In civil life, he was a form setter employed by the H. J. Williams Construction Co., York. Cpl. Keller has served with the Coast Artillery forces in Panama since Jan. 2, 1944.

BOMBED TOKYO SPRAWLS OVER 225 SQ. MILES

(By The Associated Press)
Tokyo, bombed today by a large force of B-29 Superfortresses, is the capital of an empire which now claims dominion over nearly half a billion human beings, nearly half a billion military, political and economic power, home of the emperor and therefore fountainhead of the fanatical worship which was a mighty factor in setting Japanese legions marching.

It is the world's third largest city. The Japanese insist it is second, ranked only by New York, with London third. This calculation is based on figures that show the suburbs away from London. It is certainly the second largest city to know the horrors of air bombardment, surpassed only by London, if you accept the non-Japanese figures.

225 Square Miles
Five years ago a census gave Tokyo 6,500,000 inhabitants. Almost certainly the booming war industries have raised that figure above 7,000,000, perhaps 7,500,000.

Tokyo sprawls over some 225 square miles running back from the reclaimed lands along Tokyo Bay across some low hills into the Musashi plain beyond. It is subdivided into 35 wards, of which 15 make up the old city. Twenty have been added in the last dozen years as the city engulfed the outlying towns and villages.

Ranged about the emperor's palace are the government buildings, including the general staff, war office and navy office buildings and the official residence of Premier Kuntaki Koko from which the real government of the empire is conducted. Nearby, beyond the palace plaza, is a thickly congested section of modern buildings, the Marunouchi district, economic capital.

Many Industries
Here also is Tokyo central station, hub of the country's communications system. No railways run through Tokyo. All start there.

Industry of all kinds crams the wards around the rim of the city. Formerly most of the factories were given over to textiles, paper making, food processing, light consumers' industries. Nearly all these now have been converted to war purposes. Tokyo's industrial fringe offers one of the most inviting military targets in the world. The Doolittle raiders slashed at those industrial wards and it is likely the Superfortresses fixed their bombights on the same districts.

Hockey Battle Is Under Protest

New York, Nov. 24 (AP)—The Eastern Hockey league has a protested game and an indefinitely suspended player on its hands today following a torrid tilt between the Philadelphia Falcons and the Washington Lions.

Philadelphia won the game 9-4, but it's under protest and due for airing November 30. Falcon defense man, Joe Desson, drew the indefinite ban for assaulting Referee Murzin according to President Tom Lockhart after the official had handed out a 5-minute penalty and then a 10-minute misconduct sentence.

Tradition Picks Army Over Navy

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 24 (AP)—Depending on which way you interpret Omens, the Army was assured of victory or defeat at the hands of Navy, December 2, by yesterday's 7-0 triumph of the Engineers over the Goats.

When the Engineers win the annual Thanksgiving Day fray tradition says the Navy takes the big one. But last time the Cadets sunk the Middles in 1938, the Engineers had "assured" a Navy victory by trimming the Goats.

SOLDIER VOTES

Thursday morning although in many counties in the state, election officials observed a holiday. By 4:30 p. m. Thursday the count was complete and the soldier and civilian votes had been totaled, ready for certification to Harrisburg this morning. Early this week it had been estimated the count here might require three days.

Final Official Figures

The last of the service votes that were counted were received Wednesday. This morning two arrived from overseas but had to be ignored for November 22 was set as the deadline for the reception of the soldier votes. One had been voted a week after election day and could not have qualified no matter when it was received here but the jurat on the second showed it had been executed before election day and could have been counted had it arrived by Wednesday.

In the following list the soldier vote received by each candidate is listed in the first column and the official total soldier-civilian figure is given in the last column:

One soldier voter wrote in the names of Wendell Willkie and John W. Bricker as his choices for President and Vice-President, respectively. At the court house it was suggested that the GI may never have learned of Willkie's death or that the vote had been cast before the Republican leader's death.

furnishings for the men's ward at the Warner hospital. The donation was in response to an appeal from the hospital auxiliary. A $2 donation was given the county tuberculosis society.

Harold Culp was proposed for membership in the company and his name was turned over to this committee for investigation and recommendation: Joseph Codori, Lester Oyler and Paul Oyler.

Receive Donations

The company received a $100 check from the Rt. Rev. John L. Sheridan, president of Mt. St. Mary's college at Emmitsburg, which accompanied a letter of thanks to the local firemen for the splendid work "they did in battling flames at the college the night of November 7. 'If it had not been for the fine work of your firemen, the college would have been totally destroyed.'" President Sheridan wrote.

The fire company also received a letter from Lt. R. D. Matthews, USNR, commanding officer of the Navy unit at the college, thanking the firemen for helping save Navy property at the college in the same blaze.

A $25 donation was received from Garland Baker in appreciation of the services of the local firemen when fire damaged his truck here recently.

The company named this committee to go before the borough council with a list of equipment needed by the fire company: President James A. Aumen, Treasurer Joseph Codori and Secretary Raymond Menges.

Air Experts Will Meet In Harrisburg

Harrisburg, Nov. 24 (AP)—Aviation experts from 14 states and representatives of leading air lines are expected here next Tuesday and Wednesday for a conference on post-war air problems.

The conference is sponsored jointly by the Council of State Government and the Pennsylvania Commission on Interstate Cooperation with Floyd Chalfont, secretary of the state Department of Commerce acting as chairman.

Speakers will include Henning W. Prentiss, Jr., of Lancaster, chairman of the Pennsylvania Postwar Planning Commission, and George W. Burgess, representing the U. S. Department of Commerce.

States to be represented include Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Illinois, Indiana, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Rhode Island, Vermont and Virginia.

OVERSEAS HOSPITAL

Philadelphia, Nov. 24 (AP)—Philadelphia's physicians, dentists and hospital personnel will finance a complete 1,500-bed overseas hospital by buying $1,000,000 worth of war bonds. Dr. Charles M. Brown, president of the Philadelphia County Medical society, announced last night.

DIES OF INJURIES

East Stroudsburg, Pa., Nov. 24 (AP)—Miss Anne Arnold Chase, of Philadelphia, a former resident of Washington, died in General hospital yesterday of injuries received in an automobile accident November 19. Her summer home was at Mt. Pocono, Pa.

MOTOR DEATHS ON DECREASE

Harrisburg, Nov. 24 (AP)—The State Bureau of Highway Safety reported today 27 fewer persons were killed in Pennsylvania in motor vehicle traffic accidents in the first nine months this year than in the comparative period of 1943.

Accidents claimed the lives of 855 persons, 442 in rural areas, up to October 1 against 882 deaths a year ago. In slightly more than 50 per cent of the 1944 fatalities, pedestrians were involved.

Increases in fatalities were shown in 33 counties, however, with Clearfield heading the list. Ten more deaths were reported in that county so far this year than in the same period of 1943.

Decreases in traffic deaths were listed for 29 counties with Philadelphia first with a decline of 35 and Lackawanna second with 18 fewer killed than in the first nine months of 1943.

LAPSE OF MEMORY

Denver, Colo., Nov. 24 (AP)—Although Corp. Richard H. Jacobs of St. Louis has written to his fiancée nearly every day for six years, he was so excited he couldn't remember her address when he filed out a furlough application, asking time off so he could go and marry.

Jacobs had to consult a Memphis, Tenn., directory to learn her address.

The word lien signifies the right of a person in possession of property belonging to another to detain such property until some debt or demand in connection with the property is satisfied.

Rev. Ralph W. Baker Takes New Charge

The Rev. Ralph W. Baker, formerly of Gettysburg, was installed as pastor of the Saegerstown-Venango parish of the Pittsburgh Synod of the United Lutheran church at services last Sunday morning at the Saegerstown church.

The Rev. Dr. P. H. R. Mullen, secretary of the Board of American Missions, conducted the service while the Rev. C. W. Baker, Jr., Duquesne, a brother of the pastor, preached the sermon. Special music was furnished by the Bethesda Orphans' home choir.

Mrs. C. W. Baker, Sr., mother of the pastor, and the Rev. C. W. Baker, Jr., were guests of the pastor at the parsonage at Saegerstown over the week-end.

Just Folks

PHEASANT QUARREL

Two ring-necked pheasants in the yard
I've watched all summer as they've sparred,
And wondered: Is it lack of pluck
That not one blow has either struck?

They dodge and duck; take quick steps back,
And then spring forward to attack.

Assuming many a fighting poise,
Just like antagonistic boys.

Who'll boss the pheasant flock, no doubt,
Is what the quarrel's all about,
But since they parry every blow,
Just how it's settled I don't know.

Thank God, if pheasants must dispute,
They don't make deadly guns to shoot,
And don't, when they are moved to fight,
Destroy themselves with dynamite.

WALKING AROUND—BIG

When Walt Whitman stated that he was "immense," he meant to convey that he held within himself the thoughts, the aspirations, hopes and faith of millions, as well as atoms of the big, broad earth—its winds, seas, valleys, mountains and streams.

The more we gather of thoughts and ideas, of sights that thrill and move, and of the substances that stir men's minds and make them benefactors, world leaders, and humanitarians, the more we walk around big. And we don't have to be famous, or wealthy, or anything but our own selves to make this a fact to us. We know—and that's enough.

A man's pride in his own kingliness is a great asset. His intelligence is his own, to do with as he pleases. That's his precious inheritance.

It isn't what a man puts into the bank, not the great gathering acres to his estate, not the temporary power that he may have attracted to himself that is most fundamental to him—but the feeling and conviction within his heart that he holds within himself something of all this earth, something of the experiences of every man, something of the lessons of history, and something of the urge and hope of the humblest human being.

One can walk around big, without selfish pride, but with wholesome pride that he has not sold himself out, indebted himself to something for which he has not the funds to pay. The explanation is himself—and so he walks big before all men, unafraid and free.

This is a comfortable and happy feeling for any man to have—and any man may have it! An ear to events, an eye to all beauty, and a heart for all feeling, are what make a man feel that he does walk around big—with wholesome thoughts ever moving within his mind.

Anyone can welcome within himself the experiences, thoughts, aspirations, and faith of an endless number of human beings. There is no limit to this self-gathering. No limit to vision, no limit to selfless ambition.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Hope Springs Eternal."

The Gettysburg Times
FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

G. W. Weaver's Will Close to Settle Estate: G. W. Weaver and Son's dry goods store, Center Square, which has served residents of Gettysburg and Adams county for forty-four years, will go out of business as soon as a sale, which begins Tuesday morning is concluded. William G. Weaver, manager, has announced. Mr. Weaver added that the business is being closed out in order to settle the estate.

Hamlet Will Be Presented Tuesday Night: The first presentation of Shakespeare's immortal tragedy, "Hamlet," in Gettysburg will be given by the Owl and Nightingale dramatic club of Gettysburg college at the Eddie Plank memorial gymnasium, Tuesday evening.

The production will be given in costumes of the Elizabethan period. Stewart W. Herman, Jr., of Harrisburg, will interpret the difficult title role.

Couple Weds Friday Night: With only immediate families in attendance, Miss Margaret L. Tawney, Gettysburg, and Horace L. "Piney" Bender, Hanover, former athlete and coach at Gettysburg college, were married at 8 o'clock Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Klinefelter, Baltimore street. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Earl J. Bowman.

The couple will go to housekeeping next week at the home in connection with the Hanover steam bakery, Baltimore street.

Admiral Benson on Visit Here: Admiral William Shepherd Benson, one of the outstanding Naval officers before and during the World war, was a visitor to Gettysburg on Thursday. Accompanied by a party of friends, Admiral Benson motored here and stopped at the Hotel Gettysburg. He later visited Gettysburg college.

Gives $100,000 to Ohio School: Public announcement has been made of a donation of $50,000 for the erection of a new library and another $50,000 toward a $350,000 endowment of the library from Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Musselman, of Biglerville, to Bluffton college, at Bluffton, Ohio.

The new library will be known as the Musselman Memorial library.

Huber Picture Being Framed: P. W. Muncy, New York artist, has finished painting a portrait of Dr. Charles H. Huber, headmaster at Gettysburg academy. The picture was sent to Baltimore Tuesday to be framed. After the picture is framed it will be hung in the lobby at the academy.

Mr. Muncy is also engaged in painting a portrait of Mrs. Hanson and a group picture of the three children of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Keith, Carlisle street.

Local Man Is Married: Miss Mary Kathryn Steinberger, daughter of Mrs. F. J. Steinberger, Gettysburg R. D. 10, and John A. Codori, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Codori, York street, were married Tuesday morning at seven o'clock at a nuptial mass in St. Francis Xavier's Catholic church. The Rev. Fr. Mark E. Stock was celebrant.

Miss Josephine Steinberger and Edgar J. Steinberger were the attendants.

Miss Marie Codori sang Loeche's "Ave Maria." Miss Mary Ramer was at the organ.

Mr. Codori is the local dealer in Hupmobiles. The bride was associated with her brother in the management of Piney Mountain Inn.

3 Persons Who Heard Lincoln's Talk Tell of Their Impressions: Three persons who heard President Lincoln deliver his famous address at the dedication of the National cemetery here, participated in exercises commemorating the sixtieth anniversary of that occasion at the Corporal Skelly G.A.R. post room Tuesday evening.

The trio, Daniel Skelly, Mrs. T. C. Billheimer and Miss Lillie McClean recounted their impression of the events for a large crowd which had gathered at the post room for the annual exercises arranged by the Sons of Veterans of the Civil war.

New Teacher Elected: Miss Elmira Ruff, Hummelstown, was elected teacher of the first grade at the Meade building to succeed Miss Bess Raffensperger, whose resignation becomes effective December 6, at a special meeting of the Gettysburg school board, Saturday morning.

Miss Ruff, who formerly taught in the Gettysburg schools, resigned her position here about eight years ago, when Miss Raffensperger was elected to teach the first grade at Meade building.

Personal: Mrs. Harvey D. Lewis and her daughters, Misses Elizabeth and Alexandria, who landed in New York on Friday from Paris, where the Misses Lewis were studying art, have returned to their home in Orrtanna.

Mrs. Charles Henry Huber has issued cards for a tea at her home on Carlisle street, on Friday afternoon, November 22.

MYERS HOLDS SLIM MARGIN IN G.I. VOTES

Philadelphia, Nov. 24 (AP)—Election officials in 49 of Pennsylvania's 67 counties continued their tabulation of military ballots today after a Thanksgiving Day layoff.

Returns from 18 counties indicate that the G-I tallies are maintaining the Nov. 7 civilian margins for President Roosevelt and all Democratic candidates for statewide offices.

Early reports also indicate that the validity of thousands of Pennsylvania military ballots is being questioned. In Philadelphia alone, 5,000 of the 58,173 ballots returned were questioned on the grounds that the jurat, an affidavit by the voter on his qualification, was improper.

County authorities will pass upon validity of questioned ballots at a later date.

18-County Tally

The 18-county military ballot tally:

President—Franklin D. Roosevelt, 8,701; Thomas E. Dewey, 6,929.
U. S. Senator—Francis J. Myers (D), 7,904; James J. Davis (R), 7,734.

State Treasurer—Ramsey S. Black (D), 8,048; Edgar W. Baird, Jr. (R), 7,361.

Auditor General—G. Harold Wagner (D), 8,369; G. Harold Watkins (R), 7,142.

Supreme Court—Charles Alvin Jones (D), 7,997; Howard W. Hughes (R), 7,474.

Superior Court—F. Clair Ross (D), 8,677; Chester H. Rhodes (D), 7,730; Arthur H. James (R), 7,080; J. Frank Graff (R), 6,468.

The official statewide civilian vote tabulation gives President Roosevelt a better than 66,000 majority with only one county missing. In the close Supreme court race, Jones picked up an additional 496 vote margin in the 18-county military ballot total to add to his 2,126 civilian lead.

BRITISH CROSS COSINA RIVER

Rome, Nov. 24 (AP)—British Eighth Army troops have crossed the Cosina river in the hills southeast of Faenza and have established five small bridgeheads against strong German resistance along a two and a half mile front. Allied headquarters announced today.

German infantry was supported by heavy artillery and mortar concentrations in this critical area for the defense of the Bologna-Rimini highway stronghold, but the British captured a bridge at the river bend and tanks crossed to aid the foot soldiers.

At another point British troops crossed the river, captured the town of Pigna and proceeded to expand the bridgehead.

On the left flank Polish troops advanced a half mile north of San Biagio and seized Monte Ricci overlooking the Marzeno river.

In the Adriatic coastal sector, positions along the Montone river, between Ravenna and Highway 9, were unchanged.

American troops on the Fifth Army front south of Bologna repulsed enemy raids against the outpost northwest of captured Livernano and troops on Monte Cavallo.

U. S. Ships Shell Matsuwa Island

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, Nov. 24 (AP)—Advancing unmolested to within 600 miles of the Japanese home island of Hokkaido, warships of the U. S. Ninth fleet shelled Matsuwa Island Tuesday, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced yesterday.

Great fires and explosions were observed during the attack on the Kurile island base and no American ship was damaged, Nimitz said. Japanese batteries along the fog-bound coast remained silent. It was the third time Matsuwa has been under naval gunfire. The last previous task force bombardment was on June 12-13, and was a feat before the landing on Saipan, June 14.

The Rev. and Mrs. W. D. E. Scott observed their 45th wedding anniversary on Sunday with members of the family in attendance at dinner.

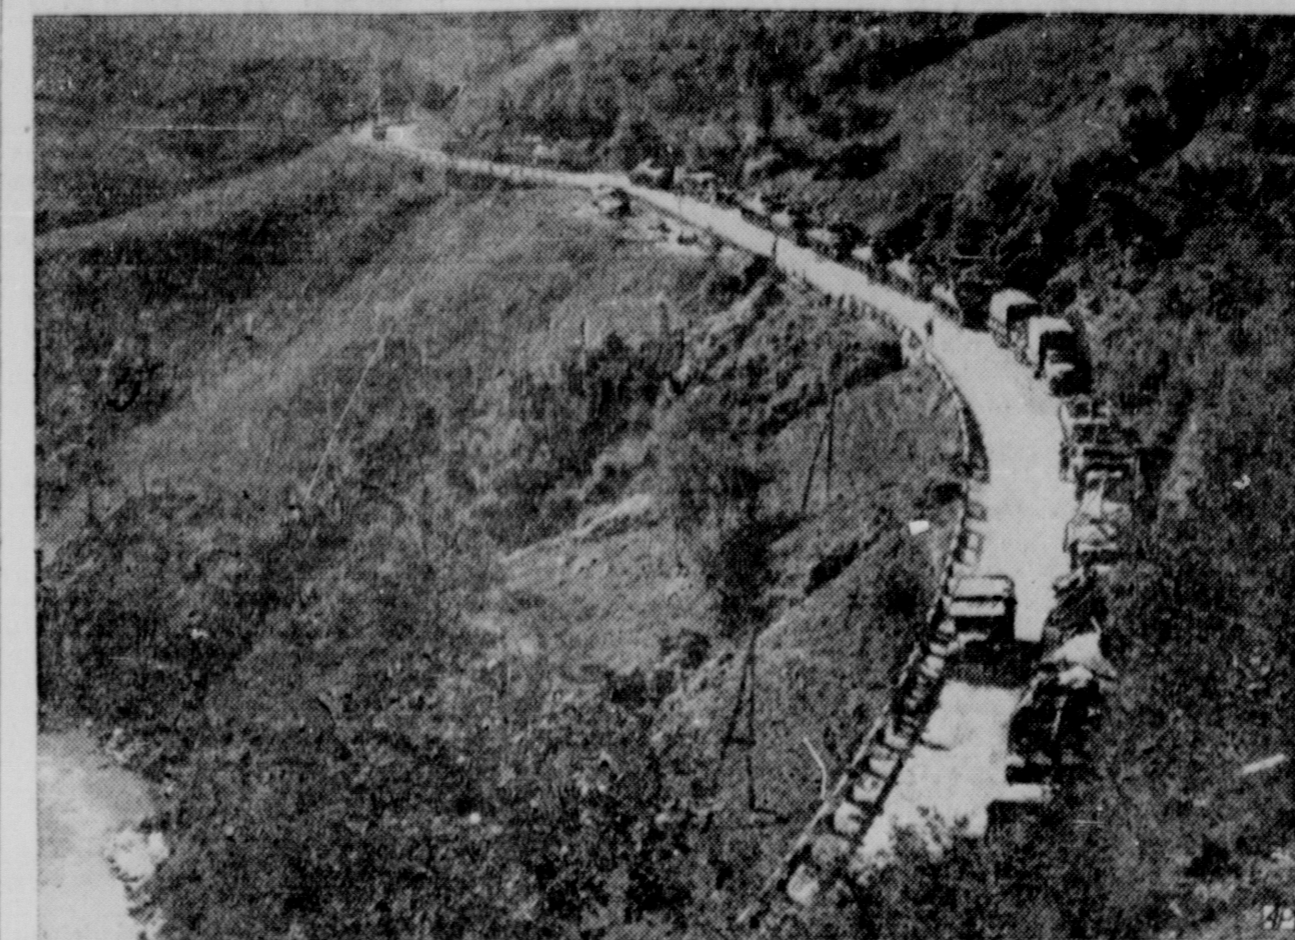

Mr. and Mrs. Clair Van Dyke, Gettysburg Route 10, announce the birth of a daughter Friday morning.

Carl Oyler, York street, foreman of the Oyler and Spangler fertilizer works, is spending a week inspecting fertilizer plants at Richmond, Norfolk, Mt. Jackson and elsewhere in Virginia.

Dr. Padra Holmes Wilson, of the California State Teachers' college, was a recent guest of Miss Bess K. Raffensperger.

Mrs. C. K. Gilbert, Hanover street, has returned home after spending three weeks with friends in Indianapolis, Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Tyson have returned to their home in Lockport, New York, after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Forney, Lincoln Way West, and Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Tyson, Flora Dale.

FORWARD IN ITALY—Tanks and supply trucks line up along the Fifth Army front in Italy as British soldiers prepare to push forward into the valley below.

TITO PROPOSES FEDERATION OF BALKAN STATES

London, Nov. 24 (AP)—Proposal by Marshal Tito to establish a new Yugoslavia Federal Democratic government embracing six states was announced last night by the Free Yugoslavia radio.

The partisan leader was quoted as saying in an interview with a Bulgarian newspaperman that the new government would apply all its powers "to the closest collaboration and reapproachment with its Balkan neighbors," particularly Bulgaria.

Federal units under the new government would be Serbia, Croatia, Slavonia, Macedonia, Bosnia, Hercegovina and Montenegro, the broadcast said.

6 Governments

It was the first official statement disclosing any particulars of the recently-concluded agreement between Tito and Dr. Ivan Subasic, premier of the exiled Yugoslav government. Subasic saw Marshal Stalin in Moscow yesterday.

"Each Federal unit," Tito said, "will have its national government. At the head of federative democratic Yugoslavia will be one single government. The final internal organization will be carried out after the liberation of the country through the constitutional assembly to which the peoples will send their representatives selected in free elections."

Meanwhile, from the country's capital, Belgrade, came the story of the three and one-half years of Nazi occupation that ended last month with the city's liberation by the Red Army and Marshal Tito's partisans.

Red Celebration

George Bria, Associated Press correspondent who accompanied the first group of newspapermen to visit the city, said he found a cold, bomb-scarred metropolis resounding to the songs of thousands of partisans training and drilling in streets bedecked with the Red star, hammer and sickle and pictures of Tito and Stalin.

Nearly every downtown building has scars from Allied bombing and most windows are shattered. There is no apparent food shortage in the city, but prices have skyrocketed.

Mosquito Planes Again Bomb Reich

London, Nov. 24 (AP)—Squadrons of British Mosquito bombers dropped two-ton bombs last night on Hannover and other objectives behind German lines. Intruders shot up Nazi airfields.

Before dark, American and British bombers each dropped 500 tons of explosives on the Nordstern synthetic oil plant at Gelsenkirchen in the Ruhr in a double attack. Two British bombers and three U. S. fighters were lost to ground fire. No interceptors were seen.

Negro Lynched For 2 Murders

Pikeville, Tenn., Nov. 24 (AP)—Within six hours after and less than 100 yards from where he admittedly slashed and battered two white women to death, James I. Scales, teen-age negro trusty at a state reformatory near here, was shot to death yesterday by a number of men who removed him from the Pikeville jail.

Victims of the bloody slayings were Mrs. Charles H. McKinnie, 19, and her mother, Mrs. H. E. Scott, who died last night in a Chattanooga hospital. Scott is superintendent of the institution, the state training and agricultural school for negro boys. He was away at the time of the tragedy.

"There will be a full investigation of both the murders and the lynching," asserted State Highway Patrol Chief Lynn Bomar who took charge on orders of Gov. Prentice Cooper.

Japs Claim Nine Yank Ships Sunk

(By The Associated Press)
Japanese broadcast unconfirmed by Allied sources, claimed today that two American submarines and seven warships and transports, including an aircraft carrier, were sunk or damaged in Philippines waters this week.

An Imperial communiqué, recorded by the Federal Communications commission, asserted Japanese planes intercepted a convoy east of Mindanao island Tuesday and in a three day attack sank two transports and one cruiser or destroyer, and damaged an aircraft carrier.

The communiqué also claimed "three more enemy warships of unidentified type" were damaged on Sunday in the Japanese aerial counterattack on the carrier force which attacked Manila. Adm. Chester W. Nimitz has already reported no U. S. ships were damaged.

Domel news agency asserted additional "enemy submarines" were sunk in the southwest Pacific bringing to eight the number the Japanese claim to have sunk in ten days.

654 Workers May Lose Plant Jobs

Lock Haven, Pa., Nov. 24 (AP)—Approximately 654 employees of the Piper Aircraft corporation today faced the possibility of losing their jobs as a result of a cutback in the Army's Air Force contract with the plant. Philip M. King, manager of the U. S. Employment Service office here said yesterday he anticipates no difficulty in placing all released workers in other essential-war work in Clinton county.

FAR EAST COMMANDER

London, Nov. 24 (AP)—The Berlin and German-controlled Budapest radios declared last night that Russia's Marshal Klimenty Voroshilov had been appointed commander-in-chief in the far east and has probably already taken up his new post.

COURT FREES ARMY COLONEL

Baltimore, Nov. 24 (AP)—Col. Jesse A. Rogers, Jr., former commander of the Ordnance assembly plant at the Edgewood Arsenal was free today of a charge of "wrongfully" authorizing the transportation of a load of gasoline from West Virginia to Edgewood. He was acquitted yesterday by seven Army officers at court martial proceedings.

Colonel Rogers, now attached to the Frankford Arsenal ordnance depot at Philadelphia, had been charged with ordering Otho Hawk, a civilian employee at Edgewood, to transport a load of unrefined gasoline from the Columbian Carbon Company's drilling near Ripley, W. Va.

At an extradition hearing before Gov. Herbert R. O'Connor of Maryland last July, Hawk testified that Colonel Rogers had ordered him to bring the gasoline to Edgewood, although it was not government property.

A Third Service Command spokesman said that a court mar-

CONGRESS MAY ADJOURN DEC. 10

By HOWARD FLIEGER

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—Rough spots developed today to clutter the administration's path to a December 10 adjournment of Congress.

There was trouble in both Houses for the planned "non-controversial" legislative agenda which the 78th Congress hopes to get through before the final gavel.

The House Ways and Means Committee gathered to consider bringing out a bill to freeze for another year the Social Security payroll tax rate at one per cent each on worker and employer. Such a move is certain to encounter strong administration resistance although a bloc of Democrats and Republicans in the House and Senate will back a freeze.

Without such a bill the Social Security tax will double with the start of the new year. Its increase has been held off for years by legislation preserving the one per cent rate.

Also in the House some members of the Judiciary Committee considered forcing out a constitutional amendment to break up the Senate's traditional two-thirds vote control over treaties and give the House a voice in the coming peace.

In the Senate a billion dollar flood control measure, one of the bills on the short-session agenda, hit a debate-laden snag when Senators Langer (R., N. D.) and Murray (D., Mont.) put in an amendment which would authorize a Missouri Valley Authority, flood control and power project patterned after the Tennessee Valley Authority.

OPPOSE DRAFT OF CANADIANS

Ottawa, Nov. 24 (AP)—The Canadian government's abandonment of its policy of sending only volunteer troops overseas brought quick opposition last night from the French-speaking province of Quebec, traditionally against any form of conscription.

Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King's position was strongly threatened from all sides. It appeared he might be forced from office and a general election called.

In a matter of hours after the Prime Minister announced in the House of Commons that an order-in-council had approved partial conscription and made 16,000 drafted men available for service abroad, two Quebec members of parliament said they were withdrawing from the Liberal party, the government party.

Air Minister C. G. Power of Quebec announced he had quit.

In the city of Quebec, where violence broke out in the last war over the conscription issue, 700 youths paraded last night carrying banners reading "Down With Conscription." Bulletin boards were pulled down from the Quebec Chronicle Telegraph office and windows there were broken.

MARGINS OF LEISURE

We like to read books with wide, white margins. They are read more easily, and have a restful effect upon the mind while reading. Thoreau once wrote: "A broad margin of leisure is as beautiful in a man's life as in a book." I thoroughly agree with him.

Walk down any crowded street, or look about you in any big gathering, and note the look upon the faces about you. There you see worry, anxiety, fear and trouble. Too much time is evidenced on those faces, as given over to the mere making of money, the attaining of "position," or to the gaining of temporary advantage over someone else. What a waste of life!

The margins of leisure—the study of Nature, the giving over of time and effort to some worthy cause, resting in the lap of Nature, far from the maddening crowd, these are to live, to learn, and to conserve the precious forces bequeathed to us by our Creator.

None of us is so important in this world that he can afford not to take advantage of every occasion to rest, to dream, a little, and to think—alone in some secluded spot, or in conversation among one's own congenial kind. I liked the late Bob Davis and his manner of roving about the world—seeing interesting and absorbing sights, and delving into the beauties and wonders of men and minds, countries and towns, and telling the world about it all—as his way of getting fun, laughter and happiness out of life.

I have just received a most interesting letter from a man who is an inmate of a Penitentiary. I have the feeling that when he comes into freedom again he will be a good and valuable citizen. Here is a line from his letter: "An integrated personality is impossible save as the individual finds outside himself valuable interests, in devotion to which, he forgets himself. To be a whole person we must get ourselves off our hands."

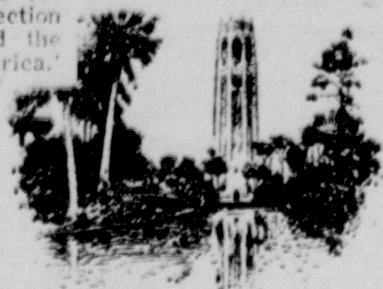

A most intelligent statement, if it is his own.

If we devote much of our lives to making others happy, our margin of leisure is both wide and

THANKSGIVING

For every brave boy, land and sea,
And of Thy spacious skies,
Hear us, dear Lord, whose prayers
To Thee
From grateful hearts arise.

For all their courage under care,
Their patience under pain,
This day we come with grateful prayer
And shall each night again.

For every miracle of aid
Which faith in Thee restored
And brought to safety boys who prayed,
We thank Thee, gracious Lord.

Grant soon, we pray, that victory
We long have waited for,
When peace on earth again will be,
And war shall be no more.

DECLARES U.S. WORLD'S BEST

London, Nov. 24 (AP)—The United States was hailed as the world's greatest military and naval power by Prime Minister Churchill in a surprise Thanksgiving address last night.

Speaking at Albert Hall before 3,000 persons including American servicemen attending a concert, Churchill said the Allies were moving irresistibly and "perhaps, with God's aid, swiftly towards victorious peace."

Never more than now have Americans had justification for Thanksgiving, the Prime Minister said, "when we see that in three or four years the United States has, in sober fact, become the greatest military, naval and air power in the world." He added:

"It is a British and American Thanksgiving that we may celebrate today. And why is that? It is because under the compulsion of mysterious and all-powerful destiny we mobile dealers unanimously adopted the national used car system at their second meeting, held Friday evening in Hotel Gettysburg. This action was taken after C. W. Epley and E. C. Ott had reported their findings in adjacent towns and cities, relative to the system used by dealers there.

Personal: H. C. Herr and family, of Savannah, Georgia, were recent visitors at the home of J. I. Ohler and family, Hanover street.

Rev. J. Harold Little, Ellmore Slaybaugh, Jr., and Donald Stine are in Potter county hunting bear.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Vaughn, Lincoln Way West, have returned from a two days trip to Washington.

Miss Ann Keet, Chambersburg street, is spending the week with relatives in Elizabethtown.

Mrs. Henry W. A. Hanson and son, T. Painter, College Campus, have returned from a visit with relatives in Cleveland, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. William G. Weaver, Broadway, and Mrs. Charles K. Miller, York, are entertaining at a week-end house party at Graeffenburg Inn.

Mrs. Bentz, of Spring Grove, is spending a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Sheffer, Chambersburg street.

WINTER GRAINS

Harrisburg, Nov. 24—Fall weather conditions have been most helpful to farmers and winter grains are making excellent growth, according to the November 1 general crop report of the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service, State Department of Agriculture. Weather was ideal for harvest and the absence of killing frost until mid-October enabled many late planted crops to reach maturity. Some wheat fields were seeded quite late and a few were still to be sown by the first of the month.

are together. We are joined together, shedding our blood side by side, struggling for the same ideals and joined together until the triumph of the great causes which we serve has been made manifest."

From the continent Gen. Eisenhower marked the Thanksgiving Day occasion with a broadcast to the United States calling for over-subscription of the Sixth War Loan drive for vital fighting equipment "needed now."

WIDESPREAD PHONE STRIKE IS CALLED OFF

By NORMAN WALKER
Washington, Nov. 24 (AP) — The nation breathed relievedly into its telephones today, spared of a threatened widespread strike that could have tied up its communications in wartime.

Telephone operators who had quit their jobs in 29 Ohio cities, Washington and Detroit went back to their switchboards. Similar walk-outs which had shown every sign of developing in New York and elsewhere promptly faded.

The suddenness with which the strike ended last night compared with the speed with which it had grown.

It will be up to the War Labor Board now to adjust differences between the ex-strikers, their employers and their expressed targets—operators brought in from outside and given living expense bonuses not received by residents.

Had Rebuffed WLB
Up until late yesterday leaders of the union, the National Telephone Workers Federation (independent), had rebuffed the WLB. Then, in the face of prospects for government operation of the telephone companies, they called the whole thing off.

Backing the WLB also were such weapons as power to take away union security privileges, as one board source noted in citing a west coast dispute where a union lost its closed shop provision for disregarding WLB orders, and the loss of draft deferments as happened in the Philadelphia transportation strike.

Union leaders said they anticipated fair treatment in a peaceable settlement; they showed no signs of feeling they had lost in the contest to date. Neither did they say there had been any promises exchanged.

Suspends Dates For New Tariffs

Harrisburg, Nov. 24 (AP) — The Public Utility Commission has further suspended for additional investigation use of new rates filed by the Philadelphia and Western Railway company, moving the effective date from December 1, 1944, to March 1, 1945.

The Philadelphia and Western operates an electric system between 69th street in Philadelphia and Norristown, carrying passengers and freight. The suspended schedule names carload commodity rates from Millbourne siding, connecting with the Pennsylvania railroad to stations along the right of way.

Among other charges the P.G.W. proposes to increase the rate for the transportation of coal from 20 cents to 50 cents per gross ton.

Carbon Monoxide Gas Kills Five

Erie, Pa., Nov. 24 (AP) — Carbon monoxide gas—and not food poisoning—killed Mrs. Bertha M. Wolfe and her four young sons here last October 17, a coroner's jury of six physicians has decided.

Neighbors had found the children dead and the 22-year-old mother unconscious at their modest home here under circumstances that suggested food poisoning. Mrs. Wolfe died at a hospital.

The jury's verdict followed an inquest at which District Attorney Burton R. Laub announced technicians at the state police laboratories in Harrisburg, at which chemical tests were made on vital organs of the victims, reported the deaths were caused by carbon monoxide poisoning.

Detectives Probe Shooting Of Driver

Pittsburgh, Nov. 24 (AP) — A Philadelphia truck driver was found dead today in a third-floor bathroom of a rooming house here with a 30-cal. rifle wound in his chest, homicide detectives reported.

The driver, Thomas Coats, 23, was found by Ralph Johnson, 27, a fellow truck driver, and Sophia Bunch, 23, who told detectives they were talking to Coats through the door when they heard the shot.

Homicide detectives said although the shooting was apparently suicide, they were holding seven persons as material witnesses. They said they could determine no motive and needed explanation of certain circumstances connected with the death.

Opposed To Using PWs In War Plants

Carlisle, Pa., Nov. 24 (AP)—The local post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars objects to German war prisoners being used at the C. H. Masland and Sons mills, where material for the U. S. government is being manufactured.

At a meeting of the Corporal Orlando Newcomer post, No. 477, a resolution was passed stating that the members protested the use of the German prisoners, adding that they are being transported from New Cumberland in buses that could be used for other war vital transportation needs.

Copies of the resolution were sent to the Masland mills and to the state commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

40,000 LEAVE JOBS IN YEAR

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 24 (AP)—More than 40,000 New Jersey war workers let their jobs during the period from September 1, 1943, to September 1 of this year, creating the most critical labor situation in the state "in the history of the war effort," State Manpower Director Thomas F. Costello said today.

Costello charged that general apathy and complacency about the course of the war on the part of New Jersey workers who were available but were not participating in the war effort caused the situation, and warned that unless a need for 40,000 workers in 250 of the state's "A-1" priority rated concerns was fulfilled, partial or total curtailment of production of civilian goods might become necessary.

"At no time in the history of the war effort has such a critical labor situation existed in New Jersey," Costello declared, asserting that despite both the intensified recruitment activities carried on by the State War Manpower commission throughout New Jersey and in southern and mid-western states

Tokyo Raid

relentlessly from the air until the day of land-sea invasion.

Lt. Gen. Millard F. Harmon, deputy commander of the 20th Air Force under Arnold—as today's communiqué revealed—said "we must and will sustain and intensify our attacks for many months to come before victory will be in sight."

Yanks Take

Yankee artillery and superior infantry fire power with inflicting "terrific losses" on the Nipponese.

It was the second Japanese division whose virtual annihilation has been announced by MacArthur. Earlier he had reported the destruction of the Japanese 16th, which had played a leading part in the defeat of American forces at Batuan.

American warplanes ranged the air and dealt other damaging blows to the Japanese. Heavy bombers blasted supply dumps at Ipil, South of Ormoc, and destroyed large warehouses. Fighter planes wrecked a Japanese motor pool and strafed communication lines below Valencia, about 12 airline miles south of Limon.

Light naval units maintained vigilance against any enemy effort to land reinforcements or supplies, sinking a small freighter, two tug-boats and three troop-laden barges off the Camotes Islands. Enemy air action was insignificant, MacArthur said, and American patrols shot down one plane.

Western Front

savagely as to the north where the U. S. First and Ninth Armies and the British Second were meeting the most desperate kind of Nazi resistance.

British and American troops slugging with the enemy northeast of Gellenkirchen saw the opposition was as bitter as any they had encountered since Normandy.

Against the U. S. Ninth Army the Germans used more of their new Tiger Monster tanks, bringing the Ninth's attack almost to a halt after it had closed to less than two miles of Julich-Roer river stronghold just 25 miles west of Cologne.

The Americans recaptured Lohm, southwest of Julich, knocking out eight German tanks and bringing the total destroyed on this front to 83.

The word luxury is derived from a Latin word, luxus, meaning "superfluous abundance."

Emmitsburg

The Cub Scout Pack, a sub-division of the Boy Scouts of America, recently was organized under the direction of L. Dow Strader, Cubmaster attached to the Red Cross unit at Camp Ritchie. The Cub organization is sponsored by the local Lions club, with Dr. Oscar Stinson, chairman of the Lion's committee, Major H. J. Kregel, chaplain, and J. Norman Flax and L. Dow Strader as members of the committee. The Den mothers are Mrs. Oscar Stinson, Mrs. Norman Flax, and Mrs. Lucy Corl. There will be an installation ceremony on November 28, when the Cub's charter will be presented. The regular meetings of the Cub will be held at the hall in the Flax building, the last Tuesday of each month. The Den meetings will be held weekly at the home of one of the Den mothers. Parents and all others interested in the welfare and advancement of the youth of the community are invited to attend the meetings. At each monthly meeting a subject of activity will be discussed. Each cub will give a demonstration of the theme "What I want to be," at the next meeting.

The Cubs are divided into three Dens, each under the supervision of a Den chief, Robert Gillean, Paul Harner and William Cadle. The cub members are: William Umble, Frankie Stinson, Kenneth Kiehl, Patrick Boyle, Michael Boyle, Richard Shoemaker, Charles Baker, James Wagaman, Lewis Corl, George Damuth, Charles Murphy, 3rd, John Deegle, Jack Kregel, Donald Flax and Frederick Bower. Blue uniforms with yellow neckerchiefs are worn by the Cubs.

George Wilhide, director of the Sixth War Loan campaign announced that Frederick county's overall quota is $1,750,000, made up as follows: "E" bonds $525,000; individuals (inc. "E") $1,000,000; corporations $750,000. All banks in the county have been assigned a quota based on percentages of their deposits. Emmitsburg's quota is $42,000 which includes $9,000 "E" bonds; $25,000 (including "E") sales to individuals and $17,000 sales to corporations. I hope that individuals will volunteer their services in an effort to sell the full quota of bonds in our district, and those desiring to help will please get in touch with me at the Farmers State bank.

Postmaster Lewis Stoner has posted a notice as follows: "Xmas greeting cards for soldiers overseas must be mailed in sealed envelopes, prepaid at the first class rate. Please mail soon."

The ladies of the St. Joseph's Catholic church report $786 realized from meals served at noon and evening last Saturday. The candy table was in charge of Mrs. Edgar Mullen; cake table in charge of Miss Anna Codori; fancy table in charge of Mrs. Guy Topper, sandwich table in charge of Mrs. Charles Keepers; novelty table in charge of Mrs. Clarence Wachter and the dinner and supper tables in charge of Mrs. Lewis Topper. Mrs. Thornton Rodgers was general chairman of arrangements. Rev. Francis Rogers expressed his appreciation of the full measure of help given by the members of the church and the people of the community.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Reformed church expressed its appreciation of the help extended to them at the food sale last Saturday, which netted $125.

A solemn high mass of Thanksgiving was said at 8 a. m. Thursday at St. Joseph's Catholic church, the celebrant was Rev. Francis L. Rogers.

C.M. Officers of the mass were Seminarians from Mt. St. Mary's college. The mass was followed by Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

The ladies of the Toms Creek Methodist church will hold a chicken and oyster supper at the church on Saturday beginning at 4:30 p. m.

Aviation Cadet Charles Edward Rowe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Rowe, 14 West Main street, was commissioned a flight officer at Panama City, Florida, on November 20. He has qualified as navigator and pilot. He was graduated from the Emmitsburg high school with the class of 1941, attended Mt. St. Mary's college for one year, when he was sent to the Western Kentucky State Teachers college, Bowling Green, to complete his college training. He was appointed a student officer there, before being transferred to Maxwell Field, Montgomery, Ala.; Douglas, Ga.; Cochran Field, Macon, Ga.; Blytheville Air Field, Blytheville, Ark., all transfers being in line of training as a pilot.

Labor Asks Hard Peace For Boche

Chicago, Nov. 24 (AP)—The CIO temporarily sidetracked its planned protest against the wage freeze and the War Labor Board, and instead stood on record today as favoring a hard peace for Germany.

In a resolution asking labor representation at the peace table, the huge labor organization called for "absolute destruction of Hitlerite Germany and the Japanese militarists."

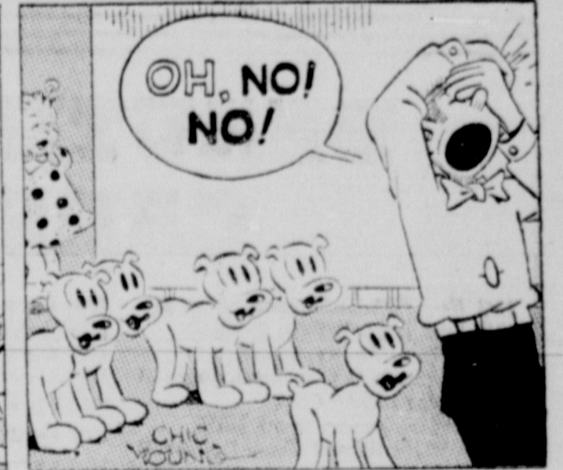

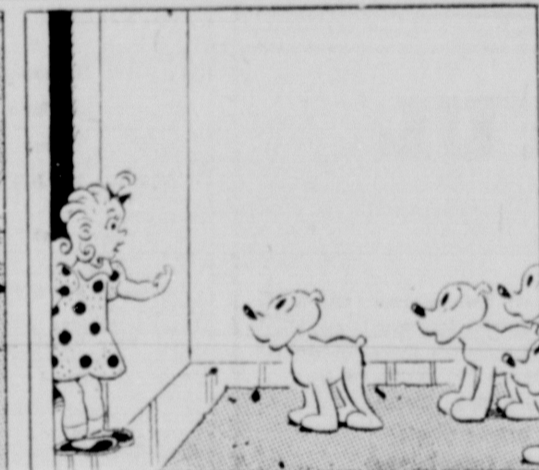

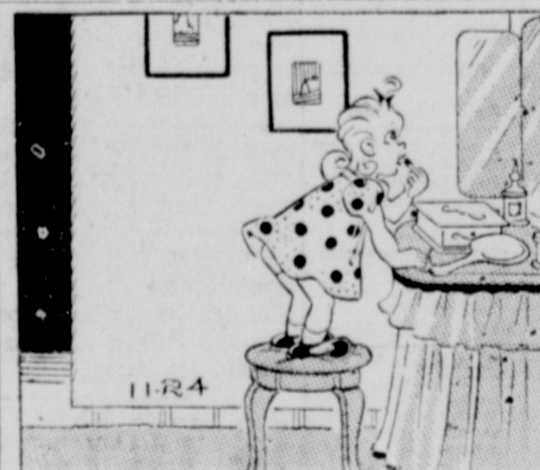

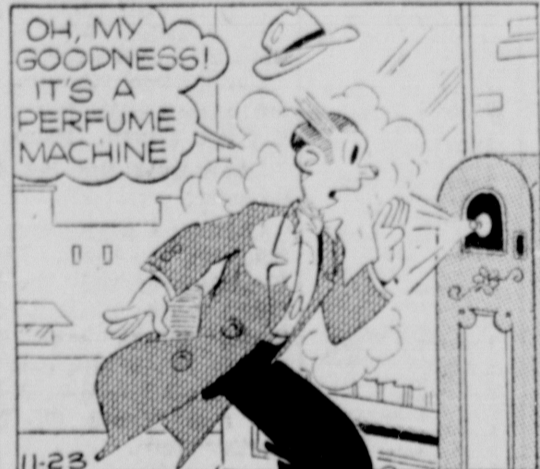

"There can and must not be any negotiated or soft peace," the resolution adopted by the 600 delegates to the annual convention said. "The murderers of Maldanek concentration camp must not be permitted to escape retribution."

WRITER DIES

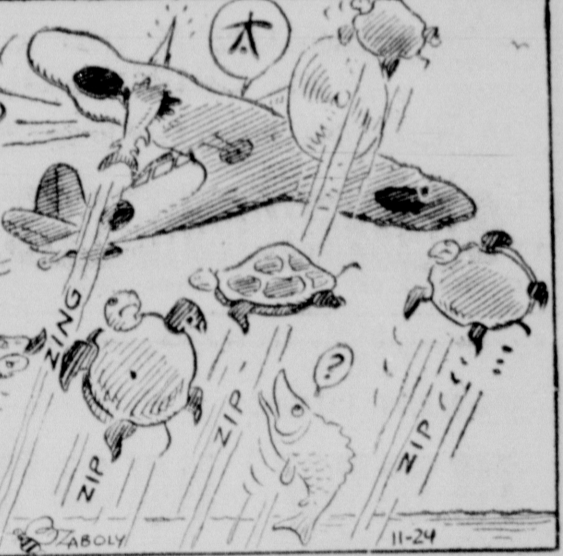

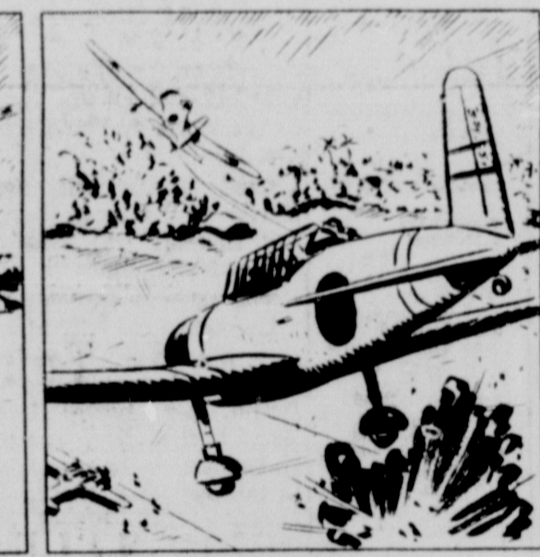

St. Petersburg, Fla., Nov. 24 (AP)—Sadakichi Hartmann, 78, widely known writer and art critic of Hollywood, Calif., and New York, died suddenly last night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Dorothea Gililand. He arrived here only two days earlier from Los Angeles.

Sometimes it's cheaper to replace than repair. This very often applies to motor overhaul jobs. The installation of a complete NEW motor saves considerable time and assures new car performance for the vehicle.

Before investing in what may turn out to be a costly overhaul, first investigate the advantages of installing a new motor for lower operating costs and better performance.

Kelly Captures Berwick Marathon

Berwick, Pa., Nov. 24 (AP)—Winning the Berwick Marathon title is getting to be a habit for John Kelly of Acton, Massachusetts, who hung up his third successive victory in the nine-mile grand Thanksgiving Day.

Kelly crossed the finish line 15 seconds ahead of Robert "Scotty" Rankin of the Royal Canadian Air Force who was seeking his sixth Berwick crown after a seven-year absence.

OHIO STATE, NOTRE DAME PICKED TO WIN

By ORLO ROBERTSON

New York, Nov. 24 (AP)—Since the coin was right in picking Syracuse over Colgate last week and the office gal gave us Texas A&M to beat Rice we are tempted to call on one or the other for all of Saturday's games. But, unfortunately, we're fresh out of coins and the office girl is taking the day off. So, with the hope that we can do as well as last week when the record was 34 wins and eight defeats, we give you:

Ohio State-Michigan—how's that for a tough one to start with? Ohio State, led by Les Horvath and Bill Hackett, is unbeaten. Michigan has dropped only one game and can take the Big Ten title by winning this one. Our Mr. Howell, late of Columbus, says the Buckeyes. Since there is no Michigan man around to offer an argument we'll string along with him.

Notre Dame-Georgia Tech—Tech beat Navy; Notre Dame lost to the Middles but the Irish aren't going to lose this one. Notre Dame.

Favor Duke, Penn
Duke-North Carolina—Can't even work up a sweat on this one. Duke. Cornell-Pennsylvania—The Quakers have a little too much for the Big Red eleven. Penn.

Down over the list for the remainder:
Oklahoma A&M over Oklahoma; Southern California over UCLA; Virginia over Yale; Bainbridge over Camp Peary; Mississippi over Miss. State; Indiana over Purdue; St. Mary's Pre-Flight over California; Iowa Pre-Flight over Iowa; Tennessee over Kentucky; Illinois over Northwestern.

Princeton over Atlantic City Air Base, Brown over Colgate, Dartmouth over Columbia, Georgia Pre-Flight over Daniel Field, Ft. Pierce over Jacksonville Naval Base, Kansas State over Nebraska, Rutgers over Lehigh, Wisconsin over Minnesota, Pittsburgh over Penn State, Texas Tech over Southern Methodist, Rice over Texas Christian, and on Friday, Auburn over Miami and Georgia over Clemson. Sunday, we like Holy Cross over Boston College and the Fourth Air Force over the Second Air Force.

18 TILTS FOR BIGLER CAGERS

Basketball candidates at Biglerville high school are busily engaged in preparing for an 18-game schedule.

Cecil Snyder will again be in charge of the boys' team and Samuel Ehlman will have charge of the girls' aggregation.

The schedule follows:
December 5, Washington township, b-g, away; December 12, Hallam, v-jv, home; December 15, East Berlin, b-g, home; December 19, Arendtsville, b-g, away; January 5, Hallam, v-jv, away; January 9, Littlestown, b-g, away; January 12, Lemoyne, b-g, home; January 16, Camp Hill, b-g, away; January 19, Enola, b-g, home; January 26, Boiling Springs, b-g, home; February 6, Lemoyne, b-g, away; February 9, Camp Hill, b-g, home; February 13, Enola, b-g, away; February 16, Littlestown, b-g, home; February 20, Boiling Springs, b-g, away; February 23, Arendtsville, b-g, home; February 27, Washington township, b-g, home.
B-g denotes boys' and girls' games; v-jv indicates boys varsity and junior varsity games.

NEW OXFORD TO PLAY 14 TILTS

A 14-game basketball card has been arranged for the New Oxford high school dribblers by Ralph S. Klingel, basketball secretary.

Coach Jack Miller has a promising group of dribblers now drilling for the opening game at Manchester on December 15.

The schedule follows:
December 15, Manchester, away; December 20, Dover, away; January 3, Biglerville, away; January 5, Manchester, home; January 10, Dover, away; January 12, Littlestown, home; January 16, Arendtsville, away; January 19, Fairfield, away; January 23, Arendtsville, home; January 26, East Berlin, home; January 30, Biglerville, home; February 2, Littlestown, away; February 6, Fairfield, home; February 9, East Berlin, away.

"Clipper" Smith May Coach Tigers

Brooklyn, Nov. 24 (AP)—Latest candidate for the Brooklyn Tigers 1945 coaching job in the National Football league is Maurice "Clipper" Smith, formerly of Villanova and Duquesne.

Since Pete Cawthon "resigned" in mid-season, the Tigers have been under the direction of Ed Kubale and Frank Bridges, Cawthon's assistants. The Tigers, who have lost eight straight, wind up their season by playing New York and Philadelphia on successive Sundays.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Nov. 24 (AP)—Amateur night... Latest report on the off-again-on-again maneuvers about bringing Gunder Haegg and Arne Andersson, the Swedish speedsters, to the United States this winter is that they're both open to persuasion. Gunder Haegg has escaped from Sture Olsson, the Malmö haberdasher who objected to losing his best tie salesman during the Christmas rush, into the Army. Now the Swedish Athletic association hopes to postpone his military service for the projected tour. Next step is to convince Andersson, who says "not even per Albin Hansson" (The Swedish prime minister) can get him to travel without his wife, that it won't be so bad after all. Meanwhile American track fans probably are asking "How much are those guys holding out for?"

PIGSKIN PICKS

(Ohio State vs. Michigan)
The team from Ann Arbor Takes a trip to the barber (Cornell vs. Pennsylvania)
After Navy and Army
The team coached by Munger Will think that Cornell Is strictly from hunger. (Georgia Tech vs. Notre Dame)

SHORTS AND SHELLS

Now that Jimmy Crowley has joined Elmer Layden in the ranks of pro football commissioners, the other two projected pro leagues should know where to look for their head men. And the four horsemen likely would find the club owners as stubborn as seven mules. Tomorrow's Penn State-Pitt game will mark the 100th consecutive contest for Neil Fleming, Penn State's graduate manager. Since Bryan Hextall can't leave Saskatchewan to play hockey for the Rangers this winter, don't be surprised if he turns up with some "amateur" club out there. For the past eight years Woonsocket, R. I., high school has had a Rotator playing center; first it was Oscar, then his cousins, Jimmy and Al. Columbus, Neb., can beat that record with seven Brock brothers starring for the past 15 years. One of them, Charlie, now plays center for the Packers. The youngest, Johnny, still is in high school.

SERVICE DEPT.

Dick Ganslen, former national AAU pole vault champion, has been promoted to captain in China, where he has been training and fighting with Chinese troops as a member of the American "Y-Force." The Fort Pierce, Fla., Amphibs are putting up Clyde Jeffrey as a rival to Illinois' Buddy Young for the title of "fastest football player." Clyde, who alternates with Bill Daley and Jack Brown in the Amphibs' backfield, ran 100 yards in 9.4 when he was at Stanford while Buddy's best time is 9.5. Rolfe Hemsley, ex-Yankees catcher, has reported to the Navy Physician Instructors' school at Bainbridge, Md.

JOHN HARRIS CAPTURES BIG FIFTEEN TITLE

By TOM SHRIVER

Harrisburg, Nov. 24 (AP)—Thanksgiving Day grid battles settled three conference championships and assured one defending titlist of a chance to retain honors won last year.

John Harris high nosed out Allentown for the big fifteen crown, despite the fact that Harris lost to Bethlehem and Allentown ran through the season without a setback, extending its two-season winning streak to 15 in a row.

Lock Haven turned back Jersey Shore 26-7 to take the Susquehanna league championship, while Camp Hill wound up an undefeated season to grab the honors in the Lower Susquehanna conference.

Meanwhile representatives of the Eastern conference meet tonight at Ashland to select the northern and southern divisional winners for the championship game scheduled for Saturday, December 2.

Lansford Assured

On the basis of unofficial returns Lansford is certain to represent the south and swing into action in defense of the crown won last year from Dunmore. The Lansford eleven made it 23 straight over a two year period by defeating Coaldale in the season's finale, 13-0, while equally undefeated Kulpmont would up its campaign last week to clinch second place.

In the northern division Hanover township turned back Plains, 27-0, and Blakely closed its season with a 22-0 win over Olyphant. The question of supremacy will be settled tonight, with Hanover looming as the probable opponent for Lansford.

Harris gained the big fifteen crown by turning back William Penn, 26-7 as Allentown halted Bethlehem 12-0. On the basis of unofficial figures Harris leads Allentown by 35 points with little chance of being displaced. The Steelton-Lebanon game tomorrow and the Steelton-Williamsport game of next Saturday will have some effect on the final points for the leaders since Harris lists both Lebanon and Williamsport among its victims.

Titles already settled in the state include: State College in the Western conference, Donora the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic league and Erie academy in the Big Sixteen.

WHAT FARMERS WANT WHEN THEY BORROW

WHILE WE'RE HERE IN TOWN I THINK THE BANK CERTAINLY IS THE MOST CONVENIENT PLACE TO BORROW!

CONVENIENT LOCATION

YOU wouldn't want your barn on one side of your farm and your house on the other. Neither should you have to go far afield to get credit when you need it. And you don't. The bank is right in the center of things, easy to get at when you are in town. Your time is worth money, don't waste it. Time you waste is actually part of the cost of credit; time saved is one of the advantages of borrowing at the bank.

Window Displays In Gettysburg Stores Offer Many Unusual Gift Suggestions

Wide Variety Of Ideas Are Offered Public

With the Thanksgiving holiday over, Adams countians turned their thoughts today toward Christmas—and stores full of gifts for everyone.

Gettysburg merchants have their window displays of Christmas merchandise in place and are showing a wide variety of gifts for men, women, and of course, the kiddies. Children's toys are the leading items in the hardware, department and large drug stores. On display are large quantities of stuffed and rag dolls and animals such as bears, elephants and dogs. Other toys include paint sets, books, toy tea sets, modeling clay, many kinds of games and a large assortment of Army toys.

Little boys can have toy jeeps, landing barges, anti-aircraft guns,

Bucknell's Dean Plans To Retire

Lewisburg, Pa., Nov. 24 (AP)—Dr. R. H. Rivenburg, dean of Bucknell university for nearly 22 years, will retire at the end of the present college year, President Arnaud C. Marts said today in a statement announcing the retirement that a new dean will probably be selected in March.

A graduate of Bucknell in 1897, Doctor Rivenburg has also been vice president of the university for the past nine years. He was associated with Peddie Institute, Hightstown, N. J., from 1900 to 1923 before coming to Bucknell.

sub-machine guns, rifles, pistols, battleship and airplane construction kits, trucks, trains and many others.

Many Toiletries

In spite of earlier predictions of an extreme shortage of toiletries for the ladies, most of the drug stores have a comparatively good line of those items. Soaps, perfumes,

SOLDIER SHOW COMING HERE TO SELL BONDS

Bond buyers in Gettysburg and Adams county will have an opportunity to attend the county's Sixth War Loan bond show to be staged at the Majestic theatre Thursday, December 7, when talent from Indiantown Gap Military Reservation will present their new musical revue, "Thanks to You," it was announced today by Sydney J. Poppay, theatre managers, lipsticks, and other toilet goods are in the windows. It was said that there would be no toilet "sets" on hand, but again, the drug stores have many combinations of toilet articles boxed for gifts.

Men's gifts are also in abundance, with a wide variety of muffers, gloves, shirts, ties, underwear, leather goods such as wallets, cigarette cases, pass cases and cases of toilet articles on display.

In the jewelry stores practically all of the pre-war items can be had, although not in all the pre-war models. There are many watches for both men and women, fountain pen and pencil sets, costume jewelry and other pins, bracelets, necklaces, lamps, china, and glassware.

Women's specialty shops have many dresses, shoes, hand bags, handkerchiefs and a good assortment of underwear. The shops report that many persons are purchasing more "sensible gifts" such as dresses and shoes, this year.

A large number of gift sales of furniture already have been made, the furniture dealers said. Deliveries of furniture have been slightly better in recent months, and a great number of pieces such as tables, overstuffed, occasional and side chairs, sofas, lamps and kitchen sets, as well as bedroom furniture, is available.

Gettysburg merchants agreed generally that they are comparatively fortunate in having the stocks of goods they do. One dealer said his supplies of men's furnishings are "much better" than any to be found in any store of similar size in any of the larger cities surrounding Gettysburg.

With the anticipated shortage of perfumes, boxed sets and other toiletries, the local drug stores have provided for the situation and are offering many hard-to-get items.

All of the merchants agreed that everyone should "shop as soon as possible" if they are to get the gifts they're looking for. While stocks are good at the present time, a great number of the items cannot be replaced under present market conditions and late shoppers will be disappointed, the merchants declared.

369 Street Rail Accidents In Sept.

Harrisburg, Nov. 24—Street railways companies reported 369 accidents to the Public Utility Commission in September, in which three persons were killed and 472 injured. The dead included a trespasser and two pedestrians. The injured included 36 employees, 285 passengers, 56 pedestrians, 91 occupants of vehicles in collision with street cars, one trespasser and three non-trespassers, the latter having business on company property but not as employees.

Gestapo Slaughters Nazis Asking Peace

Bern, Nov. 24 (AP)—A dispatch in the newspaper Basler Arbeiter attributed to an "extremely reliable source" said Wednesday that Gestapo agents and SS men machine-gunned Cologne workers during October uprisings and killed 229 of them. Some SS men also were reported killed.

The dispatch said the disturbance started when the people shouted: "We have had enough of this dog's life. Peace at any price."

manager. The production will be presented by an all-service cast, including WACs from the Harrisburg Recruiting Headquarters.

The revue consists of new and original comedy skits, songs, dances, and a comedy take-off on a well known radio program. Cpl. Mitchell C. Hodges, who has appeared in and written for Broadway shows and who has appeared on network broadcasts in both civilian and Army life, is director of the show.

Since joining the Army, he has appeared in or directed some 40 Army shows. Except for one number written by Alice Mitchell, of Harrisburg, who has a number of songs published, all music for the show was composed by members of the 333rd Army Service Forces band, stationed at Indiantown Gap. A 19-piece orchestra has feature spots in the show.

Bonds totalling $1,153,700 will have to be purchased by residents of the county to fill the theatre to capacity for the show. Buyers of bonds with maturity values of $100, $500, $1,000, $5,000 and $10,000 will be able to have seats reserved for the show. A 25-cent service charge will be payable when the blue certification form issued with the purchase of a bond is exchanged for a reserved seat ticket.

When the special box office opens at the theatre Friday, December 1, the following tickets will be available: 457 at $100, 234 at $500, 341 at $1,000, 82 at $5,000 and 24 at $10,000.

"Unretired" Workers To Get More Benefits

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—Thousands of workers who retired with Social Security benefits and "unretired" to aid the war effort stand a chance for larger payments when they quit again.

The Social Security Board said it will recalculate, upon request, the amount of old-age and survivors insurance benefits payable to once-retired workers.

SINGS THREE SOLOS

Miss Mary Louise Spangler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Spangler, Lincolnway east, rendered three vocal selections at a recent musical program at West Chester Teachers' college. She sang "Mien Ist Grun" by Brahms, "The Mermaid" by Scott, "The Little Damsel" by Novello. As an encore she sang "Silent Strings" by Bantock. Her accompanist was Virginia Egenfritz of York. Miss Spangler is a music student at West Chester and is a member of the Music club.

ART EXHIBIT

Harrisburg, Nov. 24—Many interesting objects of art are presented in an exhibit in the state museum, Harrisburg, under the direction of the Art Association of Harrisburg. The exhibit closes November 28. Oil paintings, water colors and art works comprise this loan exhibit which is open to the public.

691,989 Prisoners Seized Since D-Day

(By The Associated Press) Allied armies on the western front have captured at least 691,989 prisoners since D-Day, the equivalent of 69 German divisions as presently constituted. About two-thirds, or 424,124 were caged by the four American armies.

Latest announced figures showed today:

U. S. First Army	200,138
U. S. Third Army	117,400
U. S. Seventh Army	50,916
U. S. Ninth Army	55,670
French First Army	57,939
British Second Army	94,794
Canadian First Army	95,137
French Forces of Interior with British and Canadian armies	20,000
Total	691,989

Trench fever or typhus is transmitted by lice.

COMMISSIONED

Flight Officer Frank C. Luckenbach, fiancé of Miss Nancy Lynch of Gettysburg, has been promoted to second lieutenant friends here have learned. Overseas since last March, he has been twice decorated as a glider pilot for his service in Southern France and in Holland.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS ASK YOUTH CENTER

The following appeal, prepared by Gettysburg high school students, was addressed to the editor of The Gettysburg Times. It is published in full as follows:

"Teen-Canteen" Proves Youth's Need for Bigger, Better Recreation Center!

"The above headline appeared in the G.H.S. 'Maroon and White' this week! The Youth of Gettysburg recognize the vital need for a bigger and better recreation center than they now have at the 'Y'."

"The Girl Reserves have proved this need by actually making the first step in providing a place at the 'Y' for boys and girls to have a ray time on Saturday nights. And now the high school 'kids' are trying to tell the townspeople just how they feel about the whole thing! Here is how they expressed themselves in the 'Maroon and White'."

"Say, did you see that gang at the 'Y' the other Saturday night, and did you notice the eats and the fun everybody had? What a crowd! Over 200 in that little place from 9 to 11, besides 60 junior high kids from 7 till 9!"

Is Town Need

"Statistics show us that this type of thing is exactly what Gettysburg needs. No, we don't want it at high school on Friday nights, because we go to school five days a week to learn, besides to football and basketball games, plays, dances and other special occasions. We feel that we want another place to go to for 'just recreation'—you know—dancing, ping-pong, games—just a hang-out."

"The 'Teen-Canteen' was a good beginning, but you can see yourself that the crowd quite overwhelmed the 'Y'. What Gettysburg kids need is a place like the 'Y'—only much, much bigger. To begin something like this we need support, morally and financially. We need the help of some civic organizations that realize our need and who are willing to aid us. Gettysburg high school has faith in the people of the town to come forth in this effort. All clubs and other groups at one time or another had a beginning, and some had to ask the aid of others. Some, of course, did not, but a youth center run by and for the students, needs a start and to whom are we to turn?"

"Too Busy"

"People have told us 'Teensters' that 'there's a war on, and people are too busy supporting the war effort to bother with a youth center now. And then they wonder why the town's such a riot in the evenings, why there's so much youth delinquency, why the kids don't behave like the did 'when we were young'."

"We of Gettysburg high school say to those people that now is the time for a Youth Center. Now is when everyone is overcome by something bigger than themselves, something which makes youth restless, and makes us want to do something. We say to you—we will be willing to manage it, to support it to the very best of our ability."

"Here we see how the youth of Gettysburg feel. Now, how do the townspeople feel about it? Gettysburg should recognize and urge others to recognize the need to give young people an opportunity to develop outlets for individual and group expression, to plan their own activities, to initiate programs, to carry them through and make their own evaluations. However, the 'Teensters' do need adult leadership, and that's where the townspeople come in. The Teen-Canteen provides opportunities for young people to plan programs and set standards and assume responsibilities. It also provides opportunities for the young people to work and plan with adults, thus helping each to understand the other."

"And so, the 'Teensters' ask, 'to whom are we to turn?'"

Harrisburg, Nov. 24—Payments to returned Pennsylvania veterans under the Service Men's Readjustment Act during the week ended November 10, totalled $22,646, paid in 1,136 checks, according to G. Harold Wagner, state treasurer.

Seeks Probe Of Press Conference

Ottawa, Nov. 24 (AP)—Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, defense minister, has asked a full investigation of a Vancouver press conference at which officers of the Canadian Army's Sixth Division expressed doubt over the feasibility of Canada's system of voluntary overseas service for draftees.

This development came today as the Canadian parliament met to hear the government's explanation of circumstances surrounding the resignation November 2 of Defense Minister J. L. Ralston, made in protest against the government's conscription policy. McNaughton, former commander of the Canadian Army, was appointed to succeed Ralston.

McNaughton was represented as having the view that press interviews by officers on matters of policy are a breach of military discipline subject to court martial.

203 Truck, Taxi And Bus Mishaps

Harrisburg, Nov. 24—Taxicab, bus and truck operators reported 203 accidents to the Public Utility Commission in September, 197 being casualty accidents and 46 non-casualty accidents. Eight persons were killed and 244 injured. Property damage amounted to $27,932.45.

Taxicab operators reported 84 accidents, and 90 persons injured. None of the accidents was fatal. Property damage was $6,662.95. Bus operators reported 102 accidents. Five persons were killed and 144 injured. Property damage was $17,678.50. Truck operators reported 17 accidents. Three persons were killed and 10 injured. Property damage was $3,591.

NEED DEERSKINS

Harrisburg, Nov. 24 (AP)—Pennsylvania deer hunters were reminded today by the State Game Commission the wartime need for deerskins is very acute and they were urged to place any hides they have in the channels of trade.

Letter to the Editor

Nov. 16, 1944
Fort Bragg, N.C.

Dear Sir:

Thought I would take a little time to express my appreciation for your sending me a copy of the "Special Service edition of the Times." I have been receiving it ever since I have been in the Army, September, 1943.

As you know, I was transferred from Fort Meade, Md., to Fort Bragg, N. C. I just returned from spending a 13-day furlough with my parents and friends. I enjoy reading the paper very much, because it keeps me in touch with my friends around home. I take this time to thank you very much for your fine appreciation.

Sincerely yours,
Cpl. Richard E. Little.

Uses Coal In Car On 1,000 Mile Trip

Stockton, N. J., Nov. 24 (AP)—Anton Schuck, local garageman who recently motored 1,000 miles into Canada on a deer hunt without using a gallon of gasoline, explains his accomplishment thus:

He drove a 1923 model Stanley steamer, which he had converted to burn coal. His fuel bin carried 500 pounds of anthracite—good for about 300 miles travel, punctuated at 10-mile intervals with stops to stoke the furnace.

Tire rationing, Schuck says, did not bother him, his coal-burning auto has outside wheels, for which tires are not rationed.

Bramble Plant Interest Wanes

Harrisburg, Nov. 24—In keeping with the trend of the past four years that has shown decreased interest in the growing of red and black raspberries and blackberries, only 85 bramble plantings in Pennsylvania were entered this year by growers for inspection and certification by the Bureau of Plant Industry, State Department of Agriculture.

The drop is due to nurserymen and other growers being able to obtain greater financial income from other sources in wartime, according to K. W. Lauer, in charge of plant and seed certification in the Bureau.

During 1944 there were 85 bramble plantings entered for inspection for plant certification compared with 106 plantings entered in 1943. A total of 73 plantings were certified and 12 rejected compared with 80 plantings certified and 26 rejected last year. Rejections were on the basis of disease or other defect found on the growing plants.

CROP ESTIMATES

Harrisburg, Nov. 24—Increases in the estimated Pennsylvania farm production of potatoes, tobacco and buckwheat as of November 1, compared with estimates reported on October 1, are announced in the Pennsylvania general crop report issued by the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service, State Department of Agriculture. Estimates for all other general crops showed no change during the month.

New Congress To Get Two Treaties

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—Action on two major treaties—the international oil agreement and the United States-Mexican water rights undertaking—will be delayed until the convening of the new Congress January 3.

The decision, reached by the Senate Foreign Relations committee today, resulted from a Senate rule that the consideration of pending treaties must begin anew with each new Congress.

Study Flood Check For Atlantic City

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP)—A survey of what is needed to protect Atlantic City from flood damage such as was caused by a hurricane last September, is provided in an amendment to the omnibus flood control bill before the Senate.

The amendment was approved at the request of Senator Hawkes (R-N.J.). He suggested a study by Army engineers looking to recommendations to avert future disasters from flood, wind and tide in New Jersey.

Steel Cranemen Go Back To Work

Gary, Ind., Nov. 24 (AP)—Production was resumed Wednesday at the Gary works of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, the world's largest steel plant, after 39 striking pit cranemen voted to return to their jobs pending a settlement of their dispute which had kept 5,500 men idle for two days.

A negotiating meeting was planned today by company officials and representatives of CIO United Steel Workers.

NAZI MINES WORTH SCENT TO WAR DOGS

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

London (AP)—One of Britain's most closely guarded secrets is the method used in training dogs to detect German mines. Since these diabolical contraptions were first sprinkled by the Nazis along their trail of retreat, the Army has been finding means of counteracting them.

Months ago, specially trained dogs—their scent sharpened by months of schooling—were sent to the front. They have proven highly successful in sniffing out mines. Thousands of lives and millions of dollars worth of material have been saved by this comparatively simple way of detection.

Mine scenting is just one of the new important jobs of protecting and saving lives that is being tackled by the dog army. Recently when a hotel was hit in southern England, "Darkie," a German police dog was credited with finding the spot where several children were buried. Rescuers dug them out in time.

Hundreds In Action
Several hundred mine scenters are now in action on the fronts in France, Belgium and Holland—helping clear the road to Berlin. Many dogs flunked out of school during their secret training period, for they could smell nothing but the meat for their dinner.

Trainers, who teach the dogs, explain that keen scent is the individual characteristic of the dog and not the breed. Therefore, German police, collies, bull terriers, airdales and other fine animals get their mine smelling degree as well as mongrels.

Some of the best dogs are ordinary street hounds which have sharpened their olfactory organs on garbage cans and lamp posts.

Out at the front they know better than to scamper off across the fields, sniffing indiscriminately. It is not until their master buckles a collar and leash around their necks that they realize they are ready for work—just like a horse knows it's work time when he is harnessed.

The dog usually lies down or sits down when he comes within a few feet of a mine. The sapper does the rest. Some breeds of hunting dogs are so highly specialized that they stop dead in their tracks and point to the buried mine just as if they had spotted a covey of grouse.

Four-Legged Commandos
There has been no report of a dog being killed while on a mine hunt. They may stop only a few inches from the explosive, but they always stop in time.

Some 200 dogs have been used for patrol duty at ammunition dumps and at air fields to help guard against attempts at sabotage. These animals were selected for their viciousness and were put through a "commando" course to intensify their dislike for strangers.

After the war many of the dogs will be kept by their Army masters, whose sole duty is to keep their charges groomed, fed and cared for. The soldier is required to write a letter once a month to the dog's owner telling of the animal's welfare.

The British government already is making plans for demobilizing its dog army after the war. According to health regulations, the dogs which have left the country must go into quarantine for six months before returning to prevent rabies being brought into England.

The government realizes it will have a terrific problem when it coops up thousands of hounds which have seen service and are itching to get back home to hunt

Col. Roosevelt Linked In Brawl

New York, Nov. 24 (AP)—A civilian's complaint that Air Force Col. Elliott Roosevelt intervened in an early morning Broadway brawl over a taxi cab and enabled four G.I.'s to leave before arrival of M.P.'s, was under investigation today by military authorities.

Max Huddle, 30, dance hall floor manager, said the four soldiers dragged him from the taxi as he entered it and "started to slug it out" over who should ride.

"Another taxi drove up," Huddle said, "and Col. Elliott Roosevelt and a major got out. Colonel Roosevelt pushed the soldiers aside and told them to scram. I moved toward the colonel to protest, but the major put his hand on my shoulder and said I was under arrest. Then someone yelled 'Here come the M.P.'s'."

"The colonel got into his cab leaving the major with me. When the military police arrived I heard the major say, 'Keep this quiet. A son of the President is involved.'"

Colonel Roosevelt arrived last week from overseas, but the Waldorf Astoria hotel where he had been staying said he had checked out. The White House said Colonel Roosevelt was not there and the War Department announced it had no knowledge of him at present.

CROP SHORTAGE

Harrisburg, Nov. 24—Severe damage to fall vegetable crops in Florida, caused by the tropical hurricane of October 19 to 21, is expected to reduce the supply of winter vegetables and citrus fruits available to Pennsylvania housewives, according to a Federal-State report issued from the State Department of Agriculture.

Total population of the British empire is more than 500,000,000.

Youngster Writes Reasons For Thanks

The following "Thanksgiving Ode" was written by Beverly Thomas, 11, daughter of Lt. and Mrs. Harold Thomas, Oakleigh, Pottstown R. 2, as part of an essay-writing contest at the Warwick Consolidated school where Beverly is a student:

"I shall be thankful for a home and a father and a mother, for two brothers as kind as mine, for a state as good as Pennsylvania. I am glad that I have a God to help my father win a war, for a school to learn things, for a world as good as mine and the people in it, and for the friends I have. I am thankful for a dog named Bozo which God gave us. I am glad for teachers who teach me. I am thankful for the food I eat. I am thankful for everything in the world but war."

Lt. Thomas, who is serving in the Pacific area, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Thomas, York street. Mrs. Thomas is a member of the nurses' staff at the Warner hospital. Beverly is one of a group of pupils who reside with Mrs. Elizabeth Loomis, head of the Warwick school.

Newsman To Demand Freedom Of Press

New York, Nov. 24 (AP)—News-gathering organizations will demand that a peace treaty at the end of the war "include a provision guaranteeing world-wide freedom of the press." Kent Cooper, executive director of the Associated Press, declares.

Speaking on a broadcast over NBC in connection with an adaptation of his book, "Barriers Down," Cooper said:

"It is my deep conviction that unless we guarantee the freedom of the press throughout the world, the next generation will be fighting

World War III." Expressing the belief that "the barriers that were placed in the way of those who wanted a completely unhampered world news service, as barriers to world peace," Cooper said "but I am happy to point out tonight that the ideal of untrammelled news-gathering and news dissemination appealed to people outside the United States."

SWEATERS AND BLOUSES ARE GLAMOR GIFTS

Say "Merry Christmas" with a gift practical as well as smart—wonderful sports clothes! Always a wonderful gift—warm, bright sports clothes will be doubly welcome this year to help combat fuel rationing long after Christmas is over. And because practically all American women love sports clothes shoppers will find the perfect gift for every lady on the list.

Warm, brilliant sweaters add zest to any wardrobe and because they make such popular gifts there is a wide choice of both daytime and evening styles. Short sleeved long necked sweaters with sparkle trims make the perfect gift for college and career girls—look simply super with daytime or evening skirts and at the same time—provide added warmth.

Perennial favorites are the long boxy pullovers, cardigans and twin sets. Cable-knit coat sweaters in brilliant Christmas colors make the perfect gift because they top blouses and skirts as smartly as casual dresses. Underscored for the style-conscious are the smart and wonderfully practical sleeveless pullovers with deep ribbed waistbands for that sleek look. Here again, extra warmth is provided to a blouse and skirt as well as the "costume" look. Vivid argyle sweaters are a conversation-making gift—sure to please the young set! Dressmaker sweaters make fashion news as do the strikingly smart striped jersey pullovers—wonderful to wear atop the new slim skirts.

Blouses Underscored

Whether she's the tailored, feminine or casual type, she'll appreciate a smooth blouse for Christmas! Marvellous glamour gift—one of the new dinner-date blouses! Long torso pull-over blouses with brief cap sleeves, bow-tie necklines and sparkling glitter trims head the list. Then there are smooth long sleeved shirtwaisters with sequin accents, low necked brief-sleeved charmers—each a delightful surprise gift! And for all their glamour, they're wonderfully practical because they do smart day and night duty! For daytime paired with one of the new slim skirts, they make exciting costumes for "big" afternoons and "little" evenings! And they'll transform the simplest evening skirt into something really special! For casual wear, slick shirt-waist blouses in fresh white or glow-

Peas' Inspection Doubled In 1944

Harrisburg, Nov. 24—More than twice as many peas were inspected for Pennsylvania canning plants during 1944 than in 1943 according to a preliminary report by the Bureau of Markets, State Department of Agriculture.

Approximately 11,500,000 pounds of green peas were classified this year by Federal-State inspectors.

Demands of the Armed Forces and lend-lease have greatly increased pea acreage in Pennsylvania. When selling peas on the basis of standard grades, higher prices are obtained by the grower. Requests for the services of inspectors are increasing as processing plants expand their facilities.

Recently the pea acreage for canning has increased in northern sections of the state. Peas usually thrive best in cooler climate, and the Bureau of Markets looks for further expansion of this phase of agriculture in the northern tier and mountainous sections of Pennsylvania in the postwar period.

Buddies In Pacific Are Together Again

Butler, Pa., Nov. 24 (AP)—Three soldier buddies, whose friendship was bonded with 30 months of action in the southwest Pacific, were together again today after being separated when malaria and the Army's rotation plan sent them home at different times.

The three worked together in the same medical outfit overseas and saw six weeks of "Jap-made-Hell" in the jungles of Bougainville. They were unexpectedly re-united when they met each other in neighboring barracks at the Deshon General hospital here.

They are T/3 Philip London, Philadelphia; T/5 Julius Gordon, Baltimore, and Pfc. Alfred Piscitello, Gloucester, Mass. The trio has been assigned to Deshon's medical detachment. ing pastels are underscored. Then there are the "jewelry" necklace blouses, weskit blouses, vivid plaid shirts—really types to suit every personality. Brilliant wool jersey overblouses—make choice gifts for the fashion-conscious—and they're especially super in vivid stripes too! Because they are such an important part of versatile wardrobes, sports "separates" make the perfect gift. And this year they have fashion-news plus! Taking top honors is the beau-brummel vest—wonderful atop skirts, suits!

Hunting Booklet Is Widely Distributed

Harrisburg, Nov. 24—Approach of the Pennsylvania deer season, which begins December 1, has greatly increased the demand for "Hunting Accommodations in Pennsylvania," a booklet published for free distribution by the Vacation and Recreation Bureau of the State Department of Commerce.

There already has been a wide distribution of this booklet in adjoining states as well as Pennsylvania. It lists inns, hotels, camps and other places where hunters may obtain accommodations, contains all the game laws, a list of game protectors and their addresses and other information of interest to hunters.

Cogon, the common type of Philippine grass, is very coarse and dense, and grows to height of three to eight feet.

"TWO - BY - TWO" GIFTS NEW FAD

The best gifts of all come in pairs, judging by this year's crop of holiday-minded accessories. Neckwear, bag and glove departments are ready now with exciting collections of matching two-somes that will delight every lady on your list.

Glove and bag sets rate high for holiday giving, and you will find a host of colorful fabric teams that are both eye-appealing and budget-pleasing. Bag and hat sets, too, are in the news for Christmas giving, and in every case the bags are important enough to carry alone.

Fur and fur-trimmed hat and muffs, some with fur-edged gloves, are charming gifts for the teen-age girl, as are pleasant-type teams in colorful wools and fabrics. Fascinators with matching mittens, in both sports and dress-up styles are additional possibilities to consider when shopping your favorite main floor counters.

giving a hat as such, but just wait till you see all the intriguing combinations available as those popular little hat bars and circles where you can pick up the latest twosomes in cap and scarf, bag and beanie and glove and topper teams. These are youthful, colorful and ever so welcome to the girl with a large schedule and a relatively small wardrobe.

The beret, the cloche and the calot are the "big three" in small hats that choose colorful partners for holiday gifts. In felt, fabric and wool weaves, these make exciting under-tree "finds" for the busy career or college girls on your list. And best of all, these two-by-two accessories usually cost no more than the price of one!

SINGAPORE IS MECCA OF B-29S

By JEAN MEEGAN

In the early days of the war it seemed as though the Allies couldn't get along without Singapore. It was one spot in that part of the world able to harbor the entire British fleet, the one really powerful base not only for defense of Pacific possessions but for strong offensive action.

Two months after Pearl Harbor, this notion of Singapore's indispensability had to be given up. Singapore was lost. For nearly two and a half years the city has been silent. Now, with the war coming nearer again, more of it may be heard. It is hardly likely that the B-29's will permit the enemy to use the base for interference with Allied operations on either side.

Until Thomas Stamford Raffles bought (Manhattan style) the malaria - ridden, hibiscus - rooted island for $67,500 from the princes of Johore in 1819, Singapore was a swamp inhabited by a handful of fishermen.

During the years of British development there were 7,000 English there, and a population of Chinese who ranged from millionaires to cooks and coolies; Indian shop owners; and Malay gardeners and chauffeurs.

Singapore was more metropolitan than colonial. It was a parcel of big business, high finance, capital, government, and white granite buildings dropped on an oriental island. A traveler once said Raffles Square, the center of the business section, looked like Chicago—except for the rickshaws in the streets and the orange-sailed junks idling in Singapore River, which runs through the city.

Club life was highly developed along English lines; the weather wasn't as bad as New York city's on certain summer days. The tempo was tropical until war arrived and then was accelerated to the tempo of ordinary American business life in peace time; the food was about like food in California.

All For One

Above all, Singapore was a naval base. The 90 million dollars, which went into the base might have been warranted if even one naval battle was fought there, but none was. The Japanese didn't attack from the sea.

An interesting footnote to the 332 Steam Rail Mishaps In Sept.

Harrisburg, Nov. 24—Steam railroads operating in Pennsylvania reported 332 casualty accidents to the Public Utility Commission in September in which 26 persons were killed and 324 injured.

The dead included six employees, one passenger, 12 trespassers and seven persons killed at grade crossings.

The injured included 266 employees, 26 passengers, 11 trespassers, 15 hurt in crossing accidents and six persons having business on railroad property but not as employees.

Island Song

by Owen Atkinson

"Nonsense!" scoffed Jason. "The natives are happy. Why should anyone want to depose Doctor Webb?" Callahan scowled at their lack of comprehension. "It's little ye know of the injustice that's been done," he growled. "They're laws agin this and taxes agin that and new statutes bein' published every day until a man can hardly call his soul his own. And it ain't only the natives, as is in revolt, it's the foreigners in port. Limeys and Dutchmen and us Yankees. None of us likes the heavy harbor duties and the strict laws. We formed ourselves into a organization to protect our lawful rights and interests."

Jason turned sharply and faced Callahan. "What about the premier?" he demanded.

"He's first," Callahan muttered. "He's behind all this law makin' and overtaxin'."

"Why tell us all this?" demanded Jason. "Isn't it dangerous to give away your plans?"

"Not to ye it ain't," Captain Callahan studied the brothers. "Because I'm countin' on ye to join us. As Americans, ye can do no less. Our party is powerful. We got a lot of the high chiefs on our side. Old Doctor Webb has got to go. We're plannin' to accuse him of the misuse of funds. He won't last long after the native chiefs throw that in his face."

"Ridiculous," jeered Jason. "The man's as honest as the Bible."

"What if he is?" countered Captain Callahan. "That don't make no difference. He's got too much power and he's misusin' it."

"Now, see here," Jason's manner was abrupt. "I don't want any more of this talk and I won't join your party."

"Well, think it over," the Captain said soothingly. "Ye're young now and the idea of a-mixin' in foreign politics sticks in yer craw. When ye've been in it as many times as I have, ye won't think no more of it than downin' yer noggin of rum in the mornin'. And remember, I trusted ye." He held up a warning finger. "Don't go talkin' all over the place."

"Don't worry," Jason assured him. "We'll leave the talking to some others I could mention."

"When ye change yer minds," Callahan said mysteriously, "ye'll find me right here."

It was a short walk from Nuanu Street to the palace and as they drew near, the brothers could see the lighted kukui-nut torches strung through the trees and could hear the music of the band. When they arrived they saw that the musicians, in bright red uniforms, were grouped about the steps of the palace. Some of the guests sat on low benches facing the band, while others strolled about under the trees. The British warship Release was in port and it was her band which provided the excuse for the gathering.

Upon arrival it was customary to go immediately to greet the king. He was found reclining on a large, red plush sofa near the music stand. He acknowledged the presence of the brothers by a brief nod but seemed not to recognize them.

This formal duty done, Caleb faced his brother in the dancing light of the torches. "All right, ye want to find the girl," he grumbled. "I'll be waitin' near the gate. And listen, Jason—"

"Keep out of trouble," Jason finished for him, and grinned. He moved off down a path which led through the shrubbery, leaving Caleb staring gloomily after him.

Jason had made half the circuit of the palace gardens when he encountered the premier. Doctor Webb seemed pleased at the meeting, shook Jason's hand warmly and allowed his mouth to relax into what was the nearest he ever came to a smile. "Well, Captain, I have news. You will have a cargo for your return to Boston."

"Thank you, sir!"

"Yes, I think the matter is arranged. It will be a shipment of whale oil and bone. The whaling fleet will leave it in Honolulu and to be transhipped to your vessel. It is the first cargo of this nature to leave Honolulu. Of course, you will understand that this will take time. It may be a matter of a couple of weeks before you will be ready to sail. "We are grateful for your interest, sir," Jason told him. "Not at all, not at all," cried the Doctor deprecatingly. "I am interested in shipping to and from these islands. There has been a great increase in the amount of foreign property afloat in our harbor this year. I estimate that the number of seamen and strangers visiting the kingdom has been not less than twenty thousand. So you see that our foreign trade has steadily increased. Just now, I am interested in increasing the regular service between Honolulu and California. This is a matter which concerns you. I want you to speak with your father when you return, and see if you cannot persuade him to send a few vessels to the Pacific."

"Good idea," Jason approved heartily. "Be glad to talk to father about it." He saw Laura Webb moving toward them down the path and turned eagerly. As she approached, a messenger arrived from the king. Doctor Webb's presence was commanded by the monarch. Hurriedly he excused himself and strode away under the trees. Laura smiled and extended her hand to Jason.

"She wanted to talk to you," he said, as they strolled along the path toward the palace. "You are from Salem, while my home is Boston. We are almost neighbors. I had many friends in New England, friends I have not seen for eighteen years. I remember one, a girl I knew in school. Mary was her name, Mary Breen. Perhaps you know her?"

"My mother," Jason said quietly.

Laura Webb gazed closely at the tall young man by her side. "Of course," she nodded. "I should have known. You have her hair and eyes. And your mother, is she well?"

"She is dead," said Jason softly.

Chapter 9

Instinctively, Laura's hand went out and touched the sleeve of Jason's jacket, and at that slight contact a bond of sympathy was established between them. They were strangers no longer, Jason became a boy, talking to a woman who was his mother's friend. Moving along through the trees under the flickering light of the kukui-nut torches, they talked of New England and of Boston eighteen years ago. The cold winters and green springs, the sting of salt spray in the face, and the gray ocean, lashed by storms, tumbling against the rocky coast.

From the palace appeared two women and Jason saw that one was Queen Liloa, the other the princess. He quickened his pace eagerly so that Mrs. Webb had difficulty in keeping up with him. The queen and the princess moved slowly along the path. Jason and Laura hurried to meet them. The girl gave Jason one startled delighted look and then cast down her eyes demurely. The queen saw Jason and snorted. "Laura," she demanded coldly, "who is this?" She used her best English.

"Why, Your Majesty," said Laura graciously, "surely you remember Captain Blake? He was recently presented at court."

"I remember him," the queen said darkly. "Who give him invite to concert?"

"You mustn't!" cried the princess in a shocked voice. "He is our guest."

"He not my guest!" snapped the queen.

"Keep out of trouble," Jason finished for him, and grinned. He moved off down a path which led through the shrubbery, leaving Caleb staring gloomily after him.

Jason had made half the circuit of the palace gardens when he encountered the premier. Doctor Webb seemed pleased at the meeting, shook Jason's hand warmly and allowed his mouth to relax into what was the nearest he ever came to a smile. "Well, Captain, I have news. You will have a cargo for your return to Boston."

"Thank you, sir!"

"Yes, I think the matter is arranged. It will be a shipment of whale oil and bone. The whaling fleet will leave it in Honolulu and to be transhipped to your vessel. It is the first cargo of this nature to leave Honolulu. Of course, you will understand that this will take time. It may be a matter of a couple of weeks before you will be ready to sail. "We are grateful for your interest, sir," Jason told him. "Not at all, not at all," cried the Doctor deprecatingly. "I am interested in shipping to and from these islands. There has been a great increase in the amount of foreign property afloat in our harbor this year. I estimate that the number of seamen and strangers visiting the kingdom has been not less than twenty thousand. So you see that our foreign trade has steadily increased. Just now, I am interested in increasing the regular service between Honolulu and California. This is a matter which concerns you. I want you to speak with your father when you return, and see if you cannot persuade him to send a few vessels to the Pacific."

"Good idea," Jason approved heartily. "Be glad to talk to father about it." He saw Laura Webb moving toward them down the path and turned eagerly. As she approached, a messenger arrived from the king. Doctor Webb's presence was commanded by the monarch. Hurriedly he excused himself and strode away under the trees. Laura smiled and extended her hand to Jason.

"She wanted to talk to you," he said, as they strolled along the path toward the palace. "You are from Salem, while my home is Boston. We are almost neighbors. I had many friends in New England, friends I have not seen for eighteen years. I remember one, a girl I knew in school. Mary was her name, Mary Breen. Perhaps you know her?"

"My mother," Jason said quietly.

Laura Webb gazed closely at the tall young man by her side. "Of course," she nodded. "I should have known. You have her hair and eyes. And your mother, is she well?"

"She is dead," said Jason softly.

Chapter 9

Instinctively, Laura's hand went out and touched the sleeve of Jason's jacket, and at that slight contact a bond of sympathy was established between them. They were strangers no longer, Jason became a boy, talking to a woman who was his mother's friend. Moving along through the trees under the flickering light of the kukui-nut torches, they talked of New England and of Boston eighteen years ago. The cold winters and green springs, the sting of salt spray in the face, and the gray ocean, lashed by storms, tumbling against the rocky coast.

From the palace appeared two women and Jason saw that one was Queen Liloa, the other the princess. He quickened his pace eagerly so that Mrs. Webb had difficulty in keeping up with him. The queen and the princess moved slowly along the path. Jason and Laura hurried to meet them. The girl gave Jason one startled delighted look and then cast down her eyes demurely. The queen saw Jason and snorted. "Laura," she demanded coldly, "who is this?" She used her best English.

"Why, Your Majesty," said Laura graciously, "surely you remember Captain Blake? He was recently presented at court."

"I remember him," the queen said darkly. "Who give him invite to concert?"

"You mustn't!" cried the princess in a shocked voice. "He is our guest."

"He not my guest!" snapped the queen.

"Keep out of trouble," Jason finished for him, and grinned. He moved off down a path which led through the shrubbery, leaving Caleb staring gloomily after him.

PRIVATE LIFE GIFTS PLEASE SWEETHEARTS

Want to wrap her in luxury for Christmas? Want to give her something really glamorous in the undie line? It's a great deal easier, and more economical, too, than one might think, as a look through her favorite lingerie and negligee departments will tell you.

Starting with the "undercover" situation, you'll find it thoroughly under control, for ladies of every type and taste. For every woman, regardless of her role in life is basically and fundamentally feminine. And feminine undies and hostess gowns are what the stores have plenty of for Christmas, 1944.

Housecoats and Robes

It's going to be a black Christmas, judging by the tremendous requests store buyers have already had for sheer black nightgowns, lush slips and, yes, even panties. These can be had in a variety of enticing rayon crepes and satins with rich lace trimmings. Any of these are really heavy gifts. . . the sort she's probably longing for, but just never buys for herself. Even dusky black negligees, beautifully slim-fitting and glamorous, are available for your favorite Christmas Eve.

Although black lingerie is having a tremendous vogue these days, there are always the ladies who prefer the pastels and the whites, and they too will be thrilled with any one of the fascinating styles on view now in the shops from coast to coast. Slim-fitting, beautifully detailed gowns and slips in shimmering rayon crepes and satins, as well as the perennially favored rayon jersey abound for holiday-giving. Embroidered, lace and tailored styles are available in size ranges that include everyone from the "slip" of a miss to the more gracious ladies of statuesque proportions.

Everything Goes Black

Pajamas are back in the fashion picture, for sleeping as well as for "loafing," and gift-shoppers will find many an effective variation in solid-color rayon crepe, or two-toned and print-top styles for hostess wear. The new "shortie" sleeper, a cross between the old-fashioned night-shirt and the modern pajama top, is a big hit for college girls and careerists in crisp broadcloths, as well as rayon crepes.

Housecoats have ever been a favorite on the "receiving line" for Christmas, and this year they hit new highs in popularity for the Colorful chenilles and quilted rayon precious hours of leisure that mean so much during these busy times. Satins are warmly welcomed for this fuel-rationed winter, as are the toasty flannel robes that look as charming around the family hearth as they do in college dorms and please her personality, and your service "bunks." For the more for mal type of "evening wear," look for dashing print rayons and sweeping velvet hostess gowns that spell feminine charm plus smart comfort. Definitely, this is one Christmas when private-life gifts will be truly appreciated, so take your shopping list and sally forth to the nearest lingerie and negligee department, where you'll find everything to more economical, too, than one might think, as a look through her favorite lingerie and negligee departments will tell you.

Story Of Founding Of Historic Emmitsburg, Maryland

After his death she visited the different countries of Europe, and finally left her native land, taking up her abode among the wild Arabs of the desert; no reason was given for this romantic turn after her life at court, save that it arose from disappointed affection. She greatly admired Sir John Moore, one of the bravest generals in the English army, who fell in Spain in 1809. This accounts for the fact she never married.

The Pasha of Sidon conveyed to her the old deserted convent of Elijah, high up on Lebanon, which she fortified as a castle; her wealth she distributed with a liberal hand; it made her many friends and enabled her to keep up the appearance of royalty. Adopting the habits of the Arabs among whom she lived, her manner of life and romantic style gave her unbounded influence over the whole land, so that she was virtually queen of the desert tribes as Zenobia of old; for 30 years this highly cultured woman led this romantic life, self-exiled from her home and all her family. Among these cliffs, like an eagle in her nest, she lived and died, and was buried alone in her glory, none but a few servants being present at her funeral.

Cites Coincidences

How singular the coincidence connected with her death and that of her early love, both died in foreign lands, but died removed from each other; both buried by strangers in the gloom of midnight, both laid to rest wrapped in the folds of their national flag; no relatives being present to drop a tear upon their graves. What a death, without a friend, male or female; alone on the top of the bleak mountains, her lamp of life grew dimmer and more dim, until it went out. Such was the end of the once gay and brilliant niece of Pitt, the great master of Europe.

After studying the proud, gay and attractive life of Lady Stanhope, Mary Whittier concluded to purchase the top of Carrick's Knob, and so far as practicable follow in her footsteps; building a mansion on its peak, she could feast her eyes on the landscape below, and bestow favors upon the poor of all the mountain with a lavish hand. So infatuated was she with her plan she erected her tomb and wrote her own epitaph, desiring to set up a motto to govern her during her life and be an incentive for others to follow after her death.

Hartel Returns

She remembered Helen Hunt Jackson, the authoress, whose tomb is on the mountain top above Colorado Springs, and gladly did she adopt this mountain as her home and for her last resting place; here she enjoys the benefit of civilization on the one side, with culture combined, and sees degradation that needs assistance to raise it up, all around her; with an open hand she distributes from her abundance, until she, like Lady Stanhope, has these mountaineers her fast friends. The pathway to her house is dotted with here and there a traveler in all seasons of the year.

After this episode at Venice, John

Hartel returned to America. So stung with the sequel of that little tiff on the boat, for he thought of none but Miss Mollie Whittier, he sought for information and found the course she has pursued, he, through remorse, has pursued this course, he has taken, for I am persuaded that is he, has become a recluse, because she had gone from the world into a seclusion. That accounts for his selecting the present sight for his residence, from the observatory of which he can see the house on Carrick Knob. This was told me when I had means and mingled with society folks. They have their gossip as well as others. Since I am a beggar, and have nothing, I am an outcast indeed.

If I can, without damage in any way to John Hartel, insinuate myself into his good graces, I will do so honorably. Some think tramps have no honor. I am poor because I lived too fast, and my parents drove me off, but honor they did not deprive me of when they closed their door against me.

Former Student

I was a student at Mount St. Mary's college for six years, and these hills, and hollows are familiar to me, as to the natives. Tom's creek, how we used to swim in the old swimming hole and skate on the Sisters' dam; Carrick's Knob, Indian Look Out, when each year we planted a pole putting a flag on top, how familiar the scenes; old places to me, the old professors, the Clairvoix boarding house; why I am at home as to the scene around me. I knew many of the older people, old Leo, the cook, and Leo, the shakey, the small man with the big head; I wonder whether they still live.

It is no disgrace to be poor, but to beg it certainly is. I have concluded a course to pursue, I will notice the postman, put mail through the tube in the gate; I will

Emmitsburg

A number of the men and women in the service have written letters to the Lions club in appreciation of the "News from Home" sent each month to over 300 of them in this country and overseas. The following parts of letters recently were received.

Cpl. Irwin Miller, from England, writes, "Thanks for the news. Tell the folks back home that I am well, but looking forward to the time when I'll return, and I know that I'll stand on the square for one month—looking around." Pfc. Joseph W. Payne, from Italy, writes, "The country where I am is very nice. Rome is beautiful. I guess that you know that my brother, John, is in France. We are both shooting at the same target." Pfc. Norman Sheeley, from Guam, writes, "When I get back home I'll rest for a life time, and I don't care if I live for 100 years. I was in the battle of Guam. I did not see any live Japs, but plenty of dead ones. We landed on July 21st, and that was a hot day for the Japs. The weather is hot during the day but after midnight I use a blanket when sleeping. The mosquitoes are bad, and the rain tumbles down. I have not had any beer for three months, no ice cream. I am tired of the Pacific. I want to get home. I did not know that there were so many boys in France. My brother is there. We listen to the fight broadcasts three times each day. I bet that the boys now in France will soon be in Germany."

Pfc. Walter Sheeley, from France, writes, "Funny, this fighting all over the world. Only a short time ago I was roaming around the hills, just roaming, no worries, and here I am shooting at a human being. They look like we people. But, it is shoot or get shot. So I shoot. I'll be glad to get back home, and I know that all the boys will feel glad to again be at home. Soldiers away from home and under fire have thoughts, if combined after this war, will help some to keep from getting in another one—anyway, over night." Pvt. "Bud" Favorite, from England, writes, "I find the English people very friendly, and most happy considering what they have gone through during the past several years. I am going to ask a favor. Will you please let me have the APO number of our boys in England? I might be able to locate write a note and do the same. If when I tell him who I am, and he sees fit to disregard me, I will go away and keep my lips closed. If he deigns to meet me, I will be glad to meet him anywhere, if only to talk for a minute. I feel as though some fate has brought me to this spot, and for such a time.

GIFT JEWELRY ADDS ROMANCE TO CHRISTMAS

Your Christmas gift, to her this year can combine all the virtues of sentiment with the advantages of modern styling. If you choose the eye-appealing costume jewelry now on view at shops and stores throughout the country.

All the romance of years past, plus the craftsmanship of America's skilled jewelry industry have combined to produce really exciting fashions that are happily priced to consider wartime budgets, despite their luxury taxes.

"Memory Book" Jewelry
Shades of the Victorian era... with dog collars, drop earrings and delightful coiffure combs are stealing into the accessory picture for the holiday season. Glinting stones, cleverly simulated pearls and shell-like plastics are yours to choose from at your favorite jewelry counter, in gift suggestions that range all the way from the "precious" to the pin-money purse. Sets of jewelry, another echo of a generation ago, are popular in this latter day, and make memorable gifts to any lady from her devoted admirers.

Other nostalgic gift suggestions include chatelaines, delicate pin-on watches, and bangle bracelets, all of which are enjoying new-found popularity for Christmas-giving.

Black To White
Jet jewelry, in a whole series of pins, clips, necklaces and earrings, is making its bow again for daytime and evening wear, and makes a charming gift to any lovely lady. Very "oldworld" in feeling, it's sophisticated yet charming, designed as much for the co-eds on your list, as for their young-minded grannies.

For contrast, there's a whole series of clear and jewel-toned plastics made up in all sorts of intriguing earrings, clips, pins and rings... delightful to match into your own choice of sets. Some are surrounded with brilliants, others rely on subtle carvings, to make the mail. I have not met anyone from home since I have been in the Army." A/5 Warren D. Grove, from Baltimore, Md., writes, "It doesn't matter what type of news we get from home, just so we hear something from home. I can imagine how the mountains look, for I live among them, and there is something that gets a boy when away from them and home. I hope you keep the Lion's letter coming to me."

O/C Charles J. Eckenrode, from Camp Barkley, Texas, writes, "Today I finished my fifth week in the school I'm now attending. If I'm fortunate and make the grade, I should be able to pay the club a visit along about New Years." He is in training for a commission in the medical section of the army.

Mrs. Eckenrode, and their son, Charles, now living in Frederick, visited friends here on election day.

Pvt. Jess W. Poulson, from Camp Berkeley, Texas, writes, "We are out on maneuvers, but I get the letter just the same. The weather here is nice but not as nice as that of old Emmitsburg." Sgt. D. J. Hass, from Camp Gruber, Oklahoma, writes, "I think that it is a swell idea to send the news to the boys, and I thank you very much for it."

The following boys have sent a change of address, M/Sgt. James VanBrackle to APO, San Francisco, Calif.; Pvt. William C. Ryder, to Camp Gruber, Oklahoma; Pvt. Edward E. Ridenour, to Ft. George G. Meade, Maryland; Cpl. John L. Harbaugh, to Boga Raton, Florida; Cpl. Charles E. Shorb, to Geneva, Nebraska.

most attractive and colorful costume pickups you've seen for many a day.

All told jewelry is the perfect answer for your Number One Christmas question... what to give. And it's pretty perfectly priced for your hard-working budget, too!

ARMY AIR FORCE HAS OWN ROBOT BOMB AVAILABLE

Wright Field, O., Nov. 24 (AP)—The Army Air forces has disclosed it had developed a "good" robot bomb that could be used "if we need it" and said the weapon had been in test flight since October 11.

It is a version of the German V-1 loosed on England last summer, the Air Technical Service Command said in relating how it raced to reproduce the Nazi terror weapon in 60 days and then sent it skimming jet-propelled through the skies a month later.

Furthermore, its launching ramp is better than the Germans', the ATSC said. The ATSC did not disclose the location of its proving grounds.

Maj. Gen. Bennet E. Meyers, deputy ATSC director, said "we may never need the robot bomb, for the Army Air forces do not go in for indiscriminate bombing attacks.

But if we do need it, we've got a good one."

10 Days for First Model

The ATSC's story of feverish days and nights in reconstruction of the weapon was woven through with tribute to men and industrial firms which produced the counterpart. Morton Alperin, of Wichita, Kansas, a civilian specialist, worked 20 hours a day running wind tunnel tests and shrank from 140 to 120 pounds.

The morning of July 4, Myers called in a group of aviation's ablest experts and said the Air forces wanted an exact copy of the V-1, wanted a lot of them, and fast.

The men went to work and divided up the task among various war plants. On July 9, Lt. Tom Wigglesworth flew in from England with sections of unexploded but badly-battered bombs.

The V-1 is a complicated weapon at best but it took just 10 days after the fragments had arrived from England an engine was running. It had some German parts and some American, and it worked.

Each million cartridges for small arms require about 38,000 pounds of copper.

GIFTS TO ADD CHARM ALWAYS PLEASE MILADY

There's no getting away from it—the way to a woman's heart is via the path of beauty. And especially at Christmas time, there isn't a lady who isn't concentrating on loveliness. This holiday season is particularly appropriate for tributes to her feminine charm, since furloughs, home-comings and special celebrations are more and more the order of the day.

Sentimentally Speaking

Something fragrant, something dainty in toiletries, perfume or cosmetics is bound to win her enthusiastic approval, and you'll find any number of exciting suggestions on view now at the beauty counter of your favorite shop. Everything is attractively packaged for holiday giving, and this year, for the first time, you are likely to find some of the much heralded plastic containers and other postwar designs ready for gift selection.

Perfumes, colognes and toilet waters are available this year in a host of delightful fragrances that vary from the light, sprightly wild-flower scents to the more exotic and sophisticated odors. Despite the fact that France and other countries have not exported to America since the war, our own native perfume industry has made great strides in creating lovely fragrances that are true tributes to milady's loveliness. And even with the so-called luxury tax, most of them are still much in the budget-priced bracket. All of our American essences are as attractive for their charming container and packages as for the lingering loveliness of their scents. Many come in containers that are charming assets to boudoirs and dressing tables long after their contents have been used.

"Matched" Sets

Many of our leading perfumers and cosmetic specialists have developed whole groups of "matching toiletries" in the same delightful fragrance so that it is now possible to choose perfume, toilet water, powders and sachets to fit the moment as well as the mood.

Lipstick and nail-polish combinations, a relatively new departure, are available in any number of delightful gift packages and make charming holiday prizes or "in the stocking" pickups.

Among the more popular and colorful toiletry lines are several with a real American "flavor" . . . in the fresh, spicy scents of the toiletries themselves as well as in the crisp charm of the packages. These come in a full line of products, including soap and bath salts, and are guaranteed to please ladies of every age and taste. Individually or in sets, these Yankee-inspired preparations have a personality all their own and are as inexpensive as they are effective.

Gentlemen, We Give You . . .

And lest we forget, there are gift boxes of every size and shape to choose from, and even a lone, inexperienced male will find expert advice and wise counsel at the counter of any department store or specialty shop beauty aisle. America's most famous branded beauty lines are displayed for his quick, easy selection, and there are sizes and prices to meet his gift budget perfectly.

And speaking of the gentlemen, bless 'em . . . let's not forget all the

LAUGH - LIGHTS ON FRONT WITH YANKEE TROOPS

By HAL BOYLE
With the AEF in Germany, Nov. 15 (Delayed) (AP)—Under the American Army's strict non-fraternization rule, the soldiers are forbidden even to speak to German civilians under penalty of fines ranging up to $40 and $65.

That is something of a hardship when an occasional civilian, dropping the mask of servility assumed by most Germans, makes a wise-crack at the expense of the troops.

But Pvt. Chris Kacoyanis, of Somerville, Mass., was equal to the situation. One day during a week-long stalemate in which the Germans held one end of a town and the Americans the other, a young German girl who spoke English stepped up to him, pointed at his head and said jeeringly:

Yankee Retort
"You know the German people regard the Americans as gang criminals rather than as an Army?" "She said that because of my short haircut," Kacoyanis said later. "Hitler had circulated a lot of pictures showing American convicts and because most of us soldiers had our hair cut short, she was trying to imply we all were from the jail-house too."

Kacoyanis didn't answer her taunt directly. He just looked the other way and said in a very loud and dignified voice:

"It keeps my head cool—and I don't have to see the barber very much."

Then he marched on past her.

Blame The Cooks
If the German Army intelligence hasn't been up to snuff recently, Hitler can blame the cooks of the First Infantry Division Headquarters.

Capt. Max Zera, who used to teach physical education in New York city high school was passing through the division kitchen when he saw the cook basting a number of brown birds.

"What are those?" asked Zera, his mouth watering. "Spring chickens?"

"Spring chickens hell," retorted the cook with pride. "These are

Sacrifices Beard; Sacrifices Money

London, Nov. 24 (AP) — Peter Freuchen, seven-foot explorer who escaped to Sweden in March from a German prison camp, altered his conspicuous appearance only by the sacrifice of his beard.

"There was a certain irony in it," said the Dane, now in London. "Just before the war I was offered a substantial sum by a Danish firm of razor blade manufacturers if I would shave off my beard and let myself be photographed doing so. I refused. When I wanted to get out of Denmark I had to pay to have the beard shayed off."

German messenger pigeons."

No Job For Surgeon
Major Edward M. Libert, a combat surgeon of Council Bluffs, Iowa, was sitting in his tent one night when a strange officer, mistaking the tent for an engineer outfit's headquarters, stuck his head in and said:

"Please come down the road and pull out a couple of bridges for us." "We've pulled out everything else for soldiers," replied the surgeon, "but we can't pull out bridges."

Annoyed at the German machine-gunner who sprayed a village street they were cleaning up, two doughboys got even by employing an old Indian warfare trick.

As soon as it was dark, T/Sgt. Walter G. Dunn, of Canastota, N. Y., and S/Sgt. William Widener of Logansport, Ind., hung several kettles and tin pans on a wire and strung it across the street.

Nervous Germans
They tied a cord to the wire and passed it down into their shelter in the basement of a German home. When comfortably settled for the night, they jerked the cord, causing the kettles and tin pans to jangle. The Jerries opened up immediately, firing hundreds of machinegun bullets at the sound.

After the firing died down, the two laughing doughboys waited awhile, then jerked the string again. Again nervous Germans began firing.

Taking turns sleeping, the two soldiers alternated at pulling the cord. Each time the enemy responded with fierce firing. In the morning, all concerned were tired and sleepy—but the Germans had spent all night firing down an empty street.

CITIES VYING FOR POST-WAR AIR SERVICES

By CHARLOTTE FITZ HENRY
Chicago (AP) — American cities are competing for postwar transcontinental air travel terminals. But planning experts urge caution, warning cities not to put millions into airports without thorough planning.

"A number of cities have already prepared maps showing they are the global centers of the world for air travel," says Walter Blucher, executive director of the American Society of Planning Officials. "What is needed is a little more common sense and less emotionalism."

On the other hand, William A. Patterson, president of United Airlines, says, "I don't know of a city in the country that has airport overexpansion."

Characteristic of airport planning are these examples.

Great Airports Planned

Dallas expects to have several airports. Oklahoma City hopes to build a $25,000,000 airport and to use a 27,000-acre lake as a seaplane base. Kansas City envisions a downtown-air terminal. Los Angeles wants a $20,000,000 airport with runways nearly three miles long.

Hollis R. Thompson, of New York, president of American Airlines of Mexico, says "Los Angeles is the natural welcoming western gateway of the United States." The same fortnight Seattle announced it was "about to become the hub of trans-Pacific as well as American operations" for another air line, after a company executive said, "Seattle has the greatest future on the Pacific coast."

The Minneapolis Star-Journal wrote: "Establishment of the twin cities as the hub of an international air route to Alaska and the Orient has been approved by an air line"—the same line whose executive spoke in Seattle.

Geography Not Vital

Blucher says, "Many of these cities fail to recognize that geographic location is not the important factor. Airplanes go where goods and people are to be transported."

"For years people have been leaving for Europe from New York," Patterson says. "It will be a long

Ask Investigation Of Lord Company

Erie, Pa., Nov. 24 (AP)—A circular was distributed among employees of the Lord Manufacturing Co., Wednesday, asking a Congressional investigation of the Army-Navy re-precipitating board in connection with the Navy's seizure of the company in a price dispute.

The petition states that it seeks "through Congressional action to remove from the employees of the company the stigma placed upon them through the wording of paragraphs contained within the Presidential order x x x."

A four page folder containing the petition and its aims was distributed at plant gates on various shifts. The folder was signed "The Committee," without individual names.

time before the airplane changes that habit. Chicago and New York each dreams of being the world airways hub. Connecticut sees itself a transportation center.

Cincinnati's planning commission wrote, "It is anything but visionary to expect direct flights to this spot from foreign airports."

Earl D. Mallory, executive director of the American Municipal Association, says cities are "trying to keep up with the Joneses."

Watch For Trend

Mallory, Blucher and Patterson agree that it would be wise to withhold part of the expansion until the air travel trend can be seen.

Mallory says, "It's OK to plan, but how do we know that a super-airport planned now will be suitable five years hence?"

THERE'S MORE TO REMEMBER THAN PEARL HARBOR!

Sure we remember the sneak attack of the Japs on Pearl Harbor—the infamous treachery of these vile murderers.

We were all shocked—made fighting mad, too—when we heard the horrible story of this "death march" on Bataan.

Yet that's the enemy we're still facing in the Pacific. Savages who care nothing for human decency—who know only how to butcher the prisoners they take and to keep on torturing them as long as they can.

We've got to stop them. We're going to stop them. We're going to avenge the American deaths they've caused—ten-fold and more!

But that doesn't mean that any of us can sit back and take it easy. It takes nerves and steel to fight this war—and it takes money—a lot of money. For we've got to fight these monsters in every corner of the Pacific—that means ships, planes and guns in an endless quantity. So let's buy that extra $100 Bond right now. Then another and another!

Let's help erase the Japs — with our Bonds!

"SCENTS AND NONSENSE —" FOR CHRISTMAS

By BETTY CLARKE

(By The Associated Press)

It'll be a sweet smelling Christmas—because perfume buying is bigger than ever.

Even G. I. Joe who doesn't know what to give Sue, Madge or Jane, will probably decide on perfume if the present luxury buying peak is any indication.

But he won't be able to give her anything cheap. This year Sue knows her perfumes. She's been buying them herself—the expensive kind.

One large perfume house reports that a recent magazine article which pictured one of their perfumes at three ounces for $120 caused a deluge of mail orders and phone calls, a great percentage of inquiries being from working girls. Even the white collar girl who is earning (with tax deductions) less than she did in 1939, has become a buyer of good perfume.

All-Out On Scent

Elsewhere throughout the nation it has been reported that girl war workers think nothing of a $10 purchase of perfume and of doubling it on for a single date.

On the crest of this voluntary purchasing wave, advertising has become more to the point. There is less stressing "of the mood of the moment," or the blending of perfume to the color of the hair, eyes or skin; fewer ads emphasize tricks like applying perfume to the elbow, in the hollow at the base of the neck, under the arms, behind the ears and knees.

Instead, the ad writers are frankly stressing the appeal to the opposite sex.

Nor has there been the need to depend on packaging this year as a big selling point. With the shortage of bottles, molds and paper, many perfumes are packed simply, minus the fancy bottle or expensive pre-war box.

Besides the furtive little men who dash by you whispering "Wanna buy a $50 bottle of perfume for $3?" everybody but the butcher seems to be in the perfume business.

Famous dress designers such as Hattie Carnegie and Elsenberg, and milliners Lilly Dache, Sally Victor and John Fredericks, who now has a complete cosmetics line, are selling the ambrosia.

This year there hasn't been much change in perfume scents. They range from the very heavy Egyptian exotic odors to the light floral scents and vary in price from $1 to $50 a dram.

Colognes Return

Because alcohol for perfumes was cut to 70 per cent of normal volume and later to 50 per cent, there has been a revival of the solid colognes which were popular a generation ago.

Some of these are put up in attractive compact form to be carried in the bag, others are wrapped in tinfoil and encased in a bottle when not in use. Still others are put up in sets with matching lipsticks.

Nope, you won't have any difficulty finding the right perfume for grandma, mother or best girl—not so long as you know what you want and can pay for it.

CIVIL AVIATION PARLEY ACCORD STILL IN DOUBT

By JAMES J. STREIBIG

(Associated Press Aviation Editor)

Chicago, Nov. 24 — Indications were strong today that the international civil aviation conference might go home without complete agreement on the economic powers to be vested in a world air authority.

While the United States delegation came to Chicago prepared to accept establishment of machinery for eventual development of an international aviation agency as a worth while achievement, its sights were raised after arrival when events showed a possibility that the meeting could go further.

Now it appears, however, that failure of the British and Americans to agree on two closely related items may force postponement of complete success. The items are the United States demand for a provision to permit carrying of intermediate traffic, and the British demand for division of traffic carrying capacity according to the volume embarked in each country.

Important Items

Intermediate traffic would be that picked up or dropped at stops between two terminal cities on runs. For instance, if Paris and Berlin were on stops on a New York to Moscow route, under the American plan ships would be permitted to pick up passengers in Paris and allow them to disembark in Berlin.

Both items are of great importance if there is to be economic controls for world airlines when peace comes. The Americans say that restriction of potential traffic to that originating in or destined for the home state of a carrier would mean inefficient, uneconomic operation, since a plane could not pick up passengers at intermediate stops while outbound and could not drop them off while homebound.

Stenographers And Clerks Sought By U.S.

The Army Service Forces, War Department, is seeking hundreds of clerks, stenographers and typists for employment in Washington. According to an announcement made by C. D. Hertzog, regional director of the Third U. S. Civil Service region, "There is an urgent need for workers in the Casualty branch, the Prisoner of War Information bureau, the Memorial division and other branches of the War Department, Army Service Forces."

Mrs. Florence M. Lutzky, Civil Service representative, will be in Gettysburg at the U. S. Employment Service office, 20 Baltimore street, from November 24 to November 27 inclusive, to make appointments. Examinations can be arranged at the applicant's convenience.

Veterans, who are given preference in federal employment, are urged to apply. All appointments are made in accordance with War Manpower Commission employment stabilization plans.

Clothing can be made out of soy-bean protein.

DRESSING UP XMAS PACKAGES

By ARLENE WOLF

(By The Associated Press)

Maybe you can't tell a book by its cover, but you can tell a lot about a Christmas gift by its wrappings.

A sloppy looking, unimaginative package brands the giver as a wait-till-the-last-minute shopper, who just didn't have time to fix a pretty parcel. A neat but dull wrapping shows an absence of that good old Christmas spirit.

Fancy paper may be a little on the scarce side this Christmas—but that's no reason to put under the tree packages that look as if they hadn't quite survived a department store shopping mob. Even if you have to resort to plain white shelving paper, a few yards of ribbon, tinsel or colored twine can make the outside of your gifts as pretty as the inside.

A candy peppermint stick, for example, tucked under the bow on a child's package dresses it up no end.

So do little bells and Santa cut-outs attached to the ends of the ribbons. Plain white paper can be perked up with a sprinkling of gold, silver, green or red stars—you can make them yourself and paste 'em on. A sprig of holly or mistletoe tied into the parcel's bow is Christmasy enough to satisfy the most sentimental.

You don't have to tie all your gifts the same way, either. Try two horizontal ribbons instead of the conventional four-square arrangement. Put bows on the side of the parcel instead of smack in the center. Run a tinsel fastening around the narrow side of the box, ending up with a large bow in one corner.

Of course, you've given war bonds too—but even those sensible gifts should be pretty. You can make an attractive folder of green mat paper, decorated with Christmas seals and tied with a red ribbon. Or hang the bond on the Christmas tree, attached to a paper bell.

At the outbreak of war, the Chinese in the Philippines were mostly small shopkeepers; the Japanese were farmers, craftsmen and fishermen.

"HARD PEACE" IS URGED FOR NAZIS

Harrisburg, Nov. 24 (AP)—War Correspondent Larry Allen, of the Associated Press, says that unless the Allies impose "a hard peace" upon the Nazis, "we shall within 25 years from today be again at war" with them.

Governor Martin, sharing the platform with Allen Tuesday night at a meeting of the Associated Pennsylvania Contractors, spoke briefly, declaring:

"Production for this war is bogging down. We should renew our effort for greater production. This war in Europe should have been over."

The war correspondent, who spent almost two years in Italian and German prison camps, declared Nazi Germany is in the market for peace "but peace at her own price."

The people of Germany "are tired and irritable," he added, "and they would like to see an end to the conflict just as much as the people in the United States."

"Yet," he said, "the average Army officer or civilian tells you that Germany will never surrender as long as Hitler or Himmler live because the majority of the Germans believe that Hitler is the divine and that he shall yet find a way out for the German people."

Charles Duryea, winner of the first U. S. automobile road race, sped over the 100-mile course at the rate of eight miles an hour.

Three Fruit Crops Top 10-Year Mark

Harrisburg, Nov. 24—Production of Pennsylvania apples, peaches and grapes this year not only was well ahead of last, but in each crop growers were able to exceed the average of production for the 10-year period, 1933 to 1942.

While the State's pear crop for this year was 167 per cent above the 1943 harvest, it was 94,000 bushels short of the 10-year average, according to November 1 fruit crop surveys announced by the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

This year's commercial apple crop of 9,100,000 bushels is slightly more than 4 million bushels over the 1943 harvest, and exceeds the 9-year average by 14,000 bushels.

The 1944 peach crop of 1,886,000 bushels compares with 1,176,000 last year and the 10-year average of 1,628,000 bushels.

Production of grapes this year is estimated at 19,500 tons, or 4,200 more than the 1942 harvest and 1,650 tons above the average for 1933-42.

GIFTS FOR VETS

Harrisburg, Nov. 24 (AP)—Pennsylvania American Legion posts and auxiliaries were asked today by State Commander William J. Rhoads to provide a Christmas box at a rate of one for every two members to assure all veterans in Pennsylvania hospitals Yuletide gifts this year.

LOVE DOCTOR IN HOLLYWOOD

By ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood (AP)—Attractive Marian Spitzer has written dozens of short stories for magazines, stories long on satire and short or completely lacking in "love interest."

When she wrote her two novels, the publishers complained that they were short on love. Miss Spitzer refused to "sweeten" her scripts.

So in Hollywood what do you think they've made her? Go to the head of the class, Joe. Exactly.

"But please don't say I'm anything that sounds silly," she pleads. "It's true that quite often they hand me a script when they think a love scene needs something and perhaps I can improve it. But I don't pose as an authority, and I certainly don't want to give the impression that I'm better than other writers in this or any other department."

"Romantic Doctoring"

For all that, many scripts come to the Spitzer desk for that romantic doctoring while she herself works on the scripts for "The Dolly Sisters," story of the famous entertainers, and a film biography of O. Henry.

"I don't know how it began," she says, "unless it was some work I did on the script for Helen Deutsch's novel, 'The Last Best Hope' a few years ago. The script was extremely political as written—dealing with the Spanish civil war—and it had

Says Uncle Sam Gets Most Of Pay

Los Angeles, Nov. 24 (AP)—A movie director's salary looks pretty good on paper, King Vidor says, but he and his former wife, Eleanor Boardman, don't agree on what he has left after taxes.

She wants an allowance for their two daughters boosted from the present $375 monthly to $750 on the ground he has been earning $4,000 a week.

Vidor's lawyer told Judge Dudley Valentine: "He can't support his daughters on money that belongs to the government for taxes, he had only $13,000 last year after all deductions."

The case was taken under advisement.

to be changed into a love story. I changed it. Yes, that must be how it began."

As for the ingredients of a good love scene: "I think a good love scene is honest, believable, and devoid of discomfort or embarrassment to the audience. If it causes the high school girls to titter, it's not good. It takes honest writing, directing and acting to make one. Often the best love scenes are underplayed. I'd rather cite the love scenes between Ingrid Bergman and Humphrey Bogart in 'Casablanca'."

The "love stuff" in her writing career does not please her two sons, Eric, 13, and Tommy, eight. "They are disgusted," she says, "because I don't write for Abbott and Costello—or exciting pictures like 'Wing and a Prayer!'"

FARM PROGRAM AT HIGH SCHOOL

Methods to help solve the farm labor problem will be demonstrated at a farm meeting in the high school auditorium, November 30, sponsored by John C. Hartman, local Sinclair agent. All farmers are invited.

The meeting is part of the new farm work simplification campaign developed by Sinclair Refining company with the help of practical farmers and agricultural experts. Farm work simplification is an objective in order to eliminate unnecessary time and labor in farming operations.

A new Sinclair motion picture will show work simplification methods being applied by farmers on their own farms. Entertaining features, including a full color musical, will also be included. A new Sinclair book on "Farm Work Simplification," showing how to save time and work, will be distributed. Door prizes will be awarded.

Difficult Problems

"Whether or not the present farm labor shortage continues," says Mr. Hartman, "the problem is becoming all the more difficult for the farmer. He is asked to do a bigger job than ever with his present inadequate set-up."

"That means finding ways and means to cut job time and get more work done. Sinclair has been studying the farm problem. With the help of government and college agricultural experts, also practical farmers, methods have been devised looking toward time and labor saving for the farmer.

"These methods," said Mr. Hartman, "will be demonstrated at a 'farm work simplification' meeting which we are holding in the high school auditorium. A new motion picture will be presented showing how farmers have applied simplification to farming operations with considerable savings in time and labor."

In 1810 Napoleon I offered a reward of 1,000,000 francs to any inventor who devised the best machinery for spinning flax yarn.

STATE SEEKING 150,000 TONS OF PAPER BY JAN. 1

The state Council of Defense today announced a drive for the collection of 150,000 tons of waste paper in Pennsylvania before the New Year opens.

Directing the campaign, which will be conducted by the salvage committees of county and local Councils of Defense, are Mrs. Worthington Seranton, commander of War Services, and Warren R. Roberts, chairman of the Advisory Committee on Salvage, of the state Council of Defense.

The drive, in which every county is being asked to participate, is to bring waste paper collections in Pennsylvania over the state's quota of 600,000 tons for this year.

Some Counties Lag

"Up to November 1, with 27 counties unreported, we have collected 447,310 tons of waste paper this year," said Roberts. "Most counties have done a splendid job in this vital war salvage program. A few have lagged. However, it was late in the year before many of the salvage committees really got going. Now it is up to all of us to put forth every effort to make up for what we failed to do early last spring."

"State collections of wastepaper last January amounted to only 22,133 tons. It increased successively to 31,110 tons in February, 34,440 tons in March, 38,684 tons in April, 43,928 tons in May, 54,461 tons in June, 57,190 tons in July, 60,471 tons in August. September was the first month in which we failed to increase collections. We collected 59,179 tons in September. Forty of the state's 67 counties have reported collections of 45,724 tons in October."

Mills Need Paper

"Pennsylvania always has done its full part in all war activities. In salvage, we always have been among the leaders. The 600,000-ton goal for this year is this State's share of the 8,000,000 tons of waste paper that the War Production Board told us would have to be collected in 1944 to meet military requirements and essential civilian needs. Pennsylvania can and must do its full part."

"We are especially concerned at this time, too, over the situation in the paper mills of Pennsylvania. They are not producing their full capacity of paperboard simply because they lack waste paper for that purpose. They are operating on a hand-to-mouth basis, some with meager inventories and some with virtually none. We are most anxious, above all, to keep the mills of this State plentifully supplied with waste paper."

Local Appeal

Dr. Eugene Elgin, of East Berlin, chairman of the county salvage committee, urged all countians to make "an intensive effort to collect every available piece of scrap paper to help the state reach its quota."

He also urged householders to bundle their scrap paper and place the salvaged material on the curbs in time for the firemen to collect it on the announced dates.

Doctor Elgin said that 129,360 pounds of tin cans had been salvaged in Adams county during October, most of which came from the county canning plant where canned apples were re-processed recently.

100 DADS-SONS ATTEND DINNER

Approximately 100 persons attended the ninth annual fathers and sons banquet at the Grace Lutheran church, Two Taverns, last Friday evening in the parish hall.

Dr. Carl C. Rassmussen, of the Lutheran Theological seminary faculty, delivered the main address. The Rev. Dr. J. M. Myers, pastor of the church, acted as toastmaster. A tribute, "To Our Sons," was given by B. B. Bowers, and Clair Bowers made the response.

Music during the evening was provided by Prof. Richard B. Shade, supervisor of music in the Gettysburg public schools and minister of music at St. James Lutheran church. Clara Trostle was the song leader.

Decorations for the table consisted of candles and fall flowers. Members of the Ladies' Aid society of the church served the turkey dinner.

IN MERCHANT MARINE

Merle C. Myers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Myers, Gettysburg, has enlisted in the Merchant Marines. He left last Friday for Sheepshead Bay, New York, for training.

SELLS FARM

Albert Starnes, has sold his 26-acre poultry and truck farm in Cumberland township, to Richard P. Vincent, Baltimore. Possession will be given December 1. C. A. Heiges made the transfer.

Bomber Officers Guests At Dinner

1st Lt. Raymond W. Spahr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Spahr, Gettysburg, returned home on Monday after serving more than 35 aerial missions over Germany and other occupied lands.

Lieutenant Spahr, 1st Lt. Harvey W. Dickert, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Dickert, Gettysburg, and 1st Lt. Vernon G. Keilholtz, of Emmitsburg, served aboard the "Mason-Dixon" bomber.

Monday evening the three officers, with Mrs. Keilholtz and Miss Jane Winebrenner were guests at a pre-Thanksgiving dinner at the Dickert home.

Lt. Keilholtz reports to Richmond, Va. on November 24 and Lt. Dickert reports to the same place on November 26. Lt. Spahr does not report until December 12.

SOLDIER TELLS OF EXPERIENCE ON FOREIGN SOIL

Pfc. Charles Kerrigan, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Kerrigan, 132 Chambersburg street, has completed his first "hitch" overseas. On his first anniversary in service on foreign soil, he wrote the following letter telling of his experiences:

Netherlands East Indies
"Today marks my first hitch overseas and I felt it my duty to let The Gettysburg Times know of my experiences."

"We arrived in New Guinea a few months back, where we received our advanced jungle training. We were located in a swill area where we lived quite luxuriously. However, we had to leave the sweet and get a taste of the bitter. Eventually we were forwarded to Dutch New Guinea to oppose our foe."

"Our first encounter was quite a thrilling one. We hardly knew what it was like to have returned fire coming at us. But now realize what it is all about, and the picture isn't so bright. Contending with mud and malaria seemed to be our major obstacles, then came the atrocious Japs."

"Later we were called on to make a larger operation. We made an invasion to our present day location and were rather dominant in our task. We are now in our recuperation exercises from the constant prowling through rain, muddy jungles and high sloping hills. Soon, no doubt, we'll have another assignment given us."

"For participation in front line duty, we have been awarded the Combat Infantry badge of which the majority of our organization has earned."

"We understand that Gen. MacArthur has invaded the Philippine Islands and is making steady progress. Soon, no doubt, we will have the ruthless Japs in their own back yard and be able to draw this war to a quick termination for a better and peaceful world."

William D. Stoops Sent To Norfolk

William D. Stoops, E.M. 3/c, has been transferred from Boston to Norfolk, Va.

He graduated from Gettysburg high school in 1934 and from a business college in York. He entered the Navy May 2, 1944, and received his basic training at Bainbridge, Md.

His wife and two children reside in Waynesboro. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Russell Stoops, Gettysburg R. 2.

NEWELL CAREY PRISONER OF WAR IN REICH

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Carey, Gettysburg R. 3, near Seven Stars, received word Saturday afternoon that their son, Pfc. Newell E. Carey, 23, now is a prisoner of the Germans.

A previous War department telegram received October 2 reported Private Carey "missing in action" in France. The telegram last Saturday stated that the War department had received word through the International Red Cross that he was a "prisoner of the German government."

Private Carey was serving with the 80th Division under General Patton when he was reported missing. He entered service in July 1943, and went overseas in mid-July of this year. In letters received prior to his being reported missing, Private Carey said he had been in action for several weeks. The last letter was received the end of September.

2 Brothers in Service

He is single and had attended the Franklin township consolidated school at Cashtown. For several months before his induction he was employed at the naval depot at Mechanicsburg.

A brother, Pfc. Ralph A. Carey, is serving in the infantry in France, and another brother, Pfc. Clyde Carey, is a patient in the Walter Reed hospital at Washington, D. C. Clyde was injured during a six-month stay in England and was returned to this country. Clyde and Ralph had met while they were in England.

HOME DAMAGED BY FIRE EARLY SAT. MORNING

Fire almost completely destroyed the interior of the Raymond Williams home in Gettysburg, in a blaze discovered Saturday morning about 1 o'clock.

Three trucks from the Gettysburg fire company answered the alarm but by the time they had been summoned the fire had gained considerable foothold and had crept into the rafters and the ceiling.

Firemen estimated damage to both the property and furniture at from $800 to $1,000. The house is owned by W. B. Fidler, Aspers.

Mrs. Williams lived in the house with her six-year-old daughter, neither of whom was there when the fire was discovered. Mrs. Williams had taken her daughter to the home of her mother-in-law, Mrs. Rose Williams for the evening. Two passers-by are reported to have discovered the burning house and broken down the back door in an attempt to save the child whom they supposed was in the structure.

Mrs. Williams, whose husband is serving overseas with the army, said that she had about $85 in cash and several war bonds in her bedroom, where firemen said the blaze had started. Mrs. Williams was taken through the house in a search last night after the fire had been extinguished but said she was unable to find the missing valuables.

The cause of the fire is unknown, firemen reported Saturday.

GIRL, 7, IS ILL WITH PARALYSIS

A new case of infantile paralysis was diagnosed in Adams county Monday evening bringing to nine the total of polio and meningitis cases in the county this year.

The victim is Mary Louise Moul, aged seven years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Moul, who reside near Hampton in Reading township. Their home was quarantined this morning by William I. Shields, county health officer.

Mr. Shields reported that the child's condition is not serious but that she has a marked weakness in her right leg.

The child is a pupil at Stauffer's school in Reading township where her mother, Mrs. Margie Moul, is the teacher.

The school has been closed for 14 days and will be given a thorough cleaning. The other pupils have been directed to avoid public contacts as a means of controlling spread of disease. The other homes of pupils in that school have not been placed under formal quarantine.

No general health regulations will be imposed in the county or in that section as a result of the new case, county health authorities said.

Issues Appeal For Support Of Sixth War Bond Campaign

"We dare not let down on the home front because some of us may think the war may be over, or because some of us may think we are weary. The entire world is at stake on the battlefield, but that stake is in the balance. We must keep on fighting just as hard and harder on the home front to give those fighting men and women the things they need to swing that balance in favor of a decent peace."

This was the admonition and plea of Benjamin Ludlow, of Philadelphia, member of the State War Finance Committee speakers' bureau, at the dinner-meeting of the Adams County War Finance Committee at the Hotel Gettysburg Friday evening.

More than 130 men and women volunteer workers were in attendance. It was the largest pre-war bond campaign meeting ever held in the county.

"With more than eleven million men and women offering their lives that this world might be a safe and decent place in which to live, we on the home-front must gird ourselves to an all-out effort to hurry that victory that we have been talking about so much. But that peace will not come until we have won it. And our effort is an important factor in that success. If we fail to carry on we are shirking our duty and we are depriving our men and women on the fighting front of the essentials to win that victory," continued Mr. Ludlow.

Sees Long War

"I personally do not believe the Sixth War Bond drive will finish the job. I believe it will take more bond drives because we have a long, hard way to go to win this global war."

"I have heard some say that they will not support this drive because they have some local grievance. I hope that that situation does not prevail here. A petty local grievance is a lame excuse for anyone who wishes to shirk his duty."

"When our boys return from the wars will we be able to face them and answer this question, 'Did you do all you could to win this war?' We will have to face that and we will face it without fear if we do our part now, if we help to hurry that victory."

"Let us all dig into this campaign and give our very all so that we can say to ourselves that we did help to finish this nasty job."

Edmund W. Thomas, county chairman, presided at the meeting.

He made a plea to the volunteer workers to give every bit of their time that they can to achieve the county quota of $2,290,000. He made an earnest appeal to the group to forget political feelings, local grievances and petty jealousies and work in unity to achieve the goal.

Women's Part

Mrs. Henry T. Bream, chairman of the Women's Division, spoke briefly on the part the women will play in the campaign which opens Monday.

She thanked her committee workers for the support they gave in the previous drives and urged a continuation of that support. She closed her talk with the following:

"For sale—a warm autumn day when the leaves have changed from yellow gold to burnished-brown and an 18-year-old boy named Jim or John or Pete will throw his football helmet in the air and shout, 'We won today, Mom!' . . . when a young husband will call his bride and say, 'I may be late to dinner, dear' . . . when a nurse will smile

Your Attention, Please!

We are making plans now for our annual Christmas Greeting edition from those in service to the home folks back home. You, who may have been in service a year will recall the Xmas edition last year. The same will prevail this year.

We want a special Christmas Greeting message from every person from Adams County in service to the home folks. Here's how it will work. Just write a Christmas greeting to your parents, wife, sister or brother or some loved one back home in good old Adams county. SEND THE MESSAGE TO THE GETTYSBURG TIMES. We will publish it in our Xmas Greeting edition and deliver the entire edition to your folks the day before Xmas. We do not want the folks back home to know about it . . . so please don't tell them . . . and DON'T SEND THE MESSAGE HOME . . . SEND IT TO THE GETTYSBURG TIMES. We'll do the rest. It will not cost you anything. Please send us your message now. Don't put it off. Your folks will enjoy this Xmas Edition if your message is among the hundreds of others.

$250,000 WILL BE PAID XMAS CLUB MEMBERS

Late next week Adams county mailmen will deliver to about 3,900 countians Christmas saving club checks from 11 county banks totaling nearly $250,000, the largest sum ever distributed by the banks to Christmas club members in this county.

A survey of the 11 county banking institutions in the county that operated clubs during the last year, showed that approximately 3,950 club accounts were handled and that the club members saved $246,773.90. In some instances the figures given were estimates with not all club accounts closed.

All checks will go out about December 1.

This year's figures are to be compared with $205,209 which was distributed a year ago to about 4,450 club members. The 1943 total topped by about $9,000 the figure for 1942.

The average check this year will be the largest ever mailed in the county to Christmas club members—$62.36. Last year the average check was $46.20; in 1942, $44.87 and in 1941, $39.

Several banks reported the biggest clubs in their history in spite of the fact that the club members do not receive interest on their club deposits. Only three banking houses in the county do not conduct clubs—the two banks in East Berlin and the Abbottstown State bank.

The club at the Gettysburg National bank again was the largest in the county. There 1,325 club members have saved a total of $78,912.60.

Second largest club was conducted by the Littlestown State bank where $44,700 will be distributed to 770 club members. The banks club members' savings this year top by about $12,000 the total for last year's club.

The club statistics reported by the other county banks follow:

The First National Bank, Gettysburg, will distribute $41,200 to between 550 and 600 members.

The Littlestown National bank reports its 400 members will receive an estimated $3,000, the largest sum ever distributed by that bank in spite of the fact that the number of club members is lower than the record enrollment there.

The Farmers' bank of McSherrystown has $23,500 to mail out to the 455 countians who hold club memberships there.

At New Oxford the Farmers and Merchants bank is writing checks totaling $15,300 for its 150 club members.

The First National bank of Fairfield reports 97 club accounts with $4,354.05 to be distributed.

The Biglerville National has $4,000 in 90 club accounts; the Bendersville National has 60 club accounts that show a total of $3,000, and at the York Springs National $1,000 will be mailed to the 20 club members.

The Arentsville National bank reported a small Christmas club but did not have complete figures to report.

All of the banks that conducted clubs during the past year are announcing plans for clubs in 1945.

PURPLE HEART MEDAL ARRIVES

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Smith, Gettysburg R. 5, have been notified by the War department that their son, Sgt. C. S. "Sam" Smith, 25, who was twice wounded in France, has returned to action again. The Purple Heart medal awarded their son.

Sergeant Smith was wounded first in France in June and returned to duty a short time later. In August he was wounded a second time and did not return to his outfit until September 27, according to the notice from the War department. They believe he is serving in General Patton's army.

They have not received any letters from their son but War department messages have been their only source of information.

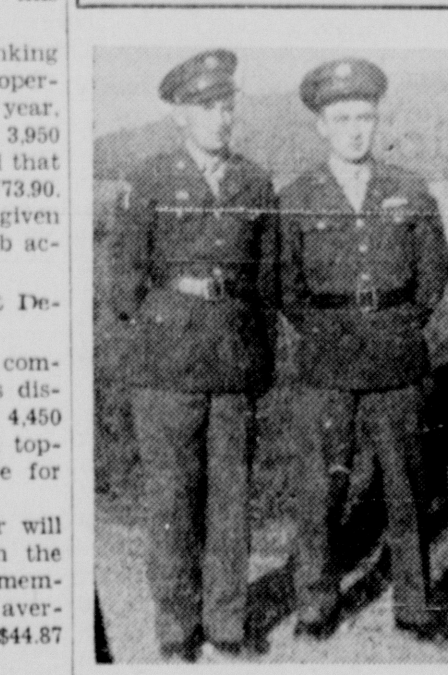

Three weeks ago Sergeant Smith's 18-year-old brother, Hiram E. Smith, entered army duty and now is training with an infantry replacement battalion at Camp Blanding, Fla. Sergeant Smith is a veteran of six years of army service.

TRUCK DRIVER IS FOUND GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

Edgar Franklin Grady, Harrisonburg, Va., was found guilty of a charge of involuntary manslaughter in the death August 19 of Frank C. Vanderwall, Gettysburg R. 5, who was struck while driving a tractor along the Lincoln highway east of Gettysburg, August 17.

The jury returned a sealed verdict about 12:15 o'clock Tuesday afternoon after deliberating for more than two hours. The verdict was read as court opened at 1:30 o'clock. Grady will be sentenced Saturday morning.

Denied Negligence

Testimony in the case was started Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock and took up most of the afternoon. Judge Sheely dismissed the jury for the afternoon at 4:15 o'clock at the conclusion of the rebuttals by Eugene V. Bullett, Esq., attorney for Grady, and District Attorney J. Francis Yake, Jr.

Bullett rested his defense on the assertion that his client was not negligent or reckless in connection with the Vanderwall accident and also the fact that even negligence in many highway deaths does not constitute a crime. He also maintained in his 15-minute rebuttal that Vanderwall's tractor was not moving at the time of the accident, but was stationary on the highway when struck by Grady's truck.

Yake asked for a verdict of guilty on the grounds of extreme negligence, declaring that Grady had no right to operate a truck upon the highway without first having the brakes in proper order.

During the testimony Grady had stated that as he approached the Vanderwall tractor on the highway he started to swing to the left, to the center lane, in order to pass the slowly-moving vehicle. Grady said he then saw a car approaching in each of the other two lanes and it was necessary for him to pull back into the right lane. He applied his brakes, he stated, but they failed.

In earlier testimony he had said that the brakes apparently had been damaged as he went down a long hill, near Coatesville, earlier that morning when he was taking a load of cattle from Harrisonburg to West Chester.

Appearing as the chief witness for the Commonwealth was Samuel P. Gillespie, of York, a potato chip manufacturer who was driving to the rear of Grady's truck when the accident occurred.

State Police Officer Harold Sheads, the prosecutor in the case, testified as to the locations of the vehicles, the condition of Vanderwall and George Ford, 71, Gettysburg R. 4, who was riding on a farm truck drawn by the tractor. He also told of Grady's statements at the scene of the accident and later that evening.

E. Eugene Baker, of Martinsburg, the owner of the truck, took the stand and told of the condition of the truck, both before leaving Martinsburg for West Chester, and after its return following the accident.

Hear Witnesses

Others who testified in the Grady case were James D. Knipple, a State police photographer, Dr. Bruce N. Wolff, Richard Gillespie, 14-year-old son of Samuel Gillespie, who was riding with his father at the time of the accident, and Miss Pauline Smith, who lives along the Lincoln highway near the scene of the accident.

Testimony was given by N. L. Hunter, assistant supervisor of enforcement for the Liquor Control board, and George E. Seesholtz, another agent.

Witnesses for Thomas testified that they had not seen the Liquor Control board officers in the Thomas garage and that they had seen no gambling going on in the building. They included Charles Markle, constable in Reading township; Charles N. Dicks and Lloyd Myers of Hampton; and Orville Zeigler, of East Berlin. One of the witnesses for the Commonwealth, Roy G. Miller, who was arrested and pleaded guilty to a charge of selling beer on Sunday, testified that he had sold the beer to the two agents.

Five Held For Theft Of Auto

Five young men were arrested in Hagerstown, Tuesday for stealing a car a few hours earlier in Carlisle.

Arrested were William T. Kuhn, Oscar Barrick, both of Carlisle; Herman Lloyd, Gardners, R. 2; Robert Dittenhafer, Carlisle R. 2 and Samuel Rohrbaugh, Newville R. 2, who were taken to Carlisle Tuesday night for prosecution.

The car which was stolen was owned by Earl E. Bigler, Carlisle R. 3, who works at the Masland tarpaulin plant in Carlisle.

PLEAD GUILTY
IN COURT TODAY

Three pleas of guilty were entered this morning in court after considerable testimony had been heard in the first three cases brought to trial.

Pleas of guilty were entered by Paul E. Whisler, Gardner R. D., and John F. Dick, York Springs R. D., both charged with different counts of receiving stolen goods; and William H. Dubbs, Jr., Gettysburg, charged with malicious mischief.

Dick entered his plea following testimony concerning the receiving of stolen gasoline stamps and the jury was discharged without having to make a decision. The same was true in Whisler's case. Richard A. Brown, Esq., represented the defendants, while Lloyd E. Whisler, former borough officer, was the prosecutor. District Attorney J. Francis Yake, Jr., presented the case for the Commonwealth.

Dubbs was charged with malicious mischief in the breaking of a screen door and other screens at the Panorama Inn, four miles south of Gettysburg on the Emmitsburg road, September 9. The proprietor of the inn, Lloyd Rothaupt, testified that Dubbs was involved in two fights at the inn during the night of September 9, and when he was told to leave "rammed his hands through the screen door." Dubbs later "kicked in two screen panels," Rothaupt said.

Sentence On Saturday

Attorney Brown, who represented Dubbs, entered a plea of guilty for his client while Rothaupt was still on the stand and the jury was dismissed.

All three of the defendants will be sentenced in court Saturday morning.

The jury for the Whisler case included: Harry Guise, York Springs; Roy C. Wolf, Cumberland township; George A. Carbaugh, Franklin township; Mrs. Edith Sentz, Mount Pleasant township; Hiram Thomas, Reading township; Calvin Ketterman, Franklin township; Victor Crouse, Littlestown; Mrs. Grace Snyder, Huntingdon township; Ross Stock, Mount Pleasant township; Clinton A. Swope, Abbottstown; Earl Smith, Butler township; Harry Little, Gettysburg.

Other Jurors

In the Dubbs case the following jury was called: Mrs. Laura Gallagher, Franklin township; Arthur Shanbrook, Mount Joy township; Miss Marion Biggs, Hamilton township; Earl W. Cashman, Mount Pleasant township; Victor Crouse; Mrs. Violet Henschke, Oxford township; Roscoe Worley, Conewago township; Mrs. Evelyn Chrisher, Mount Pleasant township; Russell Durbin, Cumberland township; George Conover, Mount Joy township; Earl Smith, Butler township; and John Hartlaub, Mount Pleasant township.

The drawing of a jury in the Grady manslaughter case was started at 11:15 o'clock and completed at 11:40 o'clock. Five of the jurors were challenged by District Attorney Yake and Eugene V. Bullett, Esq., attorney for Grady, before the jury was sworn in. Included in the panel were:

James Moore, East Water street, John Hartlaub; Mrs. Edith Sentz; Mrs. Grace Snyder, Gardner R. D.; Arthur Shanbrook; Hiram Thomas; Mrs. Evelyn Chrisher; Harry Guise; Calvin Ketterman, Biglerville R. D.; Victor Crouse; Earl Smith; and George M. Conover, Littlestown.

Awarded $1,600

Friday morning the court awarded $1,600 compensation to Howard W. and Lillie V. Kime, of Cumberland township, for damages done to their land during the relocation of the Gettysburg-Littlestown road. An original award recommendation by a board of viewers of $1,900 had been protested by the state. The petition to the court today for the $1,600 award was signed by John P. Rutt, Esq., attorney for the Kimes, and Eugene V. Bullett, Esq., as attorney for the Commonwealth.

Two divorce decrees were signed by the court. Georgia Pittenturf Brady was awarded a divorce from Louis David Brady and Ruth Brothers Melhorn was awarded a

Urge November
Mailing For Xmas

Postmaster Lawrence E. Oylar Saturday called attention to a renewed appeal from Postmaster General Frank C. Walker to the public to "Shop now and mail in November" in the postoffice department's drive to avoid a serious Christmas mailing rush in December.

"Extraordinary wartime conditions face us, Mr. Walker said. "Unless more people buy and mail this month the postal service cannot do its job of delivering all Christmas gifts on time." He said public response so far to the campaign has been "good but needs to be better."

He asserted that unprecedented shortages of manpower and transportation facilities growing out of the war compel early mailing.

"The way in which everyone responded in making it possible for us to handle a volume of 70,000,000 parcels for the armed forces overseas leaves no doubt in my mind that the November Christmas mailing campaign will be equally successful," Walker asserted.

divorce from John F. Melhorn. Costs were awarded to the libellants in both cases.

In a desertion and non-support hearing, Harvey Duncan, now of Baltimore, was ordered to pay up the arrearage in his support account. He is to report to the court January 19 if he has not paid up by that time. If he has paid, he need not report. His wife lives near Littlestown.

Harry E. McDannell, Franklin township, was appointed foreman of grand jury. Other members were: Miss Roberta Bittinger, Franklin township; Labian Breighner, Conewago township; William Bream, Hamilton township; John A. Cease, Criswell, Littlestown; Burnell Deardorff, Franklin township; George Kimmel, Reading township.

Mrs. C. Kathryn Flickinger, Littlestown; Irvin Keefe, McSherrytown; Bernard R. Kebel, Littlestown; John Teal, Conewago township; Charles A. Myers, Conewago township; Aaron Nace, Conewago township; Fred Nittle, Hamilton township; Mrs. Ethel M. Phiel, Gettysburg; Mrs. Ida Spangler, Gettysburg; Curtis Sponseller, New Oxford; Francis Strausbaugh, Hamilton township; Curtin Swope, Straban township; Edward B. Utz, Biglerville; and Mrs. C. T. Zeigler, Gettysburg.

Hear Surety of Peace Case

Judge W. C. Sheely dismissed the grand jury Friday at 3 o'clock without having the usual inspection made of the county jail and county home.

Following the jury dismissal, trial was held for Mrs. Airie Brown, Hanover R. 4, on a charge of surety of the peace. Mrs. Brown was charged with the disturbance by Mrs. Grace M. Bittle, Hanover R. 4. Testimony heard during the trial largely concerned the damage done to trees and shrubs on Mrs. Bittle's property and allegedly committed by Mrs. Brown.

At the conclusion of the hearing, Judge Sheely ruled that Mrs. Brown was not guilty of the charge and directed that the costs in the case be divided between the two parties. Costs are to be paid by trial Saturday, the court ordered. He said that "it was clear" that the argument concerned a boundary dispute in which "both parties had pursued the wrong course and sought the wrong remedy."

In a desertion and non-support hearing a charge against Clyde A. Barnes, of South Mountain, was dismissed and Barnes was ordered to pay the costs in the case by December 18.

J. Francis Yake, Jr., Esq., presented an argument listing some exceptions to the report of the master in the divorce libel of Roy M. Peeser versus Ethel M. Peeser. The court will study the argument and hand down an opinion later.

Son Of Local Man
Reported Wounded

T. S. Isaac H. Grogg Jr., 26, Hanover, whose brother Pvt. Jesse M. Grogg, paratrooper, was killed in England Sept. 30, was seriously wounded in action on Leyte October 25, a War department telegram received Sunday by his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Lau Grogg, Hanover, disclosed.

T. S. Grogg is a son of Mrs. Beulah M. Grogg, Hanover, and Isaac H. Grogg, Gettysburg.

T. S. Grogg was inducted into the army March 30, 1943, and took basic training at Camp Edwards, Mass. In January he was sent to Hawaii, and went to the Philippines in September. Before going into the army he was employed by the Firestone store, Hanover. He is a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Drum and Bugle Corps and is affiliated with Hanover Post No. 2506, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Hanover Lodge No. 227, Loyal Order of Moose.

RECOMMENDS DIVORCE

A master's report filed Monday morning at office of prothonotary at the court house recommends a divorce in the libel of Mae Bell Codori, Baltimore street, versus William F. Codori, Jr., of York. The libellant had charged desertion, indignities and cruel and barbarous treatment. The master, Franklin R. Bigham, Esq., recommended the divorce on the first two grounds.

CPL. R. B. NAUGLE
PARTY GUEST IN ENGLISH HOME

Corp. R. B. Naugle, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Naugle, East Middle street, wounded in August, was among a group of convalescent Yankee soldiers and airmen who were entertained early last month at a country house party at Eton village, near Northampton, England.

They were received at the stately country home of Col. and Mrs. H. G. Sotheby at Eton, birthplace of Josiah Franklin, father of Benjamin Franklin. Franklin's ancestors are buried in Eton churchyard.

The trip was arranged through the Northampton Friendship committee whose chairman is W. Cowper Barrons, managing editor of the Chronicle Echo, Northampton's evening newspaper. In a letter to The Gettysburg Times about the trip, Mr. Barrons reports that Corporal Naugle "is making fast progress toward recovery and is cheerful about everything."

Washington Link, Too

Most of the Americans who made the journey were men who had returned not long before from the continent. The group included casualties from the fighting in Belgium and France.

Eton village in the English Midlands links its history with that of the Washington family, too, whose ancestral home is 20 miles away at Sulgrave Manor.

An account of the Americans' trip to Eton as reported in the Chronicle Echo follows in part:

"Colonel and Mrs. H. G. Sotheby, owners of stately Eton, were hosts to the group, which was led by Lt. J. E. Kennedy, of Lincoln, Nebraska. Colonel and Mrs. Sotheby are notable war-time hosts for servicemen—British and Allied and American—and have done wonders with war-time supplies to entertain hundreds of U. S. Air Corps and Army personnel. To all a visit to 'the Sothebys' is among the happiest of memories."

"There are lots to see at Eton Hall. Fine pictures, fine period furniture and curios, rare books in the library, and lovely well-kept grounds. The boys certainly had a great time. They much appreciated the friendly welcome and two special features—a fine tea amid fine appointments, and the Franklin boathouse which Colonel Sotheby had prepared for his American guests. Lt. Kennedy voiced their appreciation, and said that the autographed photographs of Eton Hall, given them by Mrs. Sotheby, would be a cherished souvenir of a delightful visit."

"Lieut.-General Sir John and Lady Brown, friends and neighbors at Eton Grange, joined Colonel and Mrs. Sotheby in entertaining the visitors. Sir John, two years retired from active service, has the distinction of being the first Territorial (or Militia) soldier in the British Army to rise to Lieut.-General."

Mr. and Mrs. Naugle have little information about their son's injuries. They never received a War department notification. They received a letter from Corporal Naugle, dated August 23, stating that he was in a hospital in England. Their last letter from him was dated November 1 and he remained in the hospital.

He was promoted to the rank of corporal while in the hospital. His only reference to his injury was to say he had been "hurt on the line." He is an armor-gunner in the Air Corps.

Wounded Soldier
Is Recuperating

A U. S. Army General Hospital, England. (By Mail)—Struck by an enemy machine gun bullet during an attack near Metz, Staff Sergeant Frank R. Miller, of Route 1, Biglerville, is now recovering from his wound in the left foot at this United States Army general hospital in England. He has been awarded the Purple Heart.

"I didn't quite make the top of a hill we were attacking," said the infantryman, "but my men did. The medics were right along with us. The Jerries tried to zero an 88 in on us after I was hit, but the litter bearers got me out of there."

Sgt. Miller's brother, Senior Warant Officer Howard M. Miller has been in the Air Force twenty-two years. Sgt. Miller saw him here in England after a separation of three and one half years. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Miller live at the Biglerville address. In civil life Sgt. Oliver Miller worked at the Rice, Trew, and Rice company in Biglerville.

Each member of the board and office personnel responded with remarks pertaining to their work and the association which they have enjoyed.

The following members, husbands, wives and guests were in attendance: Judge and Mrs. Sheely, Gettysburg and their house guest, Mrs. G. Green; Attorney and Mrs. J. Francis Yake, Jr., McSherrytown; Attorney and Mrs. Richard A. Brown, Gettysburg; Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Golden, Bonneville; Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Weaver, McSherrytown; Mr. and Mrs. William J. Yingling, Littlestown; P. Lawrence Hoover, Mrs. J. Mummet, and Mrs. Grace I. Bull, East Berlin; Miss Amy M. Moore, New Oxford, and Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Freed, New Oxford.

Two Arrested On Disorderly Charges

Frank Thomas, Gettysburg R. 1, paid a $5 fine and costs following a hearing Sunday before Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder on a charge of disorderly conduct. Thomas was arrested early Sunday morning by Borough Officer Clark W. Staley, in Gettysburg.

Harry R. Seymour, Gettysburg R. D. 1, was arraigned before Justice Snyder on a disorderly conduct charge brought by his wife, Mrs. Margaret Seymour. He was arrested by members of the state police.

English Country House Party for Yanks

NOMINATE NINE FOR CC BOARD

Nine local businessmen and business places have been nominated for membership on the board of directors of the Gettysburg Chamber of Commerce, it was disclosed Tuesday by President Mares Sherman, who made public names proposed by a Chamber nominating committee for the three positions to be filled on the board of directors.

The election will be held at the Chamber dinner meeting at the Battlediel hotel, Wednesday evening, November 29, when members will be guests of the organization. The report of the nominating committee headed by R. W. Wentz will be presented formally at that time and there will be an opportunity for additional nominations from the floor.

The nominees are: Roy P. Funkhouser, Dr. J. Walter Coleman Edmund W. Thomas, the Gettysburg National bank, Richard Bircher, George M. Zerling, Dr. C. H. Johnson, Keith, Bigham and Markley, Esqs., and the Peoples' drug store. In instances where business places are elected they will name their representative to sit on the board of directors.

The names will be placed on printed ballots for use at the dinner meeting next week. The directors will be named for a three-year term. Chamber officers for the coming year will be elected by the directors at a meeting soon after the membership session.

DRAFT BOARD
STAFF DINES

Selective Service Board No. 1, with headquarters at New Oxford, celebrated the fourth anniversary of its organization with a turkey banquet at Schottie's hotel, Littlestown, Wednesday evening. This was the second affair of its kind, the first one having been held on the board's second anniversary in 1942 in New Oxford. The banquet table was decorated with fall flowers and the favors and place cards were miniature turkeys and footballs mounted on chocolate.

Judge W. C. Sheely, Gettysburg, was the guest speaker. He told how local boards were selected and their functioning during the past four years.

Mrs. Laura S. Freed, New Oxford, chief clerk to the board, gave a resume of the work done by the board since its organization. She announced that the chairman of the board, William J. Yingling, Littlestown, had a one hundred per cent attendance record for the four years. He attended the 194 meetings which were held. This did not include trips for induction and pre-induction calls. Mrs. Freed missed only one of the 194 meetings and that was due to illness.

A special court order was issued waiving the regular three-day waiting period. Young Meckley is on leave from the Army and has been in service four years. He was at Pearl Harbor December 7, 1941, when the Japs attacked, and also took part in the battle of Midway. He will report for further duty in the Pacific theater on the anniversary of Pearl Harbor day this year.

The couple expected to be married Tuesday in Hanover.

MAKE FAVORS

Members of the Caroline Codori Girl Scout troop made 50 favors this week for the trays of patients at the Warner hospital on Thanksgiving.

Calvin R. Shultz is receiving his mail in care of the fleet post office at New York city.

Matthew H. Lopp Is Reported Wounded

S. S. C. Matthew Hilderbrand Lopp, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lopp, of Gettysburg, was wounded in action October 24, according to a War department telegram received Monday by his parents.

Seaman Lopp entered the Navy last March, and went overseas in April. He was stationed on the New Hebrides islands before being assigned to a war ship in July.

TUBERCULOSIS
ANNUAL APPEAL

Four hundred and eighty thousand Christmas seals to finance the work of the Adams County Tuberculosis society for the coming year will be distributed among more than 4,700 residents and organizations this week.

Last year the seal sale, one of the most successful in the experience of the county society, netted more than $2,200.

The letter which accompanies the seals goes out over the signature of L. C. Keefeauver, president of the county tuberculosis society.

In it the society points to its "worthwhile program in discovering and preventing tuberculosis among high school pupils in the county." The employment of a nurse, Mrs. Elizabeth Straight, who contacts school principals and does follow-up work with home visits whenever pupils show a positive reaction to the tuberculin test, is announced.

List Society Goals

Employment of a nurse on a full time basis is listed as one of the society's goals and it is pointed out that the return of men and women to the county from the armed forces will make greater demands upon the society and adds: "We certainly want to be in position to help them. The extent to which we shall be able to do this will depend upon your cooperation in buying and using the Christmas seals."

The society's executive board included Ralph Z. Oylar, first vice president; Miss Dorothy Warner, second vice president; Miss Margaret McMillan, secretary; Miss Helen Spangler, executive secretary, and W. A. Keeney, treasurer, and 19 representatives of county communities.

This is the 40th anniversary of the seal sale plan. This year's seal carries a modernistic picture of a postman holding an envelope in his upraised hand. The design was selected in memory of Elmer Holtschlag, Danish postal clerk, who first had the idea of selling Christmas seals.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Hattie M. Grove, widow of Andrew F. Grove; a sister, Miss Rosea Grove, at home; a brother, Lt. Francis Grove, who is based in England as pilot of a fighter plane, and two step-sisters, Mrs. Dewey Collins, Gettysburg and Mrs. Roy Kessler, East Middle street, Hanover.

Couple Issued
License To Wed

A marriage license was issued Thursday at court house to Geo. William Meckley, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Gise, Hanover, and Pearl Audrey Shaffer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark C. Shaffer, Abbottstown.

A special court order was issued waiving the regular three-day waiting period. Young Meckley is on leave from the Army and has been in service four years. He was at Pearl Harbor December 7, 1941, when the Japs attacked, and also took part in the battle of Midway. He will report for further duty in the Pacific theater on the anniversary of Pearl Harbor day this year.

The couple expected to be married Tuesday in Hanover.

5 HIGH SCHOOLS HAVE ENROLLED
IN JR. RED CROSS

Five high schools in the county have completed their enrolment in the Junior Red Cross. Mrs. Margaret Beiler, Junior Red Cross secretary, announced Wednesday.

Included in the group were Gettysburg, Fairfield, York Springs, Biglerville and Arentsville high schools. Fairfield leads all of the secondary schools with the highest average contribution per student although the Gettysburg high school gave the largest amount. Fairfield, with 86 pupils, gave $18. Gettysburg contributed $116.72; Biglerville, $51, and Arentsville, $11.

A total of 1,249 high school pupils are enrolled, Mrs. Beiler announced, while 4,492 elementary pupils from 135 schools have joined the Junior Red Cross for the year.

New Contributors

She listed new contributors from seven additional elementary schools in this morning's report. Included were: Centennial Hall, $3.50; Littlestown parochial, $3; Conewago Chapel, $3; Fairview school, Mount Joy township, $1; Mount Pleasant primary, Conewago township, $2.50; Grayson's, $1.70; and the Arentsville grades, $10.

Mrs. Beiler made a plea that all of the schools turn in their enrolment fees by the end of November. Her office is at the local offices of the local chapter of the American Red Cross on Baltimore street.

The Junior Red Cross secretary also announced that members in the Gettysburg high school had made nut cups and favors for the guards at the local prisoner of war camp for Thanksgiving. The Junior Red Cross will provide nuts, candy and cookies for the guards.

Step-Brother Dies
After Leyte Action

Cpl. Llewellyn A. Grove, 24, son of Mrs. Hattie M. Grove, 9 Linden avenue, Hanover, died October 28 on Leyte as a result of wounds received in action. The casualty was listed with the first reports by the War department since the return of the United States forces to the Philippines.

Cpl. Grove was one of a number of Hanover youths attached to an anti-aircraft unit which participated in the invasion of the Philippines. He entered the service in April, 1943, trained at Camp Edwards, Mass., and went from there to Hawaii, where he was stationed for about ten months. From Hawaii he went to Leyte. Cpl. Grove was a graduate of the Hanover high school in the class of 1938.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Hattie M. Grove, widow of Andrew F. Grove; a sister, Miss Rosea Grove, at home; a brother, Lt. Francis Grove, who is based in England as pilot of a fighter plane, and two step-sisters, Mrs. Dewey Collins, Gettysburg and Mrs. Roy Kessler, East Middle street, Hanover.

Pvt. H. J. Jeffcoat
Is Wounded Abroad

Pvt. Harry J. Jeffcoat, 29, of Mt. Hope, was slightly wounded in action November 8, the War Department notified his wife, Mrs. Blanche K. Jeffcoat, by telegram Monday.

Private Jeffcoat, who was serving with an infantry outfit, was with General Patton's Army, Mrs. Jeffcoat believes. He went overseas in the middle of June, going first to England and then to France.

He entered the Army in May 1943, having been employed previously at the Letternkeny ordinance depot at Chambersburg. After training at Camp Shelby, Miss., he was sent to Fort George G. Meade, Md., and later left for overseas duty.

Countian's Group
Cited By President

A 12th AAF B-26 Marauder Base—Sergeant Wilford H. Spangler of Aspers R. 1, aviation munition worker, has served overseas 22 months with the AAF's oldest B-26 Marauder group, which has been cited by the President for "outstanding performance of duty in armed conflict with the enemy," during a January 13, 1944 mission over Rome Ciampino North and South Air-dromes, in preparation for the Allied landings at Nettuno, Italy on January 22, 1944.

He is entitled to wear the blue and gold framed Distinguished Unit badge, the only army award worn above the right hand blouse pocket.

$25 WAR BOND
IN PHOTOGRAPH
GUESSING GAME

To stimulate interest in the Baby Bond campaign of the Sixth War Bond drive Mrs. Henry T. Bream, chairman of the Woman's Division, Wednesday announced a baby picture identification guessing contest will be conducted by Robert M. Lewis, manager of Rea & Derick's drug store, center square. The winner will receive a $25 war bond.

"The contest has been designed not only to sell baby bonds but to stimulate the sale of 25 cent war stamps and encourage stamp book holders to fill their books and convert them into bonds before the close of the bond drive," Mrs. Bream said.

Baby photographs of 50 Gettysburg and Adams county business men and women are displayed in the show window of the drug store. Each picture is numbered but not identified by name.

Buy Stamp To Guess

With each purchase of a 25 cent war stamp at the drug store the buyer will be given a ballot slip containing the names of the 50 individuals whose pictures are displayed.

The war stamp buyer may then identify the pictures, or as many as she or he can, by writing the number of the picture opposite the name on the ballot slip. The ballots are then placed in a locked and sealed container. At the close of the bond drive three judges will check each ballot to determine the winner, who will receive a $25 war bond as a prize. The bond is donated by Manager Robert M. Lewis.

Those whose pictures are displayed include:

Penrose Myers, Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, Dr. R. D. Wickerham, H. Earl Pitzer, Henry T. Bream, Burnell Buohl, Mrs. Mae Beales, J. Milton Bender, John W. Brehm, Robert M. Lewis, Judge W. C. TOWN RESIDENT OF '63 DIES IN WASHINGTON, PA.

Mrs. Mary (O'Neal) Crapster, 91, who lived here during the battle and heard Lincoln deliver his immortal address at the dedication of the National cemetery died last Thursday evening at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Maurice Waltersdorff, in Washington, Pa.

Mrs. Crapster was the widow of John Crapster and a daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. J. W. C. O'Neal. She was a native of Baltimore but lived in Gettysburg for many years. At the time of the battle here she was a girl of 10 years and lived with her parents on Baltimore street. She had recollections of the battle, the cemetery dedication and of helping to distribute oranges to the wounded soldiers in the various emergency hospitals here after the three-day conflict.

She is survived by the following children: Mrs. Guy Ourand, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. John Smeltzer, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Waltersdorff, at whose home she died; John O'Neal Crapster, Taneytown; and Walter Crapster, also of Taneytown.

Services Sunday
Mrs. John T. Huddle, Carlisle street, is a sister of Mrs. Crapster and Dr. John Alexander O'Neal, of St. David's, Pa., is a nephew.

LOCAL LAD IN LEYTE ACTION

S. 2/c James Radford Cullison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Cullison, 227 South Washington street, took part in the battle with the Japanese fleet off Leyte in the Philippine Islands on October 25. Cullison is the member of an aircraft carrier crew.

A release by the Navy describes the action in these words:

"Our planes were our only means of defense and most of them were armed for other purposes. We'd come out here to support the troops landing on Leyte, not to fight warships."

"But our bomb handling crews worked miracles in breaking out torpedoes and heavier bombs and loading the planes with a Sunday punch."

"When the flight took off that turned the Japs away from us, their shells were already beginning to fall within our destroyer screen. It was truly just a matter of minutes until our ship would have been under fire from their heavy guns. But due to the unexcelled aggressiveness and bravery of our pilots a desperate situation was turned into a great victory."

o'clock from a complication of diseases.

She was a daughter of the late Louis A. and Mary (Hemler) Baker. Mrs. Baker was a member of St. Joseph's Catholic church, Emmitsburg, the Blessed Virgin, Sociality society and the Altar society.

B. AND P. WOMEN HOSTESSES FOR TEA, PROGRAM

Forty members and guests of the Business and Professional Women's club attended the organization's annual Thanksgiving service and tea Sunday evening at the YWCA building at which special notice was taken of the national observance on that day of the 50th anniversary of the founding of the Young Women's Christian Association.

Devotions were conducted by Miss Betty Lou Saylor and there was a flute solo by Lena Hartzell, accompanied by Mrs. Elmira Dearthoff. Jean Spangler gave a reading, "Let Us Be Thankful," and Mrs. Helen Snyder sang "Teach Me to Pray" by Hewitt. She was accompanied by Miss Alice Snyder.

Principal speaker for the service was Miss Dorothy Keeney, president of the Student Christian Association at Gettysburg college and first coed to hold that office. She traced the beginnings of Thanksgiving observances in America to a service in August, 1607, in Maine. The first held in this country was in Maine but the observance to which we trace our Thanksgiving is that of the Massachusetts colony in 1621.

Mrs. Wentz Speaks

Pointing out that Americans may well be thankful this year for "our freedom from war's destruction and from famine" and for the fact that our nation was founded on the principle of freedom, she closed with a poem "Life Is Good."

Mrs. R. Wentz, president of the Gettysburg YWCA, spoke of the observance of the anniversary of the founding of the national organization in London in 1894. She said the "Y" now serves in 48 countries with a membership of 1,500,000 and another 5,000,000 "share in its work," she said. The main observance of the anniversary was held in Washington Sunday afternoon, she reported.

Miss Jane Wolff, chairman of the committee in charge, presided. Miss Dorothy Andrew, as chairman of the service committee, was in charge of the tea that followed the program. A number of "Y" board members were among the specially invited guests.

$240,870.75 In War Bonds Sold, 2 Days

Bond sales on the second day of the Sixth War Bond drive totaled $103,560, it was announced at committee headquarters on Wednesday. This brings the grand total during the first 48-hours of the campaign to $240,870.75, "an encouraging figure for the first two days," one observer said.

It was emphasized that the figure does not represent the total sales made in the county during the first two days. More than one-half of the districts are as yet unreported, although unofficial reports reveal that nearly every district in the county has made substantial sales the first and second day of the campaign.

"Many of our districts have not had an opportunity to report their daily sales," Edmund W. Thomas, county chairman, said Wednesday. "We are much encouraged by the official reports thus far and we are hopeful that our more than 300 volunteer workers will make every effort to reach our quota of $2,290,000 by December 7, the third anniversary of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor."

"As soon as the machinery of the Sixth Bond Drive gets into full working order we expect to have complete reports from each district every day and we will keep the general public fully advised of the official progress of the drive from day to day."

Women's Division

The Women's Division, with reports from two high schools, one grade school and one county district, added $10,100 to its war bond sales' total on the second day of the campaign.

At the headquarters booth in the lobby of the Hotel Gettysburg sales totaling $7,475 were reported. Littlestown reported sale totaling $75.

Delone Catholic high school at McSherrytown reported $1,525 worth of bonds sold thus far.

Littlestown high school reported $525 in sales.

Littlestown grade schools reported $500 in sales.

The following were added to the Roll of Honor:

Cpl. John B. Keith by Mrs. John D. Keith.

Pfc. Edward G. Crist by Dr. C. G. Crist.

Lieut. Donald M. Swope by Mrs. J. Donald Swope.

Major Murray B. Prazee by Mrs. Murray B. Prazee, Jr.

From McSherrytown these names were added: Delone Catholic high: T-5 Robert Storm by Mrs. Ethel Storm and A-S Richard Smith by Albert C. Smith.

SOLDIER TELLS EXPERIENCES ON ITALIAN FRONT

Emmitsburg.—T-C Cletus E. Cool, son of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Cool, near Emmitsburg, relates some of his experiences during the heavy fighting in Italy, in a letter to his parents. He has been overseas two years, and has been in a number of battles in the Italian sector. He wrote as follows:

"I have not had much time to write, and when there is an opportunity to do so, writing material is not always at hand. I have a rest period at present and I'll try to tell you some of the things that I have seen and some of the fighting experiences.

"We are now in an advanced position, right in the middle of the country, and nearly all the towns have been destroyed. The Germans left yesterday. The people are returning to find their homes gone, many of them just sitting down on the ruins and crying. I pity the children. We soldiers divide our limited rations with them. You see, we are living on field rations as we advance.

Thanks for U. S. A.

"I learned that the people of this town have been living in caves for a long time, some to escape the Germans and others to keep free of the bombardments. There is a cave under the church which has no roof, one wall standing, and about half of the altar. The Stations of the Cross are on the wall, and the Crucifix remains intact on the part of the altar which was left undamaged. You people at home must give thanks for that country of ours, the mountains at our door, the fine foods, and the freedom of life to all. I know that I will know better how to live if I am spared to return home.

"There are quite a number of caves in this section of the country. The Germans have been using them for concealment as they retreat, but our soldiers sleep and remain in the open and in trenches as the stench in the caves is more than we can take. In one cave were a number of dead Germans on top of the ground, but as always their shoes and much of their clothing had been removed. It must be that Germany is short of leather for with few exceptions a dead German is shoeless.

In Silt Trenches

"The Germans are sure dug in the mountains, and the roads are terrible. Mules are being used to bring up ammunition and medical supplies. A mule went down over the bank with his pack, tumbling end over end, and brought up against a rock with a broken neck. We recovered the supplies but left the mule to his long sleep.

"When under direct fire from the Germans, we live in silt trenches, like the ground moles out in the fields back of the house, and when we hear a shell coming, we grab our helmets and flatten out in the bottom of the trench, hoping and praying that the shell will not make a direct hit on our trench. But, often some soldier gets hit, and then the call, 'medic,' when it is my duty to make a run for the place where the call comes from, and frequently I am compelled to drop down into a trench several times on my way to the injured man. If the man is badly wounded beyond my ability to give first aid a doctor is called—doctors are in first line trenches, too, to give aid almost at the moment. The injured man is then removed to the rear. Our wounded men are expertly cared for. I have seen men so badly wounded that life was gone as far as outward observation indicated, but were revived and saved.

Deep, Sticky Mud

"The mud is something to write home about, deep mud, sticky mud everywhere. I am coated from head to foot, nearly all the time. When it dries on clothes, a soldier needs help to bend down to pick something from the ground. I stood my pants in a corner and they stood alone. I have gone days without a shave, without a bath, but please understand that such conditions exist only when we are on a drive to the front. We are taken back to rest camps at intervals, when other troops go on ahead to keep the Germans on the move. The winter will bring many changes in the method of fighting, I suppose. Anyway, it will be a swap of mud for snow and cold.

"We got the P.X. ration yesterday. It is the first we have had since landing. It consists of two Clark bars, and four cigars at a cost of thirty-five cents. Nothing like it to be had in this country. Sure made one feel fine to have something from the candy stores at home, but who could eat the candy bars with a dozen little, round eyes looking at you. You should have seen those children divide those two Clark bars. All the children got a taste. If and when you have an opportunity to send something to the children of Italy don't hesitate to do all you can for them.

Visits Rome

"I was fortunate in seeing the greater part of Rome. I was present at the Vatican once when the Pope gave a talk to and blessed we soldiers who were present. I made other visits to the Holy City but I did not see the Pope at those times. I saw the city of Rome from the top of the church. Rome is a beautiful city and very little damage done by the Germans, if any. It seems strange that the city was

Gets Posthumous War Decoration

Mrs. Charles L. Sharrer, of Emmitsburg, has received the Silver Star medal, awarded posthumously to her husband for gallantry in action with the 36th Infantry Division in Italy. Lieutenant Sharrer was killed in action.

Lieutenant Sharrer, a field artillery officer serving as an observer in Italy, in February, was decorated for holding his post despite heavy enemy artillery and mortar fire. A citation said he "disdained personal security in the face of tremendous enemy fire and tirelessly transmitted his orders until a direct hit upon his position killed him."

During a furious German attack, he continued directing his battery at a time "when accurate artillery fire was essential for the repulsion of the enemy," the citation added.

PAUL SCHWARTZ NEW PRESIDENT OF BANK UNIT

Paul M. Schwartz, formerly of Gettysburg and now cashier of the People's State bank of East Berlin, was presented as the new president of the Adams County Bankers' association at the group's annual banquet meeting at the Hotel Gettysburg last Thursday evening.

Other new officers elected at a brief business meeting which preceded the turkey dinner include: Vice president, Theron W. Spangler, assistant cashier and treasurer of the Littlestown National bank; secretary, Mrs. Dorothy Roomsburg, of the Peoples' State bank at East Berlin, and treasurer, Elmer W. Warren, trust officer at the First National bank of Gettysburg, re-elected.

These bankers were named to the association's council of administration: J. D. Miller, Biglerville, retiring president of the county bankers; W. M. Weidner, York Springs; H. B. Flaherty, New Oxford; Edmund W. Thomas, Gettysburg, and J. Preston Smith, McSherrystown.

Lauds Trial by Jury

Guest speaker for the evening was Judge Harvey A. Gross, York. He was introduced by Edmund W. Thomas who had been presented as toastmaster earlier in the evening by President Miller who presided during the early part of the program.

There was special music by the Wartime Harmony Aces of Harrisburg with solos by Carl Bair, baritone, and Harry M. Etter, tenor.

Addressing the group on the topic, "Romanizing," Judge Gross, veteran of 41 years of legal experience at the bar and on the bench, stated his "growing regard for the system of trial by jury in the administration of justice." Pointing out the value of the human element in the jury system, he declared "human hearts render justice in trials by jury. Through their knowledge of human nature, they are able to exercise mercy, which is the only concept higher than justice on this earth."

He explained the "uncertainty" of law by pointing to the human element in the interpretation and administration of law but asserted that "substantial justice" is rendered in 95 per cent of the cases that go to court.

Admitting that there is ground for criticism of the cost of court litigation, Judge Gross predicted that the time is not far distant when "courts will be open and free to litigants." He added: "Justice is one of the highest attributes on this earth and it ought to be free."

Comparing the trial lawyer to the surgeon in the medical profession, Judge Gross cited cases in his own experience to confirm his statements that there is such a thing as "luck and good and bad breaks" in court trials and that psychology is an all-important element in court.

spared when considering the most complete destruction of other cities by the Germans. If the German leaders talked with the Pope then I feel that I know the reason for sparing the city."

RAILROADS AND COAL SUBJECTS FOR ROTARIANS

Henry W. Garvin, local agent for the Reading railroad, spoke on "Anthracite Coal and the Reading Railroad," at the regular meeting of the Gettysburg Rotary club at the YWCA Monday evening.

Garvin gave a resume of the history of the fuel, beginning with its first discovery in America by the Indians. "Anthracite was first brought to the attention of the colonists by a friendly Indian. About 1750 the Indian brought a buckskin bag filled with pieces of black rock. This, he proved could be used as a fuel and thus the anthracite industry was born," the speaker related.

Anthracite was first used on a grate for domestic use in 1808. The coal fields of today are divided into three regions, all in northeastern Pennsylvania and total about 490 square miles, Garvin said. These areas produce practically all the anthracite mined in the United States, an estimated eight billion tons, he reported, and at the present rate of consumption should be sufficient to last for 130 years.

Tells Of War Services

The old Philadelphia and Reading railroad was incorporated April 4, 1833, and in 1837 had its charter amended in order to go beyond Reading into the coal fields. The first section of the line from Reading to Pottstown was put in operation May 1, 1838, and by July two trains were running daily between Reading and Bridgeport, near Norristown.

In a report of the service of the railroads during the war, Garvin said, "There were 45,218 passenger train cars in service in 1941. With this equipment over 23,000,000 troops were carried by the railroads since Pearl Harbor, and these figures do not include the millions traveling in small groups or on furloughs."

"This movement required the equivalent use of 196,000 passenger coaches, 334,000 sleeping cars, 103,000 baggage and kitchen cars and 148,000 refrigerator, box, gondolas and flat cars."

In addition to the talk on railroading, a motion picture on "Railroads and Their Part in the War," was shown. Thirty-eight members attended the meeting with Paul Koenig, of Spring Grove, as an additional guest.

SEEK TO FORCE SALE OF LAND

A suit asking for a writ of specific performance was filed Tuesday at the office of the clerk of the courts by Glenn W. Riggeal and James L. Riggeal, Franklin township, against Mrs. Gertrude Riggeal, executrix of the will of William H. Riggeal.

James and Glenn Riggeal state in their petition that the late William Riggeal agreed on September 5, 1942, to sell to them two properties constituting a farm along the road leading from Bingham's school house to Orrtanna in Franklin township.

Although they fulfilled their part of the bargain, the Riggeals stated, William Riggeal died before he complete the transfer of the properties, and that is what they seek from Mrs. Riggeal.

Glenn Riggeal was to pay $1200 and James Riggeal $1,000, the paper said. They seek specific performance of the agreement because the "premises in question are particularly valuable to the plaintiffs, inasmuch as they are situated in a desirable section of the county and they could not buy another property for the price at which the said W. H. Riggeal agreed to sell."

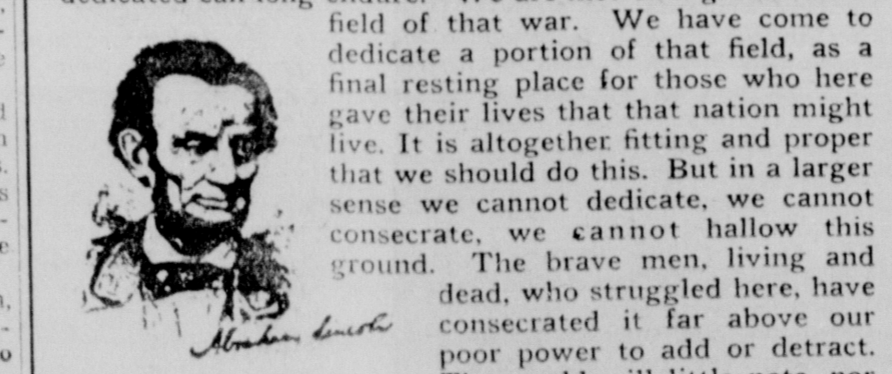

War Writer Meets College Graduate

Lt. Robert A. Brent, Harrisburg, a graduate of Gettysburg college with the class of 1943, was among those mentioned in a dispatch last Friday by Morely Cassidy, war correspondent for a Philadelphia newspaper.

Cassidy, who is with the Third Army in France, asked Brent for a message to be used in his dispatch. Brent said "Wish all my friends could be here with me."

Abraham Lincoln 1863 — November 19 — 1944

Fourscore and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated can long endure. We are met on a great battlefield of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field, as a final resting place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this. But in a larger sense we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here; but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion—that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain—that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom—and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth.

Dr. Robert Fortenbaugh of the college faculty served as toastmaster. Charles Crosley, a past commander of SUV camp No. 15 at Harrisburg, gave Lincoln's address. ANNIVERSARY OF LINCOLN SPEECH IS MARKED HERE

The 81st anniversary of the dedication of the National cemetery here and the delivery of Lincoln's Gettysburg address was observed here Saturday with exercises in the cemetery at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and a banquet Saturday evening in the Hotel Gettysburg.

Two local residents who heard Lincoln speak his immortal words here on November 19, 1863, and who shook hands with the Civil War president on that visit to Gettysburg attended the simple ceremony Saturday in the cemetery. They were William C. Storrick, 88, retired superintendent of battlefield guides, and Edward A. Trostle, 85, West Middle street.

The turkey banquet Saturday evening was the fourteenth held here on the Lincoln anniversary by the Past Commanders and Past Presidents association of the Sons of Veterans in this section of the state. A total of 128 members and guests attended.

Rev. Mr. Fox Speaks

William L. Meals, Esq., served as master of ceremonies at the cemetery exercises which opened with prayer by the Rev. Charles K. Gibson, local Methodist pastor. Lincoln's address was repeated by Brock-coated P. J. Kammerer, Newville, a Lincoln impersonator. A wreath was placed on the grave of an unknown soldier by T. J. Winebrenner, member of the local Sons of Veterans' camp.

The anniversary address was delivered by the Rev. Howard S. Fox, pastor of Trinity Evangelical and Reformed church, on the subject, "Little Known Facts About the Gettysburg Address." He reviewed the background of the dedicatory exercises and described the way in which Lincoln received an invitation "to deliver a few remarks" on the occasion.

He stated that there is much speculation about when and where the Gettysburg speech was written but that it is generally believed the first draft was made in Washington, some corrections made after reaching Gettysburg where the last part of the speech was rewritten.

"Two Gettysburg Addresses"

"Mr. Lincoln really made two Gettysburg addresses," the speaker asserted. "The one is forgotten as might be expected, the other will long be remembered. After Lincoln's arrival at the home of Mr. Wills, the good citizens proceeded to serenade him. In response to urgent demands from the crowd, Mr. Lincoln finally appeared at the door of the home and made his first Gettysburg address."

"He said: 'I appear before you, my fellow citizens, merely to thank you for this compliment. The inference is a very fair one that you would hear me for a little while at least. . . I do not appear before you for the purpose of doing so, and for several substantial reasons. The most substantial of these is that I have no speech to make. In my position it is somewhat important that I should not say any foolish things. It very often happens that the only way to help it is to say nothing at all. Believing that is my present situation this evening, I must beg of you to excuse me from addressing you further.'"

The Rev. Mr. Fox then spoke of the unattractive setting for the speech in the bare, grave-marked field at the edge of this battle-scarred community. He told of the praise for the Gettysburg speech written to the president later by Edward Everett, who delivered a two-hour oration here before Lincoln spoke. Mr. Fox concluded by observing that "It is doubtful if Lincoln was ever conscious of the fact that his own Gettysburg address was the real climax of all American eloquence."

The exercise closed with the benediction by the Rev. Mr. Gibson.

Speech Here "No Accident"

In his address at the Lincoln banquet Saturday evening at the Hotel Gettysburg, Dean W. E. Tilberg of Gettysburg college declared that the greatness of the Gettysburg address was "no accident."

He cited other famed Lincoln speeches he described as "almost as great" and included on the list the famous "house divided" speech, the first inaugural, his answer to Greeley, and the second inaugural.

The speaker discussed Lincoln's pioneering background training in Kentucky, Indiana and Illinois and found sources of his greatness as a lawyer, leader and statesman in those early influences.

SQUIRES TAKE FINAL CONTEST BY 33-0 SCORE

The Delone Catholic high school football team of McSherrystown turned back the Harrisburg Catholic high eleven in a game played at McSherrystown Sunday, winning by a score of 33 to 0, before a large crowd. The contest was the last of the season for both teams.

Four of five touchdowns scored by the Delone Catholic high griders were scored on passes and the other six-pointer was set up on a pass.

The first two touchdowns came in the first period, with Sneringer and H. Noel getting them on long passes from W. Noel.

In the second quarter two more touchdowns were produced. The first of the two touchdowns in the second session was scored after a pass interception on which the ball was taken from mid-field to the Harrisburg 10-yard line, from which Keefe went to the goal line on two plunges. Later in the period Keefe scored again on a pass.

The scoring ended in the third quarter, when W. Noel passed from the 50-yard line to Sneringer at the Harrisburg 35 and Sneringer went on for a touchdown.

The Delone team held its opponent's attack well in check throughout the contest.

Harrisburg Catholic high's team finished the season with a record of three wins and six losses. Delone Catholic high closed with six wins and four defeats, having won its last six games.

SS LEADERSHIP SCHOOL CLOSES SESSIONS HERE

Distributing credits to the 44 students who completed their training courses and electing officers for the next year, the Adams County Leadership Training school closed its annual sessions at the St. James Lutheran church, Gettysburg, Monday evening.

The school, sponsored by the Adams County Council of Christian Education, opened November 2 and held classes each Monday and Thursday until the final classes were held Monday evening.

Thirteen county churches were represented in the student body of the school that included 38 Lutherans, 10 Methodists, four Presbyterians, three United Brethren members and two from the Reformed church.

New officers for the school were named at the annual business session Monday evening.

The Rev. Nevin Frantz, Arendtsville Reformed pastor, was selected as president to succeed the Rev. George E. Sheffer, New Oxford. The Rev. Earl N. Rowe, York Springs-Hunterstown Methodist pastor, was named secretary; treasurer, Walter A. Keeney, Gettysburg; dean, C. C. Culp, Gettysburg, re-elected, and registrar, Miss Mildred Moser, Gettysburg.

The Rev. Mr. Sheffer was re-elected to the board of directors for a three-year term and these new directors were named for the same term: The Rev. George S. Stoneback, Fairfield; the Rev. Mr. Rowe and Walter A. Keeney, Gettysburg.

The Rev. Charles K. Gibson, local Methodist pastor, was named as a director for one year to fill the vacancy caused by the transfer of the Rev. N. B. S. Thomas out of the county.

Closing devotions were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Dwight F. Putman. Plans are being made for another session of the leadership school next fall.
